U. S. 3d Army Seizes 40 Towns in Saar-Moselle Triangle

ARMOR DASHES THRU GAP TORN BY DOUGHBOYS

Yanks Reach River on 8 Mile Front.

PARIS, Feb. 21 (AP).—Lt. Gen. Patton's American 3d army fought into Saarburg and closed up to the Saar river on an eight mile front today, virtually eliminating all enemy resistance in the triangle formed by the Saar and Moselle rivers. This climaxed an attack that in two days had gained 10 miles and overrun nearly 40 German towns. The 3d army took 2,400 prisoners yesterday.

A 3d army tank division lost no time in hurling itself thru the breach torn in the enemy defense line yesterday by the 94th infantry division and quickly drove to a juncture with mechanized cavalry which had crossed the Moselle.

Armor Enters Saarburg.

Patton's armor—perhaps some of the same units which a few months ago made the spectacular dash across France—smashed into Saarburg, which straddles the Saar river midway between Trier and Merzig, and then swept northward almost to the confluence of the Saar and the Moselle. Their advance of seven to eight miles was the best single day's gain on the western front in weeks. They cleared ten towns, including Onsdorf.

The 94th infantry division, which made the original break over the Moselle yesterday, swung eastward and captured four towns, taking a firm hold on the west bank of the Saar river all the way from Saarburg to a point well south of the bridgehead at Saarlautern.

Close on Nazi Salient.

North of the Saar-Moselle triangle Patton's troops closed in on both flanks of the German salient between Pruem and Echternach, reducing the Nazi-held sector of the Siegfried line in this area to less than 12 miles. They captured four towns and smashed into three others, including Dasburg.

Lt. Gen. Patch's American 7th army, to the south of the 3d, fought into Forbach and pushed to within three miles of Saarbruecken.

Forbach, an industrial center, was reported in flames as American and German troops fought thru its streets. Heavy enemy artillery and mortar fire raked parts of the city already seized by Patch's men. American forces also gained a bit more ground inside Germany in the Saar bend east of Saarbruecken.

In Sight of Saarbruecken.

From captured heights in Forbach Patch's troops had a clear view of the big German steel center of Saarbruecken, blackened by eight straight days of American artillery shelling last December. Three miles east of Forbach other American units took high ground north of Etzling which overlooks Spicheren and a forested area across the Saar river in Germany.

Between the Maas [Meuse] and Rhine rivers on the northern end of the western front the Canadian 1st army's drive toward Calcar and the Ruhr gained momentum with the help of hundreds of British warplanes. Canadian troops, using flame throwers, cleaned the enemy out of the small Moyland forest and there were signs the German defense line—built up to 10 divisions there—was finally beginning to crack.

Drive Germans Back.

With sunshine flooding the battle zone, Field Marshal Montgomery's forces drove the Germans back at points two miles from the road center of Uedem and cut the Goch-Uedem railway in a mile advance.

The Roer river, behind which all or part of at least three great allied armies await the signal to slam on into the reich, dropped two more inches in the last 24 hours and the speed of its current had decreased 25 per cent in three days.

Waves of fighters and light bombers—more than 2,800 sorties—ripped at enemy defenses along the whole front. Twenty-one allied planes were known to have been lost and 13 others still were missing at a late hour.

Tide Runs Out on Nazis; U. S. Officer Freed

BY LT. JOHN N. DIMLING JR.

[Nazi-held American army officer freed by the Russian march thru Poland.]

Lt. John N. Dimling Jr.

MOSCOW, Feb. 20 [Delayed].—One year ago I was in No Man's land outside of Anzio beachhead when a German counter-attack cut me off and I was taken prisoner. It was a mighty tough moment.

But last month, sitting in a blacked-out Polish farm house behind what was the German line, I had the thrill of my 30 year life. Off in the distance a bunch of us American officers who had eluded German guards that morning could hear the rumble of tanks.

"Lord, they CAN'T be Jerry tanks," I told my sidekick. "They sound like M-4s—Shermans."

The rumble came nearer, then passed on the road a hundred yards from the farm house. It blended in with people's voices shouting and screaming with joy in Polish.

The Russians Are Here!

A Polish farmer burst into the room where we were lying low. "Russky, Russky," he yelled.

I don't know when news like that could ever sound better. Then and there Marshal Zhukov became our favorite army commander.

The Poles, men, women, and children, crowded in and embraced us. They sang one of their hymns. I sang "God Bless America" and how I meant it!

Soon a Russian tanker poked his head in briefly for a few seconds' chat with our senior officer, a colonel who used to be with the armored force.

The Russian, thru our interpreter, said he was pleased to see us, shook hands all around, whipped out a bottle of vodka and proposed a toast to our common victory. We offered him cigarets.

On to Berlin!

"Got to keep going to Berlin," he said in Russian as he saluted goodby. And off he went. It was like that all night as the Russian armored spearhead, mostly Stalin and Sherman tanks, raced after the retreating German army.

I've never met a better type of rough and ready soldier than the Red army fighting men. All hate the Germans worse than anything else and all are determined to get to Berlin as fast as humanly possible.

The arrival of the Red army ended what had been a year of modified hell for me. You can't realize what freedom means to you until you lose it.

Four months before the American 5th army ever saw Rome the Germans marched me and hundreds of other prisoners from Anzio thru the Eternal City in a parade designed to humiliate allied arms in the eyes of the wavering Italians.

Captured by "Goons."

I had been snagged by "goons"—the name the American prisoners gave their captors—while commanding Company A of the 30th regiment in an attack in the direction of Cisterna by the 3d division. That was Feb. 1, 1944.

At Velletri they grilled us. An English speaking goon private sneered, "When our artillery comes from the Russian front we'll push your comrades back into the sea."

"How can you spare anything

LOVE MAKING WITH FRAULEINS IS MADE COSTLY FOR YANKS

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AACHEN, Germany, Feb. 21.—Making love to German fraus and frauleins is punishable by a fine exceeding a month's pay, according to nonfraternization rulings issued to G. I.'s. Even speaking to a German civilian draws a $5 to $10 fine and if a G. I. explains he was asking directions or similar information the retort is, "Ask the military policeman"—and he's still fined.

Some winners at craps and poker disobey the rulings. A private who cleaned up his company after pay day and was fined $65 for being discovered on a feather bed in the home of a German woman said, "It was worth it" as he paid the fine from a thick bank roll of marks.

1944 DRAFTEES, YOUTHS 18, IN CASUALTY LISTS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21 (AP).—Rep. Hess [R., O.] said today he had written to Gen. Marshall asking an explanation for the appearance in recent casualty lists of names of 18 year old boys drafted less than a year ago.

Hess told a reporter he informed the army chief of staff that in "scanning recent casualty lists I have noticed the names of boys who have been in service six months, seven months, and eight months."

He said he asked Gen. Marshall how he reconciled that with statements he said were made to congress by the war department in asking for a lowering of the draft age that it would be impossible to train battle replacements in less than a year and that 18 year old youths would be given a year's training before being sent into combat.

Women Build Barricades—Nazis

LONDON, Feb. 21 (AP).—Electric power is now cut off thruout Berlin for several hours a day and its women, both rich and poor, have been impressed into building street barricades, reports by radio from the German capital said today.

The Berlin radio also announced a 12½ per cent cut in food rations for all Germans. The broadcast said the reduction was an "emergency measure to help create reserves and provide a better basis on which rations can be worked out for a new period beginning in April."

Describing Berlin's last ditch preparations, the Transocean news agency broadcast said that "women, including ladies in fur coats, work in queues which pass bricks and stones to build barricades and strong points in ruined buildings."

"Machine guns rattle," the agency said, "as volkssturm [home guard] men practice house to house fighting in these ruins. Barricades and barbed wire are everywhere."

"A spirit of innate fatalism pervades the capital," Transocean broadcast as the city awaited a great frontal assault from soviet armies fighting little more than 30 miles away.

"The present calm is fearsome," said Dr. Joseph Saal, radio commentator. "The coming weeks will be decisive and every German must defend his existence at the barricades. Greater sacrifices will be required than any ever borne by any nation."

Increase Lake Diversion as Pollution Rises

William Trinkhaus, chief engineer of the sanitary district, yesterday ordered an immediate increase in the diversion of water from Lake Michigan thru the Calumet-Sag channel to rid cribs off E. 68th st. of what was described by John R. Baylis, city water purification engineer, as a dangerous pollution threat.

At the request of Public Works Commissioner Hewitt, the flow for one week is to be stepped up from 750 to 1,500 cubic feet per second in an attempt to drain off stagnant shore waters liberated by the recent ice break up.

Chlorine Content Increased.

Hewitt acted upon the receipt of a memorandum from W. W. De Berard, city engineer, who transmitted a report from Baylis covering an analysis of drinking water at the E. 68th st. pumping station from Feb. 6 thru 12.

On three of those days, Baylis said it was necessary to increase the chlorine content added to the water from 9 to as much as 24 pounds per million gallons to achieve a normal five pound residual safety factor.

On Feb. 11, Baylis said the odor of the water taken from the E. 68th st. station was so strong it was unfit for use in cooking.

Bad Odor for Week.

He reported the contamination resembled oil refinery waste but said he could not be certain in his identification. Whatever the nature of the wastes, he asserted they caused the bad odor to persist for one week.

The number of coliform bacteria, Baylis reported, is not as high as in previous years. But the bacteria count is not necessarily an indication of the safety of the water, he declared. He attributed bacteria found in the vicinity of the cribs to pollution dumped into the lake at Whiting and Indiana Harbor and from other nearby sewers.

Sanitary district officials said they could double the diversion flow temporarily, providing they held to the average 1,500 cubic feet per second flow thruout the remainder of the year for the Calumet-Sag channel and Chicago river combined.

WAR DOG PREVENTS BLOWING UP OF U. S. AMMUNITION DUMP

BY WALTER SIMMONS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

FORT STOTSENBURG, Luzon, Feb. 21.—Beauty, a German shepherd dog, recruited for the army at Hicksville, Ky., saved an American ammunition dump near here last night.

One of 27 war dogs which have proved their usefulness in a platoon on the 40th division front, Beauty was being worked by Pvt. Merle Althof, Quincy, Ill., and Tech. 5th Grade Angus Highly, Reynolds, Mo. During the night she smelled an approaching Jap. A rifleman fired a single shot at the skulking figure and there was a terrific explosion. The bullet had hit a grenade with which the Jap had intended to blow up the ammunition dump.

Other dogs in the platoon, commanded by Lt. Bruce Walker, Oregon, Mo., and including Tech. 5th Grade Peter Brandenberg, 6030 Drexel av., Chicago, have distinguished themselves. In one night a dog worked by Tech. 5th Grade Willis Belgrad, Alexandria, La., and Tech. 5th Grade Alvin Rote, Phoenix, Ariz., flushed a Jap within 300 yards of the command post and another 200 yards farther away.

BLOW UP SELVES ON CORREGIDOR BY TOUCHING OFF AMMUNITION DUMP

Yanks Tighten Grip on Manila; Wipe Out Bataan Foe.

MANILA, Feb. 22 [Thursday]—(AP).—Japanese hopelessly sealed in Corregidor's network of tunnels blew themselves up by touching off a main ammunition dump yesterday as American forces tightened the squeeze on the remaining enemy garrison there and also in Manila, where the Yanks captured the Manila hotel, one of the luxury spots of the orient.

Gen. MacArthur said the enemy on Corregidor fortress, at the entrance to Manila bay, was destroyed except for minor mopping up. He said more than 1,700 Japanese dead already had been buried and the count was only partially complete. Corregidor's main tunnel has been blocked at both ends by explosives.

Bataan Cleared of Foe.

On Bataan, MacArthur said a thoro combing of the peninsula showed not a single Japanese left alive. When the Americans invaded the southern shore just a week ago, it was estimated there were several thousand Japs on the peninsula.

Troops of the 1st cavalry division under Maj. Gen. Verne D. Mudge, fighting up the south Manila shoreline, found the big Manila hotel battered but not beyond salvage. They also captured Burnham green, a small park nearby.

The cavalrymen thus were within 50 feet of the southern wall of the ancient Intramuros, in which the Japanese are holed up for a bitter final fight. American howitzers are pounding the walled city's thick eastern barrier to make way for tanks.

Capture Normal School.

Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler's 37th infantry division, meantime, captured the three story Ermita Normal school, southeast of the Manila hotel, and engaged Japanese defenders in the city hall, three blocks north of the school.

There are still thousands of Japanese on Luzon, but the bulk of the once strong enemy occupation force has retired or been pushed back into the comparative security of mountains and valleys of the northeast.

Gen. MacArthur said the enemy garrison in South Manila was compressed into an area measuring about 700 yards by 500, within the ancient Intramuros, and the destruction of this force has been slow only because of the American desire to save the lives of civilians inside the walled city.

"Savage Barbarism."

MacArthur described the Japanese as resisting with "savage barbarism . . . seldom displayed in a more repulsive form."

The Intramuros, built by the Spaniards in the 16th century, is far more than a historic shrine. It was the home of Manila's dockworkers and almost self-contained.

Contrary to popular notion, the Intramuros is not undermined with tunnels, said Dr. Eliodaro Congco, Manila physician who lived in the old city 10 years.

It is famous for its Catholic churches, colleges, and other institutions. There also are the Supreme court, justice, labor, and agriculture department buildings, the archbishop's palace, and Fort Santiago, a military prison.

D-DAY ON IWO: HAIL OF SHELLS, DEATH IN HOLES

BY THOMAS MORROW.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

IWO ISLAND, Feb. 22 [Thursday]—[Via Navy Radio].—The waves of Americans assaulting this tiny volcanic island on D-day made their way thru seemingly impassable Japanese shell fire to claim the original beachhead.

Some landing boats and tanks were blown to pieces at the water's edge by the heavy enemy shelling. Casualties along the beach offered pictures of unbelievable heroism. One lad lay uncomplaining while a buddy amputated his mangled foot.

Mortar shells began to whine about our boat as we approached shore. At the behest of Capt. Joseph McCarthy of Chicago, Father Joe Keefe of Boston said mass and gave absolution to those aboard.

Jap Pillbox's Home.

"Good luck and God bless you," shouted Capt. McCarthy as the troops rushed across Blue beach No. 1 on the northern end of the island. Capt. William Cessna, army public relations officer and head of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE reference room on military leave, and myself, attempting to make our way to the southern end of the beach, were pinned down by mortar fire.

Giving up the beach journey, we picked out a knocked out concrete Japanese gun position for the night's lodging. "Any Japs here?" we asked a passing marine. "Two," he said. "We know one is dead."

The other one apparently had gone to his ancestors also as he made no other move during the night.

Flares and star shells kept the island light as day as the night wore out.

About midnight the whine of 75 mm. shells and the whoosh of mortars formed a steady stream of unpleasantness until morning. The gun position we were in was well constructed and close bursts did not shake it.

Dig Foxholes on Beach.

Selected because of its distance from our own artillery and ammunition, our abode lost some of its allure during the night. Landing marines installed mortar batteries on each side of it and then laid a cozy pile of ammunition on our front porch.

A lull in Japanese firing at dawn allowed a trip along the beach. Wielding shovels to construct a foxhole was discouraging, as the volcanic soil crumbles.

A neighbor marine 25 yards away was having the same trouble. We both finished as the shelling reopened. Japanese gunners sent shells up and down the length of the beach. One crashed close and then the shelling stopped.

Neighbor Is Killed.

Turning to discuss the shells with our marine neighbor, we discovered he had caught a close one. He was dead in his foxhole.

One of the angriest marines was Platoon Sgt. James B. Hinton, Sellersburg, Ind., who had 14 amphibious tractors under his command. After making his way thru the most vicious fire of the campaign safely, he watched one of his vehicles blown to bits.

On the other hand, a marine who found the bitter campaign most to his liking is Pvt. Lloyd R. Christiansen, 1005 E. Wright st., Milwaukee, Wis., who was a bus driver there. He finds it invigorating while driving an amphibious tractor not to be forced to be polite to any one.

3d Marine Division Joins 4th and 5th in Iwo Battle.

UNITED STATES PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Guam, Feb. 22 [Thursday] —(AP).—Japanese resistance on Iwo increased to such an extent on Wednesday afternoon that no appreciable gains were achieved by the United States marines, now reenforced by the landing of a third division on the island, Fleet Adm. Nimitz announced today.

Maj. Gen. G. B. Erskine.

The 3d marine division, under Maj. Gen. Graves B. Erskine, reënforced the 4th division under Maj. Gen. Clifton B. Cates and the 5th under Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey. The division helped to win Guam last July.

Thus approximately 45,000 Leathernecks may have been committed to an operation against Japanese estimated in today's war bulletin to have totaled 20,000 when the island was invaded Monday.

[The Turkish radio at Ankara quoted "an unconfirmed report from the BBC" stating that American forces had landed in the Bonin Islands.]

Checked by Japs.

The marines, having captured their main objective, the big Motoyama bomber air field No. 1 Tuesday, were checked during an enveloping drive toward the island's other air field to the north.

"Intense mortar, artillery, and small arms fire is being encountered by our troops and in some areas extensive mine fields are slowing the advance," Nimitz said.

"During the afternoon [Wednesday] there was no appreciable change in our lines," he reported.

"On the south, flame throwers and tanks are being used against well entrenched enemy troops in the Mount Suribachi area," Nimitz added. "A counter-attack launched by the enemy east of Mount Suribachi shortly after noon was thrown back. Numerous land mines have been encountered in this vicinity. Four of our tanks were knocked out of action."

3,650 Marines Fall.

The five star fleet admiral, who earlier disclosed that marine casualties up to 8 a. m. Wednesday—embracing 48 hours of invasion activities—numbered 3,650, said in his announcement that more than 850 Nipponese dead had been counted. He made it clear this was an incomplete count, made during the heat of the most bitter battle yet fought on a Pacific island.

All during Wednesday, battleships, cruisers, and destroyers poured their shells into enemy strong points.

The all-important battle of supply was being won. As new supplies hit the beaches, the admiral was able to report that mortar fire on the beach area was diminishing.

He added, however, that loose volcanic ash was impeding the movement of equipment. In some places it prevents the passage of particularly heavy stuff.

Two-Way Drive on Airdrome.

Iwo's No. 1 airdrome was captured the second day of the flaming battle. The second one is about 700 yards to the north.

The 5th marine division on the southwest coast is on one flank of the two-runway field. The 4th division is making a frontal assault after its capture of the No. 1 three-runway bomber field.

There was no attempt by Adm. Nimitz to play down the toughness of the fight.

The American casualties already are approximating twice Tarawa's losses.

[There was no elaboration of this report which was passed by the censors inasmuch as American casualties in the 72 hour battle for Tarawa totaled 3,151, this suggests Iwo casualties possibly approaching 6,000.]

In announcing the casualties for the first 48 hours, Adm. Nimitz did not say how many were killed, but his report that 3,063 wounded have been evacuated indicated the dead totaled about 600.

Iwo and Tarawa, however, do not approach the marine casualties at Soissons, France, in World War I. There 1,400 Leathernecks fell in a single hour.

[A dispatch from Iwo said the medical corps suffered greatly. On one beach on D-day two entire medical sections of one officer and eight men each were wiped out, according to Comdr. F. R. Urban of Chicago.]

On Mount Suribachi, an extinct volcano already isolated on the island's southern tip, the Devildogs wormed their way 100 yards up perilous slopes. The mountain is 546 feet high. Its rugged slopes and caves contain heavy guns that dominate the battlefield.

In their fanatical defense the Japanese were using tanks, artillery, machine guns, mortars, rifles, and rockets. Revetments, blockhouses and pillboxes were in the path of the marines as well as fortified sniper posts.

No Sign of Japs Cracking.

Despite the heavy barrages from naval guns, short artillery, and carrier planes, the Japanese showed no sign of cracking, reported Morrie Landsberg, Associated Press correspondent on Adm. Richmond G. Turner's expeditionary flagship. The Nipponese were fighting back at every turn altho they had no air support of their own.

All thru Wednesday, Landsberg reported, the flash of naval gunfire broke thru the mist and drizzle enshrouding the island. The destructive force of the shelling was seen in the numerous smoke geysers rising from the enemy's positions.

Radio Tokyo claimed that Japanese counter-attacks on the southern coast had forced the marines "to retreat with heavy losses." It added "the battle situation has come to a stalemate."

VEYSEY TELLS OF HANDICAPS ON PACIFIC NEWS

[Mr. Veysey, who is home on leave, herewith tells some of the difficulties which war correspondents in the Southwest Pacific have had to overcome in order to get their dispatches to their newspapers.]

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.

For almost three years while the Southwest Pacific war was being fought in Australian and Dutch territory, the Australians and the Dutch banned American commercial communications. The ban is still effective and any commercial message leaving Australian or Dutch territory is transmitted by Amalgamated Wireless of Australia. But within a month after troops landed in the Philippines, America permitted, and even assisted, A. W. A. to become established there.

A. W. A. is a private company, altho much of the stock is owned by the Australian government. It is a monopoly.

During the first three years of the war the United States army signal corps offered to establish communications direct from New Guinea to the United States for transmitting commercial press messages, but Australia refused. All commercial messages, Australia said, must be handled by A. W. A.

Service—1,000 Miles Away.

The service was poor. It was not until late in 1943 that A. W. A. established a transmitter in New Guinea—at Port Moresby, already a rear area. A. W. A. never did open a forward transmitter and for months reporters had to travel a thousand miles to file messages.

When the war entered Dutch New Guinea the press was informed that the Dutch government in exile, following the Australians, banned all commercial communications except Dutch. And, of course, there were no Dutch commercial communications. The deadlock was finally broken when the Dutch agreed to let the army signal corps establish a station in Dutch New Guinea and relay messages to A. W. A. at Port Moresby, whence they were relayed by A. W. A. to Australia and eventually the United States. By this arrangement no commercial cable technically originates in Dutch New Guinea.

Radio Ships in Philippines.

For the Philippine campaign the United States army signal corps outfitted two small ships with powerful radios to be used only for commercial messages. In addition, within a few days after the Leyte landing, Press Wireless, an American communications company developed by American newspapers, set up a transmitter on Leyte for communications direct with the United States.

Press Wireless offered to transmit also to A. W. A. in Australia, just as in communications between Australia and the United States an American company receives transmissions from A. W. A. A. W. A. refused, however, and this left Australian correspondents with little communication with their country.

A. W. A. Gets U. S. Help.

In a few days A. W. A. arrived in the Philippines. Not only did A. W. A. have United States army equipment but Press Wireless was ordered to hand over some of its severely limited supplies to A. W. A.

With its limited equipment, Press Wireless has done a wonderful job. Because of weather, transmission usually is possible for about eight hours a day only. But on many days the small staff of experts work 18 and 20 hours. When weather is right messages move promptly.

STAMPS AND $400 STOLEN.

Burglars broke open a safe in the Gabric drug store, 216 W. 31st st., and stole $400, $100 in war stamps, and $100 in postage stamps, the owner, John Gabric, reported to the police yesterday.

CHICAGO YANK LOSES PATIENCE, JAPS LOSE LIVES

BY WALTER SIMMONS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

FORT STOTSENBURG, Luzon, Feb. 20 [Delayed].—T/5 Arthur Lomblad, 6851 W. Belmont av., Chicago, Ill., is a patient soldier, but the Japs made the mistake of testing him too far. A chaplain's assistant, always ready with a smile or a joke, Lomblad travels from company to company in the 40th division spreading cheer. Sometimes his rambles take him ahead of the assault troops. Once he came down from the top of a hill the Yanks were about to attack.

"It's all right boys. There aren't any Japs up there," he said. In weathering seven banzai attacks he had killed five Japs with his rifle and numerous others with grenades. He was sorry about this but considered it justifiable self-defense. Another day he was crouched behind a boulder during an attack. A Jap lunged at Lomblad who parried the bayonet blow. The Jap drew back and charged again.

"If you do that again I'll shoot you," warned the Chicagoan patiently. The Jap lunged again. Lomblad parried the blow tho it cut thru his shirt, and then carefully shot the Jap dead. He didn't mention the incident, but the story was told by his friend, T/Sgt. Richard Imroth, 1427 N. Kildare av., Chicago.

TIRED CHICAGO FIRE THROWERS BURN OUT JAPS

BY WALTER SIMMONS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

FORT STOTSENBURG, Luzon, P. I., Feb. 20 [Delayed].—A tired flame thrower platoon came down from the Zambales foothills yesterday after knocking out five Jap pillboxes, burning out a tunnel containing 20 Japs and an ammunition dump, and burning up a Jap truck loaded with ammunition and fuses.

Staff Sgt. Stanley Nowak Jr., 4919 W. 31st st., Cicero, Ill., the platoon leader, told how his men, who included Privates 1st Class Robert Flagg, 4348 N. Sacramento av., and John Kerrigan, 1100 Fullerton av., both of Chicago, and Robert Winter of Elizabeth, Ill., stormed thru machine gun fire from one cave to reach another and burn it out.

"We watched 20 Japs go in there," Sgt. Nowak said. "Then we climbed up the face of the cliff and gave the cave a few flame thrower squirts. It must have been loaded to the roof with ammunition because it burned and exploded all night."

Yank Has Narrow Escape.

Pvt. Harry Pine of Salt Lake City, Utah, demolition expert with the platoon, found an ammunition loaded enemy truck which could not be left behind. Ordered to explode it, he selected a Jap fuse about a foot long and lighted it.

To his surprise it turned out to be a quick burning fuse—the kind that goes psst . . . boom. Pine ran and flattened himself on the ground just as the blast occurred. It blew a hole seven feet deep and 10 feet in diameter in the ground but Pine was unhurt.

When one company was cut off by Japs atop a towering hill word went out for volunteers to go thru with supplies. Among those who responded were S/Sgt. Julian Maciag, 3628 S. Wolcott av., Sgt. Max Friedman, 6610 S. Albany av., and Pvt. Howard Powell, 8005 Rhodes av., all Chicagoans, and Pvt. Thomas Marchese, of Rock Island, Ill.

Chicagoan Tells of Attack.

"We went up there in the dark," said Maciag. "We lost our way and found Japs instead of our own men. They opened up at such close range the muzzle blasts almost knocked our hats off. One of our men was killed. We flattened ourselves alongside the trail and slowly withdrew, carrying our dead buddy with us. We were pinned down in a spot where we were bitten by thousands of stinging ants.

"It was one time we didn't win. We pulled out and reached our perimeter just as the Japs started laying in heavy mortars and knee mortars. They then put on a banzai charge which we repulsed, handing them heavy casualties. The next day three companies went up the hill to reach our lost outfit, which had been without food and water three days. Sometimes it's a tough war out here."

A machine gun section which included Pvt. Arthur Beau, 2057 W. 68th st., Chicago, had a more satisfying time. Acting as support for infantrymen who had just taken a hill, the machine gunners were given a rear guard assignment when the Yanks exhausted their ammunition and had to withdraw. When the enemy counter-attacked in battalion force, the machine gunners fired over 4,000 rounds in 10 minutes shattering the attack and making it possible to retake the hill for keeps.

CHIEF CENSOR PRAISES PRESS CO-OPERATION

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21 [Special].—Byron Price, director of censorship, praised the press generally but criticized "syndicated columns" today in an address at ceremonies installing in the library of congress an original copy of the Bill of Rights, the charter of American press freedom.

"One of the mysteries of our day," he observed, "is the widespread assumption that syndicated columns on any subject and in any degree of inaccuracy or mendacity, may be presented to the public, just because they were bought and paid for, without the slightest assumption of responsibility by the publisher. Such a thing makes a mockery of common sense and a travesty of the 1st amendment."

Price cited the record of the nation's newspapers in three years of voluntary war time censorship as a "prime example" that "the American press as a whole has long recognized that its responsibilites extend far beyond any compulsion of law." The press, he said, has given cooperation asked by the government "in overflowing measure."

JAPS REPULSED NEAR FORMER U. S. AIR BASE

CHUNGKING, China, Feb. 21 (AP).—Chinese forces have repulsed several attacks on their positions southwest of Suichwan, formerly the site of a big American air base, the high command announced tonight.

In the Hunan-Kwangtung border region, fighting continued 12 miles northwest of Ichang, west of the Canton-Hankow railroad and about 105 miles south of Hengyang. The Japanese in this sector are trying to reseal a gap in the railroad recently made by the Chinese.

Fighting also continued east of the railroad town of Chenhsien.

TELLS MISERY AND HORROR IN SOUTH MANILA

A Doctor Discloses Civilians' Plight.

MANILA, Feb. 19 [Delayed]—(AP).—Civilians who fled the Ermita district of south Manila, to take refuge in the Catholic Ateneo de Manda college while the Japanese held the area, suffered unspeakable misery and horror, Dr. Martin Fisher said today when he reached the safety of American lines.

Fisher, his wife, Rose, and daughter, Barbara, 17, refugees from Germany, were among the 7,000 civilians rescued when the Americans captured the general hospital.

Four Men Care for Injured.

At least 2,000 civilians took refuge in the college grounds, Fisher said. Many were wounded. Fisher and three Filipino doctors were the only medical men and they worked unceasingly.

"With the number of wounded increasing hourly, we asked and were given permission by the Japanese to get medical supplies from a nearby warehouse," Fisher said. "Wearing Red Cross emblems and carrying a huge Red Cross flag, we were allowed to procure just what we could carry—one of the padres and myself.

"We had so few bandages and dressings that the padres tore off their white girdles to make more, and when our supply of morphine was exhausted we used rum, brandy, and whisky from the pharmacy. The Filipino surgeon had one needle which he used almost constantly.

Threatened by Japs.

"A few days before we were liberated a Japanese soldier came into the surgery and thru an interpreter delivered a speech.

"He told us, 'What has happened to you people and the Filipinos of the city is but a sample of what is to come.'

"We were further depressed when fire broke out in the main building. We struggled all night to get the wounded to the general hospital area. Some, altho badly torn by shrapnel, managed to drag themselves to the hospital. At least 1,200 persons escaped from the burning Ateneo to the hospital.

"All during the day the padres and civilians braved withering fire to bring more wounded to the hospital on improvised stretchers. Some even carried the wounded on their backs.

"I remember little of what transpired until dawn, when shouting and screaming in front of the hospital told us that long awaited liberation had arrived.

"Filipino nurses told us the Americans were in front of the building and to remain calm. The first soldier was deluged with kisses from every one."

HEAR JAPS RUIN REALTY OF KIN OF BARRINGTON MAN

BY WALTER SIMMONS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANILA, P. I., Feb. 21.—Donald and Edgar Kneedler, brothers of Harold Kneedler, Barrington, Ill., are awaiting the end of fighting in Manila to see how much of their realty holdings have been wiped out.

They own the Leonard Wood and Bay View hotels, and the Peralta, Dewey, Ambassador, and St. Francis apartments. Leonard Wood hotel is reported to have been burned and the St. Francis apartments to have been demolished by the Japs.

Both men and their families are in excellent health. They are still living at Santo Tomas university, which American forces liberated on Feb. 3.

PROTESTS GROW ON U. S. YIELDING OF PACIFIC ISLES

Group in Congress Wants Full Ownership.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21.—A congressional storm is brewing over the reported agreement of the Big Three at the Yalta conference that the Pacific islands wrested from Japan by the American army and navy shall be placed in an allied nations trusteeship instead of being ceded outright to the United States.

Rep. Mott.

Senators and representatives who are demanding permanent title to the Marshall, Caroline, and Marianas archipelagoes, mandated to Japan by Woodrow Wilson's league of nations, to Japan's Volcano Islands now being conquered and perhaps to other conquests, are not satisfied with the explanation that the Big Three propose to make the United States the trustee for the new league of nations.

A group of internationalists, including John W. Davis, former ambassador to Great Britain, former Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles and Prof. James T. Shotwell of Columbia university, is promoting the trusteeship plan and urging its inclusion in the agenda of the San Francisco conference "that the peoples of the world will be given an opportunity to express their views before any binding decisions are made."

Studied by House Group.

The disposition of captured Jap islands is involved in a study of American defense needs in the Pacific now being made by a house naval affairs subcommittee composed of Representatives Drewry [D., Va.], L. B. Johnson [D., Tex.], Bradley [D., Pa.], Ixac [D., Cal.], Mott [R., Ore.], Cole [R., N. Y.], and Bates [R., Mass.].

"A trusteeship of the islands we need for our defense would not be at all satisfactory to me," said Rep. Mott. "It is most essential for the United States to have undivided possession of the bases we shall need for our naval, air, and ground forces in order to make our defenses invulnerable in the Pacific and I hazard the opinion that this is the conviction of the overwhelming majority of the members of the naval affairs committee.

"What we need is outright possession of bases, not necessarily of entire islands, as in the case of Luzon and other Philippine islands. We are turning the Philippine islands over to the Filipinos, but we should retain title to the bases we need for defense on those islands. In the case of small islands, like Saipan, the base is the whole island or a number of islands, perhaps an entire archipelago. In such cases we should have sole possession of the entire island or group of islands.

Must Be Prepared.

"From our experience in being drawn into two World wars we know that we cannot keep out of future wars. We must be prepared to prevent an enemy from daring to attack us again. To that end we need a far flung rampart of bases on the other side of the Pacific. We cannot afford to trust the control of such bases to the shifting winds of power politics. Our word, not the word of powers dominating a league of nations, should be flat in the islands where our bases are situated. We should be the owner, not the trustee for owners whose attitude toward our position in those islands might change in time.

"Our boys have fought and died to capture those islands and thereby saved other territories to nations unable to defend them from the Japs. It seems to me that our allies who have benefited from such American sacrifice and who will be dependent on America for defense henceforth, should be prime advocates of vesting permanent title to these islands in the United States. We shall have to foot the bill for bases, anyway, whether trustee or owner."

Cite Charter Terms.

Chairman Drewry of the subcommittee said he hadn't made up his mind what position to take on the question. He could see that if the United States insisted on title to the Jap islands it would be accused of recreancy to professions of never fighting a war of aggression.

Defenders of the agreement said that outright cession of the islands to the United States would be a violation of the Atlantic Charter's renunciation of territorial aggrandizement which was reaffirmed by the Big Three at their meeting in the Crimea. To which it is retorted that evidently the Big Three did not apply the same reasoning to the territory to be transferred from Germany to Russia and Poland. They did not propose to commit such German territory to a league trusteeship. What they do propose is to annex certain German territory east of the Oder river and a certain portion of East Prussia to Poland and the remainder of East Prussia to Russia.

France likewise is asking the outright cession of the left bank of the Rhine. The only suggestion of a trusteeship for German territory is that the Ruhr industrial district be internationalized.

The Atlantic Charter, tho reaffirmed at Yalta, has been pronounced by Mr. Roosevelt as only a goal to be aimed at. In the British house of commons today Mr. Churchill called it "a guide, not a rule."

Work as Nurses

Second Lt. Marie Merrill Hubbard of the army nurse corps returned to Camp McCoy, Wis., yesterday after spending a 10 day leave here with her mother, Mrs. Thomas Furness, 33 E. Bellevue pl. Lt. Hubbard took her nurse training at St. Luke's hospital and was sworn into the army nurse corps a month ago. She is not the only member of her family in war work, however. Her mother has more than 1,600 hours of work accredited to her as a nurse's aid at County hospital, and Mr. Furness has been overseas two years and seven months as a Red Cross field director with the 1st division.

7 POUND BABY BORN TO WOMAN AFTER 375 DAYS

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 21 (AP).—Dr. Daniel Beltz, Los Angeles obstetrician, said today he had delivered the 25-year-old wife of an airplane plant worker of a six pound, 15 ounce baby daughter which he declared she had carried for 375 days.

"Altho other doctors have expressed doubt of such an extended period of gestation," said Dr. Beltz, "this child was due to arrive Nov. 15. She was delivered yesterday at Methodist hospital. I examined the mother March 23, 1944. Laboratory tests showed she was to become a mother and it was indicated the child would be born in November.

"I watched the mother carefully. I am convinced there definitely was a stoppage of growth between the third and sixth months of pregnancy."

Dr. Beltz said the closest approach in his records to such an extended pregnancy was 359 days.

[The average period of gestation is 280 days.]

100,000 FRENCH RULED BY NAZIS AT ST. NAZAIRE

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NANTES, Brittany, France, Feb. 21.—The St. Nazaire salient is the most important pocket on the Atlantic front, and most heavily held by the Germans. It comprises 1,800 square kilometers [1,125 square miles] as compared to the 380 kilometers of the Lorient salient. Inside the pocket live some 100,000 French people. German forces are estimated at 28,000.

The lines run roughly from Penestin, on the coast, to a point near Plesse and Blain, then directly south on the Loire river near Cordemais. The front seems stabilized. Inside the German lines is not only St. Nazaire, but also the town of Savenay.

Ports Paralyzed.

By holding this pocket the Nazis paralyze the port of St. Nazaire, also Nantes, which was sixth in size in France.

St. Nazaire was a principal German submarine base for three years, and U-boats still operate from the big reënforced concrete pen there. It was capable of housing 50 subs and the Nazis had great stores piled up.

The city itself has been practically razed by bombing, French officers say. Not more than 100 houses are standing. It had a population of about 50,000.

We left Vannes about noon and detoured thru Guemenee to get to a sector of the front near Plesse commanded by Col. Richard le Troter.

Le Troter's headquarters are near Plesse in a flat, marshy region where it is difficult to construct fortifications.

Visit to the Front.

The colonel took us down to his front lines. They are much the same as those at Lorient and his predicament the same—lack of guns and equipment. From an observation post the German positions were visible 300 yards away.

We spent the night at Le Troter's headquarters and next day went over to see another sector held by American troops of the 66th division.

Here, also, civilians refuse to leave the front line region. You see stock grazing right alongside the front line trenches.

To avoid running into the German lines—the occasional fate of unwary motorists—we took a circuitous route back thru Nozay to Nantes.

Nantes has been pretty heavily damaged. A port much used by the Germans, it was severely bombed by the British. It had a population of 170,000. Some 115,000 of these are now back.

1,500 Buildings Destroyed.

In the crowded center of town, 1,500 buildings were destroyed and 3,000 others badly damaged. Between 7,000 and 8,000 persons were killed. Five thousand families are homeless.

American columns hit Nantes on Aug. 12, cutting off German retreat. Several German divisions, therefore, fell back on St. Nazaire, where they were later bottled up by French Forces of the Interior.

Nantes, however, carries on. It has no fuel, but sufficient food, apparently. The port is closed. It cannot operate until the Germans are cleared out of St. Nazaire, farther down the Loire river.

About 30 per cent of the docks and many warehouses were destroyed by the fleeing enemy. Floating docks were sunk. The Germans sank 17 ships in the harbor to make it incapable of use.

TWO CHICAGO AIRMEN GIVEN HEROES' AWARDS

EIGHTH AIR FORCE BOMBER STATION, England, Feb. 21 (AP).—Sgt. William Kaufman, 2317 N. Rockwell st., Chicago, received the soldiers medal today for the recent rescue of Sgt. Joseph Berly Jr., Clemson, N. C., from a burning bomber that crashed in northern England.

Berly's foot was caught in the plane and a few minutes after Kaufman plunged thru flames to rescue him the craft's bomb load exploded.

Lt. Burton Gardner, 6116 Forest Glen av., Chicago, was awarded the silver star for gallantry in action when he assumed command of a Flying Fortress whose controls had been shot away over Germany and whose pilot was injured. He steered the plane back to allied lines.

FLEET STEAMS NEAR TOKYO BAY FOR BIG ATTACK

[This is the first eyewitness story of the Feb. 16-17 carrier plane attacks on the Tokyo area.]

BY ROBERT GEIGER.

ABOARD VICE ADM. MITSCHER'S FLAGSHIP NEAR TOKYO, Feb. 17 [Delayed]—(AP).—Steaming almost into Tokyo bay, this task force, the mightiest ever assembled, hurled tons of explosives into the enemy in a two day carrier plane strike and tonight audaciously patroled the Japanese coast challenging the enemy air force and navy to battle.

The center of the target was Nakajima Musashino and Nakajima Tama aircraft factories, 12 miles from the palace of the emperor in the western suburbs of Tokyo. Pilots reported that both factories were blazing and severely damaged. At least two other important aircraft plants were damaged or destroyed. Thirty-six air fields were strafed or bombed.

Five hundred and nine Japanese planes were destroyed in the air and on the ground. One small carrier and 32 other small vessels were sunk. American losses were 43 planes in dogfights over Tokyo.

Snow, sleet, rain, and the failure of the Japanese to fight prevented the American fleet taking a heavier toll in the lightning jab that sent the task force out from a secret base for the round trip sortie of several thousand miles.

[The Tokyo radio said four American Super Fortresses raided the Kanto district of Japan, which includes the Tokyo metropolitan area, Wednesday afternoon, Tokyo time. The radio also said that three American P-51 [Mustang] planes attacked targets at Nanking, China, Wednesday morning and one was shot down by interceptors.]

CORPORAL BAWLS OUT GENERAL TO SAFEGUARD MEN

Chief Stands in Exposed Position Near Gun.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH U. S. 94TH INFANTRY DIVISION IN GERMANY, Feb. 21.—Troops of this division today found in the town of Kastel the first German civilians since the start of the 3d army's advance in the triangle between the Saar and Moselle rivers.

Most of the civilians were women, old men, or children, but included two young men who said they were Jugoslavs forced to work for the Nazis. The two escaped three months ago and had been waiting for a chance to surrender ever since. Their stories will be thoroly investigated and if found true they will be returned to their native country as quickly as possible.

The principal reasons for the brilliant success of the 94th division's attack were the complete surprise achieved and the high fighting spirit of Yank infantry men and tankers.

Corporal Reproves General.

In Freudenburg, which was seized yesterday, Col. Roy N. Hagerty said that six Russian guns [brought to this front by the Nazis] were knocked out by a single squad of infantry men moving up beside, instead of on, a road.

The story of an unidentified corporal who today reproved the divisional commander, Maj. Gen. Harry J. Malony, and got away with it, also is an instance of the troops' fine fighting edge.

Malony and a party visiting Kastel stood beside a machine gun in what might have been an observed position. But they didn't stand there long. Without looking who or why, the corporal in charge yelled:

"Hey! Get the hell away from that gun. I don't want my men killed."

The general glanced to see who was yelling and moved without a word.

Nullifies "Switch Line."

Prisoners were still surrendering in fair numbers today. One group of 12 or 15 in Freudenburg was guarded by James D. Patton, 5402 Melrose st., Chicago. Patton was just promoted to corporal yesterday.

The advance thru "the triangle" has nullified the entire Siegfried "switch" line which runs between the Saar and the Moselle rivers just above the French border and also has put the large German city of Trier virtually within range of our artillery.

But more Siegfried line fortifications sprawl along the eastern bank of the Saar so that even if that river is scrossed soon in this sector further progress is almost certain to be on a slower scale.

HURL ROCKETS AT TOWN NEAR HITLER HIDEOUT

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Italy, Feb. 21.—Berchtesgaden, the Bavarian town below Hitler's favorite mountain retreat on Obersalzberg, sustained its first air attack of the war yesterday when rocket firing Thunderbolt [P-47] fighters, flown by American pilots, roared in at low level to smash up rail yards after they were unable to strike their primary targets not far away because of poor visibility.

Lt. Wesley Mathias of Columbus, O., told how his wingman tried to drop his wing tanks onto Hitler's retreat.

"As we flew over the town the pilot on my wing yelled at me over the radio, then dropped his tanks in what he thought was the direction of Hitler's retreat," Mathias said. "But the visibility was poor and we were traveling so fast we could not see the tanks hit."

Hit Loaded Troop Train.

Maj. John Beck of Post Falls, Idaho, led the 12th allied air force Thunderbolts which flew thru an intense barrage of flak [anti-aircraft fire] and small arms fire to destroy or damage one locomotive and eight rail cars in the Berchtesgaden rail yards, shot up a loaded troop train in the town's station, then went on down the railroad line to set two more passenger trains afire and damage nearly 50 rail cars at various points.

"We dived thru a hole in the overcast and flew right over the housetops along the Austrian border," Beck said. "The whole place looked like a peaceful summer resort. Rail and road traffic was heavy and seemingly moved without any fear of attack. Evidently Hitler's mountain resort is unaccustomed to war."

Soldiers Flee to Woods.

"Our rockets hit an electric train in the Berchtesgaden station loaded with troops," said Lt. John Kittrell of Rochester, N. Y. "At the first shot the soldiers swarmed off and headed for a woods. Then we strafed the woods and set a fire going there."

Participating in the raid was Lt. Morrison Lostiss, 6250 Central av., Indianapolis, Ind.

BOMBERS HURL 2 GREAT BLOWS AT NAZI RAILS

LONDON, Feb. 22 [Thursday]—(AP).—The massive allied aerial assault against Germany's battered rail system was continued last night with a heavy R. A. F. attack on the Rhine valley choke point of Worms after 1,200 American heavies smashed at Nuernberg in daylight for the second straight day in one of the most concentrated air blows of the war.

Berlin also was hit twice during the night by British bombers which kept the nine day aerial offensive rolling. Altogether more than 5,000 allied war planes joined in the day's attacks on Germany, many of them giving close support to western front troops. Worms, 12 miles north of Mannheim, is a keypoint in the communications system supplying the enemy forces in front of the American 3d army. Duisberg also was bombed.

In the big daylight raid the Nazi convention city of Nuernberg, which some unconfirmed reports have said has supplanted Berlin as the reich's capital, was battered for more than an hour by the American four engined bombers. American bombers from Italy raided the Vienna area.

20 Blasts in Danish City Laid to Vengeful Nazis

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Feb. 21 (AP).—Twenty explosions reverberated in the Danish city of Odense last night when vengeful Danish Nazis were said to have wrecked three newspaper offices, a department store, a publishing house, and several small factories. The Free Danish press service said the Nazis placed the bombs in retaliation against patriot blasting of plants and railroads working for the Germans.

REVEALS F.D.R. HOPES TO VISIT FRANCE SOON

PARIS, Feb. 21 (AP).—President Roosevelt hopes to make a ceremonious visit to France in the late spring or early summer, it was learned today as the French minister of information announced that Gen. De Gaulle had been unable to meet the President at Algiers because De Gaulle lacked information on the Yalta conference.

The minister, Pierre Teitgen, told a press conference that a meeting between Roosevelt and De Gaulle would have entailed "grave decisions on essential matters engaging the nation's future" which the French leader was unprepared to make but which he might have made had Roosevelt come to Paris.

Mrs. Roosevelt May Go.

The announcement of Roosevelt's plan to come to France and probably to visit England on the same trip, came from the United States embassy as Ambassador Jefferson Caffery returned from a meeting with the President near Algiers.

The embassy seemed inclined today to put the unfortunate incident of the failure of the Algiers meeting in its "dead" file and concentrate on preparations for the President's visit. There were hints that Mrs. Roosevelt was expected to accompany the President on the visit scheduled tentatively for some time after the allied nations' conference in San Francisco, Cal., which opens April 25.

It was suggested in some quarters that the President's second trip abroad this year might also include a visit to the Vatican.

It also is possible that he might meet De Gaulle before coming here, since some French quarters are urging that De Gaulle head France's delegation to the San Francisco meeting.

Gives De Gaulle View.

The French information minister said that the establishment of occupation zones, the projected establishment of an allied control commission for defeated Germany and a raparations commission, as well as the San Francisco meeting plans, were items on which De Gaulle considered he needed more information before meeting with Roosevelt.

Mr. Roosevelt had planned to hold a quick "business session" with De Gaulle to inform France of the details of the Crimean conference and to obviate lengthy diplomatic correspondence, an embassy official said.

REDS BY-PASS FORTRESS CITY ON BERLIN FLANK

Battle to Ring Frankfurt; Fall Back in E. Prussia.

LONDON, Feb. 22 [Thursday] (AP).—The soviet 1st Ukraine army, driving to the juncture of the Neisse and Oder rivers 54 miles southeast of Berlin, bypassed the German stronghold of Guben yesterday while the 1st White Russian army was reported pressing a great battle for encirclement of Frankfurt, 21 miles farther north.

In East Prussia the Russians acknowledged some advances by the Germans trying to reach the port of Pillau, but at a cost of 60 enemy tanks in a day.

Moscow's nightly bulletin indicated that the 1st Ukraine forces of Marshal Konev had made little progress in the struggle thru the forest eight miles east of Guben, but announced capture of 50 populated places north and south of that point in advances of seven to 13 miles on a 50 mile front.

Captured Towns Listed.

Places taken included Kuschern, on the Neisse at its confluence with the Oder, and the city of Pfoerten, 10 miles south of Guben and six miles northeast of Forst. The city stronghold of Preibus and the town of Leippa, both on the Neisse's east bank 23 and 27 miles southeast of Guben, also were captured.

Moscow was silent concerning operations of the 1st White Russian forces of Marshal Zhukov directly east of Berlin, but Pravda, official Communist party paper, asserted the Red army now stood but 34 miles from the German capital, and the German radio announced that Zhukov had "temporarily" slashed communications between Berlin and Frankfurt, on the west bank of the Oder 38 miles from Berlin.

Battle Is On, Say Nazis.

German war reporter Hans Arntz broadcast that the roads and railway between Berlin and Frankfurt had been reopened, but added that a great battle for encirclement of Frankfurt was in progress and that the inhabitants had fled the shell-torn city.

Other Nazi broadcasters said German forces were fighting defensively "between Berlin and the Frankfurt-Kuestrin front" 30-odd miles east of Berlin, but contended the Russian bridgeheads on the west bank of the Oder still were "far too small" for a major offensive towards Berlin.

The 2d White Russian army of Marshal Rokossovsky meanwhile continued its steady drive northward thru the Polish corridor toward Danzig, now 33 miles away, and was honored by an order of the day from Premier Stalin announcing capture of Czersk, 45 miles southwest of Danzig.

With Danzig thus endangered, the Germans penned on the Samland peninsula in East Prussia west of Koenigsberg made a desperate effort to break out to the port of Pillau, 20 miles south, before their entrapment was further solidified.

Moscow acknowledged some withdrawals in the face of this violent push, which now has been in progress for three days.

The Germans on Samland apparently were hoping to make a "Dunkerque" escape from Pillau, but Moscow accounts said Russian planes were covering the Baltic coastal area and Danzig bay waiting for German ships.

Other Russian planes Tuesday night and Wednesday morning raided Stettin and Stargard and the besieged Silesian center of Breslau, hitting trains and war factories, the soviet bulletin said.

NEW DIES GROUP SEEKS DEFINITION OF 'UN-AMERICAN'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21.—The new house committee on un-American activities decided at its first session today to seek an interpretation of the term "un-American" before proceeding with a probe of subversive activities.

Material collected by Rep. Mundt [R., S. D.], who asked prominent persons for a definition of un-American activities, will be turned over to the Brookings institute, the committee decided, for digesting and a summary.

Chairman Hart [D., N. J.], who opposed creation of the committee, was obviously in no hurry to get an investigation under way. He said a staff of three—a chief investigator and two assistants—would be sufficient to handle committee inquiries. It may take some time to find qualified men, he noted.

Rep. Rankin [D., Miss.], who led the drive to establish the gorup as a permanent successor to the old Dies committee, said he would offer several subjects for committee consideration.

5TH ARMY TAKES ITALIAN PEAK IN BOLOGNA SECTOR

ROME, Feb. 21 (AP).—American troops striking over Italian mountain terrain so forbidding that at times they used ropes to scramble up the steep slopes, have captured Monte Belvedere [3,500 feet] and several villages on the peaks west of the Pistoia-Bologna highway.

The attack in the Belvedere area was launched Monday night. The mountain villages of Polla, Valpiana, and Monte Gongolesco were brought into the 5th army lines.

The enemy laid down heavy artillery and mortar fire during the night, but when dawn came allied planes and artillery silenced many Nazi guns. Belvedere was in American hands at dawn.

Lack of Gummed Cigaret Papers New Smoking Woe

The shortage of gummed cigaret papers has become so serious some inveterate rollers are being forced to buy packages of tailor made smokes, loop tobacconists said yesterday. Officials of several cigar store chains reported that unprecedented demand and factory rationing has made gummed cigaret papers scarce.

STIMSON DENIES PLAN TO LEAVE ARMS IN EUROPE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21.—War Secretary Stimson informed congress today that "the expressed goal of present war department policy is maximum transfer of equipment to the Pacific from Europe and from all inactive theaters."

In a letter to Rep. Engel [R., Mich.] Stimson denied published reports that the bulk of the equipment of American troops would be left in Europe after Germany was defeated while factories were kept busy turning out new weapons for the war against Japan.

Engel wrote Stimson on Feb. 15 asking whether this reported new policy was official. He expressed belief the program was intended to delay reconversion and to justify the administration's work or jail bill. He threatened to oppose the next army appropriation measure if the reports were true.

Polish Officer Tells Fear of Persecution by Reds

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 21.—The Polish nation is greatly shocked by the fact the Russians "hadn't come as liberators but as persecutors," Jan Nowak, a lieutenant in the Polish home army, told a press conference in Edinburgh today.

from the Russian front?" I asked.

He couldn't answer that one.

Outside Rome in a kind of car barn the goons assembled more than a hundred United States officers and enlisted men and trucked us to the Colosseum. There they lined us up in columns of fives and marched us off across the city along streets jammed with curious but undemonstrative crowds.

Believe it or not, some of the Italians furtively gave us the "V" sign.

On the other side of town the Germans reloaded us in trucks and off we went to spend seven weeks in a modern Black Hole—a stinking prison camp at Laterina south of Florence.

Our senior officer was a British major who protested continually to Germans against camp conditions, but there was no improvement. At last they loaded us on boxcars, 25 prisoners and five guards in each, and shifted us to Moosberg, Bavaria.

At Moosberg we were deloused and handed our first Red Cross package. It was like Christmas.

Off to Poland.

A month later the Germans shipped us off to western Poland to a camp at Szubin once used for the royal air force.

Six months from the time I was captured I got my first letter from home. It was from my mother, Mrs. Mabel G. Dimling.

As "kriegies," our name for war prisoners, we made up our own slang. "Bleater" was a habitual complainer. "Hitting the sack" or "getting your flying time" was to stay in bed and save your energy to keep warm when our barracks were at their coldest.

"Sakologist" was an expert at this maneuver.

"Bashing" meant to wolf down the contents of your Red Cross parcel. "Big time operator" was a prisoner who traded various items until he finished with more than he started with.

An Old Story.

When the men from the Normandy invasion started arriving we dubbed them "hedgerow boys" because of their tales of the fighting in that type of French countryside.

The new arrivals got a smile out of the signs posted in the barracks: "No baloney, we've been all thru it."

The worst time at the Szubin camp—Oflag 64—was the seven weeks last autumn when Red Cross parcels stopped coming. Our German ration, which was less than subsistence level, wasn't increased during this time. I lost 15 or 20 pounds.

The Germans harassed us with extra roll calls and searches and made obnoxious rules such as ordering us to open our tin Red Cross cans of food immediately upon receipts so we couldn't spread out the period of consumption.

In October after our commander refused to assist the Germans they took away by force about 10 per cent of our clothes—things like combat jackets, pants, shirts, and caps.

Notice to Move.

The winter was difficult. Water pipes froze and coal was extremely scarce. Most of us had chilblains.

A few days after we learned the Russian offensive had started the Germans gave us 24 hours notice Jan. 20 that our camp would be marched afoot into Germany.

I made a pack from a woolen undershirt, and loaded into it my Red Cross food. Most of the others did the same.

It was a bitterly cold Sunday. Trees and telephone wires were covered with ice. A stream of refugees, chiefly in wagons, clogged the road. One German woman screamed at us, "It's all your fault."

One German guard so overloaded himself with his own luggage that he was sweating within 15 minutes. On the sly he threw away his helmet and indicated his rifle would be the next thing he would ditch. That moment clinched my idea that I wasn't going into Germany.

A day's hike of 12 or 15 miles took us beyond Kcynia, or Exin, as the Germans called it. We shoved into some big barns on an estate expropriated from the Poles and given to a German Baltic baron who by now had fled.

On Their Own.

There was confusion the next morning when the column resumed its march. Some of us gave the goons the slip.

That night Russian tanks arrived. I don't think any of us could have slept a wink. The Poles brought out food and schnapps. It was a victory party until dawn.

We stayed near Kcynia until Feb. 3 when a colonel gave us permission to stay or hitch-hike in the direction of Moscow. Then I teamed up with Capt. Ernest Gruenberg, New York City, and 2d Lt. Frank H. Colley of Washington, Ga., for the trip.

Polish authorities gave us a railway pass and a farewell breakfast. We never were asked for any kind of transportation credentials and everybody, Poles and Russians, military and civilians, fed us generously without thought of repayment.

Moscow looked like a paradise. We had just stepped off the train when a Russian soldier volunteered to show us to the subway and accompanied us to the very entrance of the United States embassy.

"Ya, Boy Scout," he told us.

We agreed.

NOTE TO HITLER DOOMS WOUNDED FRENCH VETERAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 21.—Capt. Joseph de Messine, 36, a wounded French war veteran who wrote a letter to Hitler swearing to fight for the Nazi cause, today was sentenced to death by the Seine court of justice. The young captain, who fought courageously against Germany in 1939, was wounded, cited, and received the legion of honor before becoming a recruiting officer for the anti-Bolshevik legion. He was decorated by the Germans with the iron cross at Smolensk.

The prosecution offered evidence of his cruelty toward the French patriots and his pillaging in Russia but the exhibit that sealed his fate was the letter to Hitler in which he wrote:

"My fuehrer: The perjury of our generals and the long, premeditated treason of Gen. Bethouard, my chief at Narvik, have wounded my pride and my sentiment of honor too deeply for me not to fight to the bitter end for the cause of European national socialism." The letter ended with the words, "I beg you, my fuehrer, to believe this expression of my total devotion."

U. S. SUBS SINK JAP CARRIER, 24 MORE SHIPS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21 (AP).—Twenty-five more Japanese vessels, including three combatant ships, have been sunk in far eastern waters by United States submarines.

A navy announcement today said the fighting ships included an escort aircraft carrier, a destroyer, and a large converted cruiser. The converted cruiser was reported unofficially to have been originally an 18,000 ton luxury merchant vessel.

Among the others sunk were a medium transport, 14 medium cargo vessels, three small cargo vessels, a large cargo transport, two medium cargo transports, and a small transport. The announcement raised to 1,045 the total number of Japanese ships sunk by American submarines.

O'KONSKI BLASTS BIG 3'S STAB IN BACK OF POLAND

Assails Soviet Use of Goebbels Technique.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21.—Denouncing Russia's "Goebbel's-like" defense of the Big Three's partition of Poland, Rep. O'Konski [R., Wis.] declared today that Moscow has acted "in unison with Berlin" in dictating the dissection of her Polish ally.

The congressman told the house that Russia, by its wholesale massacre and persecution of loyal Poles, "has directed the killing, starving and imprisoning of more allies than it has Nazis."

O'Konski, who is of Polish descent, took the floor to answer an attack on him by Pravda, official Russian newspaper. Pravda last week assailed as Fascist propaganda his earlier denunciation of the Big Three "sellout" of Poland at Yalta, and charged the Polish government in London with aiding Berlin.

Calls It "Ghastly Crime."

The Yalta agreement, the congressman said, marked the first time in history that allies have met to "divide the spoils of a fellow ally."

"It is like going into your brother's home and then getting stabbed in the back by him," he said. "That is why this last partition at Yalta will go down as the most ghastly crime of all ages."

Terming Pravda's charges "lies," O'Konski declared that Poles everywhere are still fighting loyally with the allies against the Nazis "even after being stabbed in the back."

"Goebbels' technique," he said, "is telling a big lie and telling it often enough so that people will believe it. Moscow's technique is of the same stripe. It took Munich to wise up the world to Goebbels. Likewise it took Yalta to wise up the world to Pravda.

"Even Goebbels with all his lies could not divide the Polish nation. But what Goebbels could not do, Moscow has done. Moscow with its Goebbels' technique has succeeded in dividing the Polish nation. And in dividing it Moscow has been acting in unison with Berlin.

Poland's Reward.

"Anybody not in 100 per cent agreement with Moscow, according to Moscow, is a Fascist and a mouthpiece of Goebbels. Perhaps that is why Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt handed over all the loot to Stalin at Yalta—because, maybe, they were afraid that they, too, might be called Fascists and mouthpieces of Goebbels if they even had a conscience that said 'no' just once."

Poland's reward for fighting the Nazis at the front and in the underground, said O'Konski, was broken pledges from Britain and the United States and "bullets in the heads" from Russia.

"Is it any wonder," he asked, "that De Gaulle snubbed the participants of this poker game at Yalta? Reviewing the fate of Poland at Yalta, is there any reason to believe that the Big Three—led and managed by the big one—can ever be trusted? De Gaulle, I am sure, wants no part of the Crimea conference."

3 QUISLING PREMIERS AND 30 MORE GREEKS GO TO TRIAL IN ATHENS

ATHENS, Greece, Feb. 21 (AP).—Thirty-three Greeks, including three Quisling premiers, went on trial today on a charge of helping the Germans during the occupation.

Five are being tried in absentia, having left Greece. Three others are dead. After formal accusations, several spectators added their charges and demanded restitution for lost jobs and property. The court ruled them out of order.

The former premiers on trial are George Tsolacoglu, K. Logothetopoulous, and John Rallis. Among the other defendants are 21 former ministers and four provincial governors.

Four Demand Republic.

ATHENS, Feb. 21 [Reuters].—Four political leaders declared themselves today in favor of Greece becoming a Republic. They are John Sofoulis, Liberal party; George Kafandaris, Progressive party; Alexander Milonas, Agrarian Democratic party, and George Papandreou, Democrat Socialist party.

RUMORS ON RULE OF REICH CALLED MYTH BY REDS

MOSCOW, Feb. 21 (AP).—The magazine War and the Working Class characterized as a "myth" today various reports in the foreign press that Russia planned to use captured German generals as the nucleus of a new German government.

Naming a number of foreign correspondents and writers who it said had contributed to a flood of "poisoned rumors," the magazine, which has come to be regarded as an authoritative reflector of official soviet policy, declared:

"From nothing has been erected a structure of lies. It should be known that the soviet union, much more than any other country, has suffered from German aggression and has invested the greatest shares in the cause of Hitler's defeat and is anxious to obtain a solution of the German problem making a revival of German aggression impossible."

democracy was the strongest bulwark against the "tortuous machinations of those who seek internal unrest as an excuse for foreign clashes."

He urged that the base of the Dumbarton Oaks proposals be broadened. He said that if the future international security organization depends exclusively on the opinion of the major powers, this war will result in an "enormous and grotesque fiction." However, he said that Mexico would play its part in the organization since it feels certain that this time "words will not be just words."

Deploring the absence of Argentina and El Salvador from the conference, the President expressed the hope that circumstances soon would enable them to join the common effort of the Americas.

INTER-AMERICAN CHIEF READY FOR ARGENTINA FIGHT

Stettinius Parley Leader on Political Problems.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 21 (AP).—A determination to prevent any move toward recognition of the present government in Argentina materialized as the inter-American conference got under way today.

Ezequiel Padilla.

Mexican Foreign Minister Ezequiel Padilla, president of the conference, told the Associated Press that if any of the delegates wished to fight on Argentina's behalf, the "conference is prepared" to go into a detailed exposition of what the Argentine government has done.

Dossiers Prepared.

Padilla refused to go into details, but it is known that several governments represented here have prepared extensive dossiers on the activities of Nazi agents in Argentina and the position of the Argentine government during the war.

Padilla said he was looking for this solution of the Argentine issue: "A resolution expressing our friendship toward the Argentine people and separating the questions of the people there and of the government."

It was clear that he expected no compromise with the government of President Edelmiro Farrell so long as it refrains from full coöperation with the other countries for hemisphere security.

The Argentine issue was raised almost immediately after the preliminary meeting this morning opened. Paraguay demanded an important position on the agenda for the Argentine case.

The chiefs of delegation, sitting as a steering committee, turned this down and relegated the Argentine question to the end of the meeting.

Stettinius Heads Commission.

Secretary of State Stettinius of the United States was voted by acclamation president of the second commission on the agenda that will take up political problems, including the Dumbarton Oaks proposals and suggestions for reorganizing the Pan-American union to make it a regional system in the future world security organization.

President Avila Camacho of Mexico, in an address to the conference tonight, appealed for the establishment of political and economic democracy in this hemisphere and asserted that no international organization can function with the presence of dictatorship or regimes existing thru violence.

Without mentioning any countries by name, Avila Camacho insisted

CLUB OPERATOR IN FATAL FIRE GETS TAX TERM

Boston, Mass., Feb. 21 (AP).—Barnett Welansky, president and treasurer of the Cocoanut Grove night club when fire destroyed it two years ago with a loss of nearly 500 lives, was sentenced today to three two year concurrent prison terms for federal tax evasion. He changed his pleas of innocence to guilty in United States District court.

Welansky is serving a 12 to 15 year term in Norfolk state prison colony for manslaughter in connection with the fire. The federal term will be served concurrently with the state sentences.

Welansky pleaded guilty to evading income taxes of $12,000 during several years preceding the fire.

JUDGE PUZZLED; CAN'T TELL JO-JO FROM MACLEISH!

Sanity Trial Deluged by Poets' Masterpieces.

BY JOSEPH HEARST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21.—Samples of the poetry of Archibald MacLeish, assistant secretary of state, and Joseph [Jo-Jo] Whitla Stinson, artist, poet, and lawyer, were offered in District court today in an effort by Stinson to prove he is not insane just because he writes the kind of poetry he does.

[A. P. Wirephoto.] Jo-Jo Stinson in his wedding suit.

The gist of the argument was that Stinson's verses are just as good as the MacLeish's. Dr. Joseph L. Gilbert, a specialist in mental diseases at the Gallinger hospital, who claims Stinson is insane, was on the stand when Jas. L. Laughlin, Stinson's attorney, began reading poetry. It went like this:

Bathed in roseate hues, blush of dawn,
Glittering ice, and perpetual snows.
Mortmain of prehistoric, glacial age:
Resting on grey mountains from earth's first morn . . .

"That sounds like Archibald MacLeish," interposed Justice T. Alan Goldsborough, and he, the jury of eight men and four women, and a packed courtroom, laughed heartily.

No, Here Is MacLeish.

"No, your honor, that was pure Stinson," said Laughlin. "Here's a sample of MacLeish. It is called, 'The German Girls: The German Girls,' and it goes like this:

Are you familiar with the mounted men,
Who ask us this? The Linden leaves? The pianos?
Answering evening with yesterday—
they are the leaves?
Who asked us this in the cat's hour when evening
Curled in the sitting room listening under the lamp
To the linden leaves in the wind and the courtyard pianos.

The trial, to decide whether Stinson, 61, former state department lawyer, should be put away until he recovers from what Dr. Gilbert said is a manic depressive psychosis, bids fair to be the most entertaining courtroom fare since the mass sedition trial.

Mrs. Roosevelt Summoned.

Laughlin has subpenaed 60 witnesses, including Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt—described as an old friend of Stinson—and there will be testimony about Stinson's efforts last month to visit the White House in search of his 78 year old bride. Stinson also went to call on Chief Justice Stone of the Supreme court—another old friend, he says—and these two visits resulted in his being held insane by the district health commission.

Today, when Stinson began his fight to upset the commission's ruling, Laughlin asked whether Mrs. Roosevelt was present.

"Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt! Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt!" bawled the bailiff, and when there was no answer he went thru the corridor crying her name.

Laughlin later charged that United States Marshal C. Michael Kearney had deliberately failed to hand Mrs. Roosevelt a subpena when she attended a luncheon today.

"Instead of having her served he left it at the White House," he told reporters. "I'm going to ask that he be cited for contempt of court."

The story of Stinson and his marriage Jan. 2 to Miss Violet Biddle of the Detroit, Mich., branch of the socially prominent Biddle family has been much in the local newspapers for six weeks.

Wed in Checked Riding Pants.

When Stinson, who likes to be called Jo-Jo, was married he was attired in black check riding pants, lavender check riding coat, a brown check sports cap, brown leather puttees and shoes, and a white stock.

He was married in the chambers of a municipal judge after his announced plans for being married in the White House by Chief Justice Stone fell thru.

A week later he reported his bride had disappeared and he decided she had been kidnaped. It was then that he went pounding on the White House gates and the door of Chief Justice Stone and ended up in the observation ward.

Later Mrs. Stinson reappeared—she had been visiting friends. She was in court to aid her husband.

The trial will be resumed Friday.

LIVE ALONE AND LIKE IT: ADVICE TO EX-HUSBAND

Judge John A. Sbarbaro in Superior court yesterday ruled that a man has a right to take to drink a bit while learning to live alone after being divorced.

Stanley Nelke, 40, a metal worker, who was arraigned on a contempt citation for failing to pay support to his former wife, Isabelle, 38, of 3335 N. Pulaski rd., pleaded that he was lonely since she obtained a divorce Jan. 18. They were married 17 years, and Mrs. Nelke has custody of their four children, Alberta, 15, Patrick, 13, Mary, 6, and Robert, 2.

Nelke said he spent his money trying to drown his sorrow instead of paying support of $32 a week. He owed $139. Attys. Joseph H. and Norman Becker, representing Mrs. Nelke, told the court they sympathized with Nelke, and so did Judge Sbarbaro.

"You can have two more weeks to start paying what you owe," the judge told Nelke, "and you must learn to live alone and like it."

AFTER CURFEW CANDLES? IDEA DEALT A BLOW

Night club and tavern owners received more bad news from Washington, D. C., last night. They apparently will not be permitted, however conscientiously tried, to get around the midnight curfew after Feb. 26 by turning off heat and using candle light in place of electric light.

Since one of the primary purposes of the midnight shutdown, as announced by War Mobilization Director Byrnes, is the conservation of coal, some night club operators had toyed with the candle light idea. One operator in Newark, N. J., announced such a plan, and the idea was said to have spread in Chicago and elsewhere.

WMC Given the Job.

But in Washington a spokesman for the war man power commission promptly condemned the scheme by saying "It would still be defeating some of the purposes of the order which is to save transportation and man power as well as fuel." Likewise, Washington officials said the night club operators cannot use hydro-electric power to circumvent the Byrnes order.

Meanwhile, it was announced that the WMC will be primarily charged with enforcing the midnight ban. William H. Spencer, regional WMC director here, left yesterday for Chicago to learn how the order will be enforced in this area.

The assignment of responsibility for compliance covers not only imposition of "zero" employment ceilings by the WMC, but actual policing of night spots as well. Byrnes said WMC Chairman McNutt will establish the necessary procedures "to obtain compliance in coöperation with state and local officials."

Ready in 48 Hours.

Since Mayor Kelly already has said that the city will enforce the order if asked by the government to do so, Byrnes' statement was interpreted to mean that city police will turn in names of violators to the WMC, which in coöperation with other federal agencies, could apply stringent penalties to offenders.

Officials said McNutt will have his enforcement machinery ready in 48 hours.

Cafe owners and night club operators, who are most affected by the ban, commented acidly on the statement of a high but anonymous authority in Washington that the curfew "will be retained at least as long as we are fighting a two-front war."

"I thought the measure was supposed to save coal," one operator said.

Byrnes, meanwhile, issued a statement expressing gratification with public response to the curfew request, adding that the favorable response was "not unexpected."

Byrnes' gratification was echoed by Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, national director of the Women's Christian Temperance union, which has headquarters in Evanston.

"Naturally we're very happy over it because it helps conserve materials and man power for the boys at the front," Mrs. Colvin said.

Cafe and night club men here were putting finishing touches on plans for reshuffled floor shows and earlier dining. The Cafe Owners association said it would make a counter-proposal to Byrnes for complete closing on one night a week with no curfew on the other nights.

The regional WMC office here was so besieged with appeals for information on the curfew that a crew was assigned to handle them.

NEW YORK NIGHT CLUBS FIRE 5,000 UNDER CURFEW

New York, Feb. 21 [Special].—New York City's night club owners today fired approximately 5,000 employes, ranging from star to stagehand, as a result of War Mobilization Director Byrnes' order for a midnight curfew on entertainment places effective Monday. More may be discharged later.

All along Broadway club operators were terminating contracts with their performers.

Noah Braunstein, counsel to the Cafe Owners' Guild, with a membership of 25 of the bigger clubs, made the 5,000 estimate. He said the industry employed around 50,000 thruout the city.

Copacabana to Quit.

A spot check of the bigger clubs showed that the Versailles had discharged 75, Diamond Horseshoe, 60; Latin Quarter, 75; Zanzibar, 75; Iceland, 55, and Aquarium, 48.

Aside from those who lost jobs, the edict's first major casualty here was the Copacabana, one of the town's leading cafes. It announced tonight it was going out of the night club business Monday for as long as the curfew remains in effect. The Copacabana's cocktail lounge will remain in operation, however. The move meant the discharge of 250 employes.

The night spot proprietors prepared for trouble in court as a result of the dismissals. The labor relations committee of the owners' guild met to discuss means of handling the labor situation, and girded themselves for a meeting Friday afternoon with the powerful local 802 of the musicians' union.

Concessions Face Big Loss.

The operators also looked for trouble from another quarter, the concessions—cigarets, hat check rooms, and such. Concession holders are already protesting that they expect stiff losses as a result of the curfew. Such concessions cost from $25,000 to $50,000 a year.

Billy Rose, proprietor of the Diamond Horseshoe and vice president of the owners' guild, said today that "the way it stands now this will put us all in bankruptcy." Others echoed his statement.

Rose reiterated his charge that a prohibition lobby in Washington had brought about the curfew and he displayed a copy of a magazine called "The Union Signal," which he said is published by the National Women's Christian Temperance Union in Evanston, Ill. A copy dated as recently as Feb. 10, carried a box, prominently displayed, urging:

"Write War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes and ask him to close taverns and night clubs."

To Offer Alternative Plan.

Rose quoted Byrnes as saying the curfew was designed to save 25 hours a week in fuel consumption and said the owners are now working on a plan, for submission to Byrnes, whereby the same saving could be produced by closing the clubs all day Sunday and having the curfew fall at 2 a. m. during the week.

Meanwhile, frantic reservations for night club tables Sunday night were being made. Copacabana predicted its normal week-end trade would be "maybe double."

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21 (AP).—The first noncombatant troops repatriated in this war, 77 medical department officers and enlisted men released by Germany, will arrive early in March at Charleston, S. C., from Marseilles.

The war department explained today that noncombatants are "protected" personnel who are not treated as prisoners of war and are repatriated as quickly as conditions permit.

Altho the 77 are traveling on a hospital ship, the war department said all are in good health and none will require hospital treatment. Upon arrival they will be sent to reception centers near their homes and given 30-day furloughs with an option of an additional 30 days.

The returning personnel include Pvt. Charles J. Griffin of 213 S. Laverne av., Chicago.

DOUBLE GOLD STAR MOTHER REQUESTS 3D SON BE KEPT IN U. S.

Mrs. Frank W. Benes, 9344 Ada st., mother of two sons killed in the present war, yesterday appealed to the war department to exempt from combat duty a third son, Raymond, 19, who she believes is about to be sent overseas as a corporal assigned to an air forces unit.

Her oldest son, Pvt. Francis, 23, an infantry man, was killed in France, Dec. 17, Mrs. Benes said. Another son, Robert, 21, was killed June 23 in a plane crash at Dothan field, Ala., where he was an army air cadet.

Mrs. Benes said she did not wish to have Raymond released from service but wanted him assigned to duty in this country. She said she is ill and the shock from the deaths of two of her sons was so great she did not believe she could survive another.

SOLDIERS FIRST TO BE TAKEN OFF GRIPSHOLM

Jersey City, N. J., Feb. 21 (AP).—The exchange ship Gripsholm brought home more Americans today—soldiers and merchant seamen from German prison camps and bewildered civilians—including 75 children—for whom America was a refuge from war.

As the sleek ship moved up the harbor many of the 1,209 repatriates lined the deck for a glimpse of the Statue of Liberty. An army boat filled with WACs, its loudspeaker blaring, "Don't Fence Me In," greeted the Gripsholm down the bay.

Taken to Hospital.

Passengers raced from port to starboard to wave to the WACs as the little boat circled the ship, whose passengers included 463 American soldiers, 78 Canadian military personnel, 46 merchant seamen, 548 United States civilians, and 74 Latin-American nationals.

The American and Canadian soldiers, all ill or wounded, were the first to leave the ship. The Americans were taken in ambulances to Halloran General hospital on Staten Island for physical examinations, and the army permitted no interviews before tomorrow. The Canadians will go home by train.

Gain Weight on Trip.

The task of checking out the civilians was expected to be a long one. Many returned as virtual strangers. Some had been absent more than 20 years.

Red Cross nurses who made the trip said many of the repatriates were suffering from malnutrition, but had gained weight on the ship. A large number were from Poland, but they came also from Greece, Holland, France, and virtually every country of Europe.

Officer Is Found Dead on Ship in Navy Yard

Lt. [j. g.] Newell Malter, of 5454 South Shore dr., was found dead yesterday aboard a ship at the Philadelphia navy yard. Later a naval court of inquiry stated that he apparently died of a self-inflicted wound. It was not indicated in what manner the fatal wound may have been inflicted. Lt. Malter was 25. His widow, Dorothy, was notified.

Army Reports 2,112 Men Wounded

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21.—The war department today made public the names of 2,112 United States soldiers wounded in action on the two American fronts in Europe. The list includes 63 men from Chicago and its vicinity.

Mediterranean front casualties are designated by the initial M. in listings, while those reported from the European [western front] area are undesignated.

Next of kin have been informed of any changes that may have occurred in the status of casualties since this list was compiled, the war department reports.

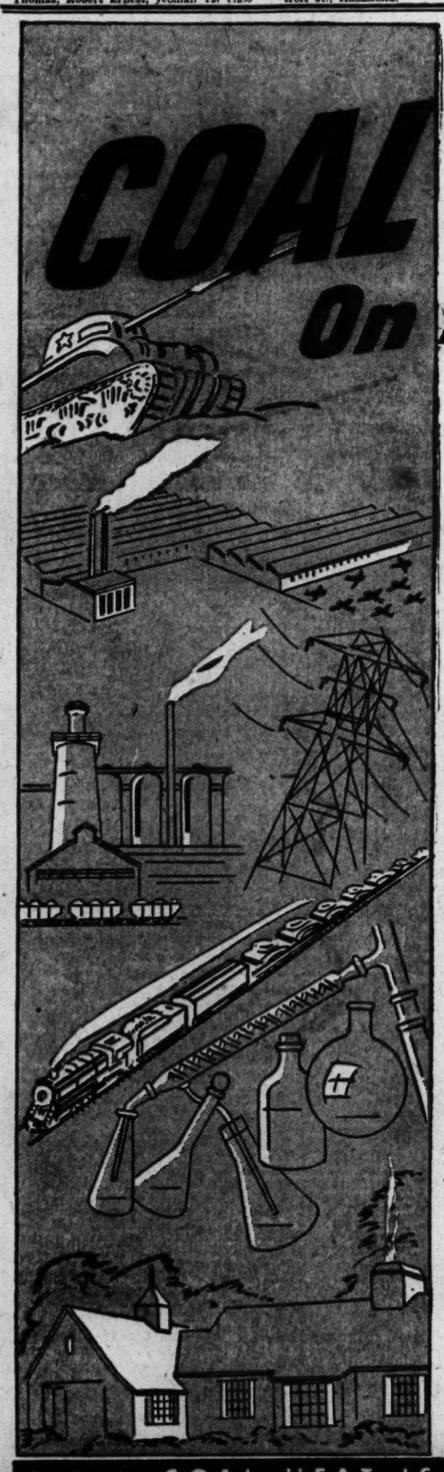
COAL FIGHTS On All Fronts



The War Fronts Have First Call
Because Coal is the Energy of War

THE FIGHTING FRONT
Coal is a part of powder and steel. It is in the sulfa drugs, the nylon of parachutes, plastics and countless products that make for battle efficiency. Coal fights on every front.

THE PRODUCTION FRONT
Coal powers our war plants and generates most of the electricity throughout the nation. 94% of all U. S. locomotives rely on coal for unfailing, dependable power. The largest coal tonnage in history was produced in 1944.

THE HOME FRONT
With war demands rightfully taking priority, government regulations have restricted supplies for the home front. But deliveries became the number one problem because of the tremendous shrinkage of manpower. The most severe weather conditions in 25 years, gasoline restrictions, truck failures and the inability to obtain equipment repairs brought unprecedented delivery difficulties.

Despite these handicaps no customer of a Chicago Coal Merchants Association member has been without coal.

Members have fought hard and are still fighting to keep customers supplied with coal. Government officials, the railroads, labor, producers and consumers have all helped to make this exceptional job possible. The Association expresses its appreciation for the splendid cooperation and teamwork.

Free 32 Page Booklet Tells How to Heat Your Home Better With Coal. Call Your Coal Merchant or Phone STAte 9723.

N.Y. BILL TO BAN BIAS IN HIRINGS SEEMS CERTAIN

Anti-Race Discrimination Opposition Folds Up.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 21 [Special].—Legislative opposition to the proposed Ives-Quinn bill, which forbids discrimination in employment because of race, creed, color, or national origin, today appeared to have crumbled.

Opponents of the bill, which comes up for a vote in the assembly on Monday, conceded today it would pass without further amendment. At a public hearing yesterday three major religious groups, the two largest union organizations, and numerous racial minority groups arrayed themselves in favor of the measure.

Since its introduction in the legislature, the bill has been the subject of bitter controversy. Its proponents, among whom is Gov. Dewey, view it as a means of correcting discrimination evils and as a great social advance, while its opponents have assailed it as a "Gestapo measure" that will intensify racial relations, harass employers, and drive industry from the state.

Seek to Delay Effect.

State Sen. Frederic Bontecou, who with Assemblyman William M. Stuart, has been spearheading the Republican opposition to the bill, said he would make a last minute effort to secure acceptance of an amendment postponing the effective date of the legislation until it is approved at a referendum. He said, however, that if he cannot prevail upon the Republicans in the senate he will vote for the bill without amendments.

The proposed bill would set up a five member commission appointed by the governor at $10,000 a year each. Their duty would be to eliminate and prevent discrimination in employment because of race, creed, color, or national origin either by employers, labor organizations, employment agencies, or other persons. The commission would also promote better interracial relations generally thru education and similar means.

On receipt of a complaint an investigation would be made by one of the members who, if finding cause, would seek by confidential mediation to eliminate the practice. In case of his meeting with failure, the commission would call a hearing before three of the four other members and, on the evidence, either dismiss the complaint or order the practice to be stopped.

Prison Term Provided.

Refusal to obey the commission's order or willful interference with its duties would be adjudged a misdemeanor punishable by imprisonment of not more than a year or a fine of not more than $5,000 or both. The commission's order would be subject to review by the state Supreme court and on further appeal by the Appellate division of the Court of Appeals—the state's highest judicial tribunal.

Irving Ives, majority leader of the assembly and chairman of the temporary state commission against discrimination, appointed last June by Gov. Dewey, introduced the legislation in the house on Jan. 30. It was introduced in the senate by Elmer F. Quinn, Democratic leader.

Opposition to the bill came from groups representing commerce and industry in all parts of the state. Park Commissioner Robert Moses of New York City said the bill would create "a monstrous Gestapo." He warned it will "make the life of every employer miserable and lead to every kind of blackmail and skullduggery."

Among the spokesmen for the measure were those representing various Jewish groups; the New York State Catholic Welfare committee, various Protestant organizations, the CIO State Federation of Labor, and Negro organizations.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY MARYON ZYLSTRA

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Helen Jacques, 7055 Ravenswood av.]

THE QUESTION.

What is the most amusing or unusual request you have received in a fan letter?

WHERE ASKED.

Chicago theater [asked of Glen Gray and orchestra].

THE ANSWERS.

Glen Gray, New York City—One girl wrote she was making a collection of hair from the heads of famous celebrities—like some people collect butterflies. She enclosed a stamped envelope and said, "Just yank a few hairs out of your head and return them to me." If many had collections like that we'd all be bald.

Skip Nelson, vocalist, Brooklyn, N. Y.—"Will you please send me the measurements of your chest expansion, length of arms, waist, etc. I'm knitting you a sweater and want to know how big it should be"—wrote a fan. I forwarded the information, thinking it was a good idea. I've been waiting two years for the sweater.

Lou Carter, pianist, Newark, N. J.—During an engagement in Florida, I spoke to a sailor who asked about the band. Later in Columbus, O., I received a letter from him telling me his girl friend lived in Columbus. He asked me to take her out and show her the time of her life. But inasmuch as my wife lives in Columbus, too——

Jackie Mills, drummer, New York City—I received a long letter containing nothing but compliments for the trumpet player in the band—no mention was made of Jackie Mills. The girl didn't know the trumpeter's name and asked me to send his picture and address. Then she added, "If you want, send me your autograph too."

Bobby Hackett, trumpeter, New York City—"I'd been looking forward to seeing you for such a long time but when you finally got to our city I was sick in bed with the mumps," related a fan. Since she didn't get to see me she wanted me to send her a recording that was out of print. It cost me $5 to get the record for her.

"Fats" Daniels, saxophonist, Springfield, Mass..—A girl sent me a short letter which simply asked, "How big are you around the waist?" Another letter that amused me was one from a well-known store for fat men in New Jersey that said, "We have shirts up to size 26. Can we help you?"

Chicago's Living Cost Drops 0.3 Pct. in Month

The cost of living for Chicago families in the moderate income class decreased three-tenths of 1 per cent from Dec. 15 to mid-January, the bureau of labor statistics reported yesterday. Food cost was the main factor in the decrease, dropping 0.9 per cent. There was an 8.2 per cent fall in the price of eggs, and a drop of 1.5 per cent in fruits and vegetables. Meat went up two-tenths of 1 per cent, and clothing three-tenths of 1 per cent.

ARMY STEPS IN AS BUS STRIKE HITS OHIO VALLEY

East Liverpool, O., Feb. 21 (AP).—The army and the United States labor department sent representatives here tonight to confer with the Ohio Valley Motor Transit company and its striking union bus drivers as a walkout paralyzed transportation in two dozen Ohio and Pennsylvania communities and hampered the production of munitions.

Mayor Arnold W. Devon had telegraphed a plea for army intervention in the stoppage, which began at 4 a. m. today.

Bernard Lippert, president of the Steubenville local of the AFL Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway, and Motor Coach Employes, said the stoppage resulted from failure of the company and union to "agree to a satisfactory settlement" of wage and work week issues.

Strike Protests WLB Stand.

The regional war labor board issued a back-to-work request and said the strike apparently was a protest by the union against a letter sent by the board to a federal conciliator asking him to reconsider wage and overtime recommendations made after an arbitration hearing last month.

The conciliator, Maxwell Copeloff, recommended a raise from the present 71 to 84 cent hourly scale to a scale of 77 to 87 cents, and agreed to other benefits not provided in a contract which expired last April.

The letter by WLB held these proposals to be contrary "to the national wage and hours policies of the board." The board, however, had made no final decision.

Another Strike at Portsmouth.

Both urban and interurban service in a 60 mile Ohio-Pennsylvania belt along the Ohio river was paralyzed by the stoppage, and a separate strike developed on similar issues at Portsmouth where employes left their jobs at 7 a. m. just as shifts were changing at the Wheeling Steel corporation plant at nearby New Boston.

CASH AND CARRY PRICE BOOST IS DENIED LAUNDRY

The office of price administration yesterday refused to permit the Quality Wet Wash laundry, 444 W. 38th st., to increase cash and carry prices to meet requirements of the union contract, Marion W. Isbell, area director, said.

Request for the raise was made by the company, of which John S. Gibbons is president, after it had signed a contract with the Laundry Drivers union [AFL] providing that no work may be done at a price lower than the drivers are permitted to charge.

The firm operates five cash and carry offices, where customers were given a 20 per cent discount under delivered prices. It sought to discontinue the discount to meet the terms of the union contract.

SIX CIRCUS AIDS GET SENTENCES IN FATAL FIRE

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 21 (AP).—Six key men of the Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey Combined Shows, Inc., were sentenced to prison or jail today on charges of involuntary manslaughter for the circus fire which cost the lives of 168 persons here July 6. The six had pleaded no contest.

The court stayed execution of sentence for all except one, to permit them to get the 1945 show started. The circus corporation itself was fined $10,000 on its plea of no contest to involuntary manslaughter.

The five granted stays are James A. Haley, vice president and director, sentenced to 1 to 5 years in prison; George W. Smith, 51, general manager, and Leonard S. Ayesworth, 52, both sentenced to 2 to 7 years in prison each, and Edward R. Versteeg, 44, chief electrician, and William Caley, 35, chief seatman, one year in jail each.

One Starts Jail Term.

David W. Blanchfield, 57, chief truckman, was sentenced to six months in jail. He did not ask a stay and started to serve his sentence immediately.

The five granted stays were ordered to present themselves before Superior Court Judge William J. Shea here on April 6, two days after the circus is scheduled to open for the season in New York City.

The court granted the stays after hearing William Haddens, chief defense counsel, plead that a stay would permit the circus to rebuild its damaged equipment. He said a stay would benefit "one group and one group alone, the claimants in and around Hartford."

State's Atty. Hugh M. Alcorn Jr. told the court he offered no objection, "in the hope that it will result in substantial benefit to the bereaved families of the fire victims."

$803,000 in Claims Settled.

Shortly after the fire, to safeguard scores of damage claimants, the circus was put in the hands of a receiver and subsequently a voluntary arbitration organization was set up to decide the claims. Claims aggregating more than $803,000 have been settled but many remain to be adjudicated. Hadden in his plea emphasized the desire of the circus to meet all legitimate claims but insisted it could do so only if it continued to operate.

The fire swept the huge big top of the circus. The flames spread so quickly that the fire was virtually over in 10 minutes.

In those 10 minutes 139 persons died, the others succumbing later in hospitals. Of the dead, 67 were children under 14. Injured were 487, of whom three are still in hospitals.

STRIKE AT B-29 ENGINE PLANT SPREADS TO 349

A strike which started Monday with the walkout of 67 electricians at the Dodge Chicago plant, because two of their fellow workers had been laid off for a day for sleeping on a job outside their own department, grew to include 349 strikers yesterday.

The strike has spread to electricians, helpers, and oilers on all three shifts at the plant. Most of the strikers are members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers [AFL].

Their walkout has hampered seriously the production of engines for B-29 Super Fortresses which are being used to bomb Japan, company officials said.

ARMY ADMITS IT LIFTED RED BAN; BLAMES DRAFT

Claims New Order Shut 'Escape Corridor.'

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21.—The war department today admitted the inauguration of a new policy removing the ban on Communists in the army, confirming an exclusive Tribune story published last Monday.

Adjt. Gen. Ulio.

Chairman May [D., Ky.] of the house military affairs committee immediately appointed a subcommittee to investigate the reasons for the policy. May said he saw no need for removal of the former restrictions on Communists.

Adjt. Gen. James A. Ulio acknowledged the new policy in a letter to Rep. Dondero [R., Mich.], a member of the committee.

Draft Changes Picture.

Ulio reviewed the development of policy with reference to Communists in the army, asserting it was easy to inforce the ban before passage of the selective service act. The draft made it more difficult, he noted, to inforce the Hatch act which excludes from the military services persons who advocate overthrow of the government.

Legal proof of membership in the Communist party was necessary under the law, he continued, and inconclusive proof might provide an "escape corridore" from the draft.

"As a preliminary step, pending determination of proof of membership," Ulio wrote, "the army excluded from officer rank persons strongly suspected of membership in the Communist party or who appeared to be consistent followers of the Communist party line. They were also not admitted to sensitive duties.

Proof Difficult to Find.

"Long experience and careful investigation showed conclusively the virtual impossibility of developing actual, legal proof of membership in the Communist party on the part of persons desiring to conceal such membership.

"Long experience in handling cases of this character has convinced the war department that mere sympathy with a given ideology or suspected membership in a given organization neither legally nor as a matter of abstract justice furnishes sufficient justification for adverse action.

"It has been found that the only sound, tho difficult, solution of this problem is to base action on the attitude and actions of the individual rather than on his alleged connection."

Ulio called attention to a letter to commanding officers issued Feb. 5, 1944, which established "individual attitudes and actions as the basis of restrictive determination." It did not, he noted, single out any organization or ideology but "placed the policy squarely on the question of loyalty to the government of the United States on the part of the individual in question."

During the remainder of 1944, he continued, "Cases continued to be resolved purely on suspected sympathy with communism." Then on Dec. 30, the new directives were issued.

Suspects Appear Loyal.

"Consideration was given to the fact that persons in the army suspected of, but not proven to be, Communists had not proved to be a source of any difficulty and were loyally supporting the war effort," he wrote. "There seemed little justification, therefore, not to use the services of such persons to the fullest in all capacities for which they were qualified.

"Application of this procedure will be watched with great care and it will be modified as may be shown necessary in the light of experience or in the light of changed conditions. No person who, after thoro investigation, is suspected by the war department of disloyalty, has been given access to secret army equipment or to any vital army matters."

VERDICT IN POISON DEATH.

An indeterminate verdict was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury in the death of Mrs. Helen M. Fox, 46, of 10919 Longwood dr., who was poisoned by sink cleanser Monday. She died Tuesday.

"Yeah, I know how you feel, Jimmy! I was just a kid, too, when my dad went into the army!"

DEMANDS ARMY EXPLAIN WHY IT LIFTED RED BAN

Shafer Cites Their Doubtful Loyalty.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21.—Rep. Shafer [R., Mich.], a ranking minority member of the house military affairs committee, today challenged the war department to justify its recent order opening officer ranks and highly secret duties to communists.

The congressman declared a Communist is at all times bound by his loyalty to that organization and the soviet union and that his professed loyalty to the American government is motivated solely by the fact that, for the time being and for its own interests, the soviet union is our ally.

Overnight Change Possible.

In the light of THE TRIBUNE'S disclosure that previous bans against Communists in responsible army positions were abrogated by the direction of the secretary of war last Dec. 30, Rep. Shafer called on the army to answer the following three questions:

"1. Does any one believe that if, tomorrow, the line of the soviet union should change against the American government, that the Communists in this country would not change overnight as they did on several previous occasions?

"2. Is it not true that Communists thruout the world were primarily loyal to the interests of the soviet union even when such interests conflicted with the official policies of the American government during the present period of our military alliance?

Back Opposite Factions.

"In the United States and abroad, Communists supported the following groups which enjoyed the support of the soviet government and not that of the United States: The Lublin government of Poland, Marshal Tito versus Mihailovitch in Yugoslavia, the ELAS in Greece, and Communists versus Chiang Kai-shek in China. In Belgium the Communists led a coal strike against the Pierlot government, depriving the allies of coal.

"3. The war department is charged with the defense and security of the United States now and in the future. Would it be consistent, under these circumstances, to give important and confidential posts to agents of the British government or the French government or any one pledged to a foreign loyalty?"

Shafer asserted the war department does not understand the nature of the Communist party. The war department believes, he added, the Communist Political association is like any other party with various shades of opinion within the party, when in reality it is monolithic or like a single block of stone.

No Difference Tolerated.

"Since the expulsion of Jay Lovestone, then executive secretary of the Communist party here in 1929, there have been no opposition groups in the party or its successor the Communist Political association," Shafer said. "Prior to 1929 there were rival groups in the Communist party, but in that year William Z. Foster and Earl Browder, recognized Stalinites, were given the leadership by a Moscow decision.

"The communist organization thruout the world is tightly disciplined, tolerating no difference of opinion, as contrasted with other political parties.

"Within recent memory we find the American Communist party adhering to the soviet line of collective security from 1935 to September, 1939; the soviet line of condemning the war as imperialistic from September, 1939, to June 21, 1941, when Russia was attacked by Hitler, and the soviet line of supporting the allies thereafter. In other words, the American Communists have no real platform or principles except one—complete unquestioning loyalty to the soviet union as their fatherland."

Shafer said that altho the Communist Internationale has been publicly dissolved, international obedience to the line of the soviet union remains thruout world communist organizations.

STATE IS PLANNING CHICAGO BUILDING TO HOUSE AGENCIES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 21.—A large Chicago office building to house all of the state's scattered agencies in the metropolis, will be sought by a legislative committee appointed today. Economy and convenience for the public are the objectives.

Five million dollars will be set up in the administration's post-war budget for the building. The new committee is instructed to report back to the general assembly by April 15.

After the house today joined the senate in adopting a resolution to create the committee, Speaker Hugh Green appointed Representatives Williston [R., Chicago] and Branson [R., Centralia]. The third house appointment awaited the advice of Minority Leader Sullivan [D., Springfield].

Lt. Gov. Cross appointed Sen. Laughlin [R., Freeport] majority leader; Sen. Daley [D., Chicago] minority leader, and Sen. Bidwill [R., River Forest].

Ten More Jamaicans Striken; Total Now 61

City health officers yesterday reported that 10 more of the 500 Jamaica Negroes temporarily housed in the Carver hotel, 2969 Vernon av., were taken to the County hospital, bringing to 61 the total among them suffering from an outbreak of mumps, chicken pox, and pneumonia. The men were brought here under an agreement with the British government to do war work in two food plants.

CANAL HIGHWAY BILL IS SIGNED BY GOV. GREEN

BY ROBERT HOWARD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 21.—Gov. Green signed into law today the emergency bill creating a special state commission to study use of the abandoned Illinois and Michigan canal as a site for a super-highway route across Chicago's southwest side.

Rep. J. Ward Smith [R., Ottawa], who is expected to be chairman of the commission, announced that its organization meeting would be held here next Tuesday. Weekly hearings will be held so that the commission can report to the general assembly by May 1.

Other Appointments.

Lt. Gov. Cross appointed Sen. Daley [D., Chicago], who introduced the bill, as one of the five senate members. Others are Senators Barr [R., Joliet], Benson [R., Ottawa], Mills [R., Chicago], and Mondala [D., Chicago].

Rep. McBroom [R., Kankakee] and Rep. Finucane [R., Chicago], are expected to be the other house Republican members of the commission. Rep. Hart [R., Streator], cosponsor with Smith of a similar house bill, stepped aside to take appointment to the intergovernmental coöperation commission.

Democratic house members named were Rep. Knauf [D., Ladd] and Rep. Noonan [D., Chicago].

The proposed superhighway would connect with the loop district and extend at least as far as Summit, leading to the municipal airport and connecting with U. S. 66, the major highway into downstate Illinois.

Canal Plan Given Brooks.

The governor meanwhile revealed that he has forwarded to Sen. Brooks [R., Ill.] the state administration's recommendations for a bill to be enacted by congress to protect Illinois' interest in the canal, one of the state's major traffic arteries of the last century before it fell into disuse when the Illinois deep waterway was completed in 1933. The canal extended from Ashland av. in Chicago to Peru.

Federal legislation will be necessary, Smith said, so that the United States can transfer to the state of Illinois any interest it has in the original canal route, which included 90 foot reserve strips adjoining the 60-foot canal bed across Cook, Will, Grundy, and La Salle counties. In addition the state needs authority to discontinue maintenance and operation of the old canal and to declare it abandoned for navigation purposes.

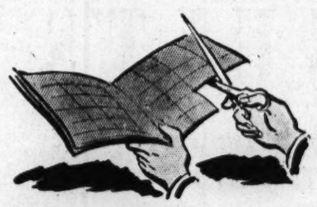
Pop says: "Even the best of batteries come to the end of their days . . . but regular inspection by your Standard Oil Dealer will help you avoid battery failure."

Funny thing about water! It makes soup thin but makes oil thick—thick with sludge. Moisture gets into crankcases, mixes with other contaminants to form sludge. This may shut off the oil flow. It's bad. Better change oil every 60 days, or at 1000 miles—whichever comes first.



Clip those coupons with care! Those A's and B's and C's! They mean precious gas! Precious to you . . . vital to war. One way to avoid gasoline waste is to have your Standard Oil Dealer clean your car's air cleaner occasionally.

"Road splash" is bad for cars, too. It tends to loosen grease from chassis parts and speed up rust damage. Safe practice is to have your Standard Oil Dealer lubricate your car every 60 days, or at 1000 miles—whichever comes first.

Quality wins! When you can be the favorite, year after year, you've got something! That's the story of Standard's Iso-Vis Motor Oil. For years it has been first choice of Midwest motorists.

ADD PENALTIES TO WORK OR JAIL DRAFT MEASURE

Action of Senate Group May Defeat It.

BY PHILIP DODD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21.—A hectic all-day session of the senate military affairs committee today produced amendments to pending man power legislation providing penalties so severe that some committee members on both sides of the question predicted defeat of the New Deal's efforts to enact any bill controling the nation's man power.

The amendments adopted today were made to a substitute for the New Deal's "work or jail" bill, which has passed the house. The substitute would give the war man power commission authority to fix ceilings on the number of employes in any establishment and to regulate or prohibit the hiring of workers.

One amendment, offered by Sen. Austin [R., Vt.], a proponent of national service legislation, would provide a penalty of $10,000 or one year in jail, or both, for violation of job control rules. Members of the committee disagreed over whether the penalties would apply only to employers or to both employers and employes.

Curbs on Farmers.

Another amendment was a committee version of a measure introduced in the senate by Sen. Tydings [D., Md.] making farm workers subject to military induction if they leave their jobs without their draft boards' permission and forbidding draft boards to compare farm workers value in agriculture with their usefulness in military services. Penalties of five years in jail or a $10,000 fine would be imposed on farm "job jumpers."

The vote to adopt the Austin amendment was not announced, but Sen. Chandler [D., Ky.] told reporters he voted for the amendment "so any senator would be justified in voting against any man power bill before the committee." He predicted the amendment, if left in, would defeat the bill. The Tydings amendment alone also would kill the bill, he said, because of its severe penalties.

Sen. Kilgore [D., W. Va.], a sponsor of the substitute bill, said he hoped the bill would be reported out without its "trouble-making" amendments. "The amendments endanger the bill and if the committee doesn't rescind its action, we'll end up with no bill," he told reporters.

Full of Faults, Senator Says.

"Some senators don't want any bill," Chairman Thomas [D., Utah] of the committee said at a press conference. "They feel the substitute measure doesn't change the lack of wisdom in the principle of man power control. The Austin amendment brings the substitute in line with the May ["work or jail"] bill but provides severer penalties, and the Tydings amendment has no place in this legislation."

Sen. Revercomb [R., W. Va.] said in an interview that the man power control bill "now has so many faults it ought not to be reported" by the committee. "It would be better to drop the whole matter right now and not report any bill," he said.

Trials by "Neighbors."

As introduced in the committee yesterday, the job control bill imposed sanctions on employes only. Any wages paid for services rendered in violation of the measure, or regulations of the WMC, would not be allowed as deductions for computing taxes, nor for determining amounts to be paid or recovered under contracts with the federal government.

During discussion of the Austin amendment at today's closed session, it was learned, one senator argued that the penalties were to be invoked only upon conviction in federal court, which would mean, he said, the accused would be "tried by his neighbors" and not by any Washington burocrat.

Another provision of the bill which came under fire in the committee was the provision for "zero ceilings"—the power of the WMC to rule that a non-essential establishment must release its employes for war work and could not hire replacements. This, it was argued, would result in government-ordered unemployment.

'WORK OR JAIL' PLAN ILLEGAL, OLANDER HOLDS

Labor Aid Points to Court Decisions.

The "work or jail" bill pending before congress is "clearly unconstitutional" and members of congress are faced with the fundamental issue of respecting or disregarding the Constitution when they cast their votes, said Victor A. Olander, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois State Federation of Labor, in an article in the current issue of the federation's weekly news letter.

Olander cited Supreme court decisions and interpretations of the Constitution made by congress to support his claims that "forced labor is involuntary servitude."

As a warning to congressmen who plan to vote for the forced labor legislation and to President Roosevelt, who favors its passage, Olander reminded them that when they took their oath of office they swore "to uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States."

Cites Court Interpretation.

An interpretation of the 13th amendment to the United States Constitution by the court was cited by Olander. It follows:

"It is a charter of universal freedom for all persons, of whatever race, color or estate under the flag. The plain intention was to abolish slavery of whatever form and all its badges and incidents; to make labor free, by prohibiting that control by which the personal service of one man is disposed of or coerced for another's benefit which is the essence of involuntary servitude. There is no more important concern than to safeguard the freedom of labor upon which alone can enduring prosperity be based."

Congress recognized the meaning and significance of the 13th amendment, Olander continued, when in 1900 it passed the territorial act applicable to the Hawaiian Islands, providing that all contracts to perform personal service or labor for a definite period of time were "null, void and terminated."

Points to Rail Labor Act.

Also when congress passed the railway labor act it included the passage that "nothing in this act shall be construed to require an individual employe to render labor or service without his consent nor shall anything in this act be construed to make the quitting of his labor or service by an individual employe an illegal act; nor shall any court issue any process to compel the performance by an individual employe of such labor or service without his consent."

STATE HOUSING AID PROGRAM PLAN DISCUSSED

Proposals for a comprehensive state housing aid program were discussed yesterday at a meeting of a subcommittee of the Illinois post-war planning commission. The meeting was held in the office of Temple McFayden, chairman of the subcommittee and head of the state housing board.

One of the proposed laws, McFayden said, would enable the state to contribute, thru local housing agencies, in the financing of better housing in slum areas. Under the plan the local body would have to raise locally, thru taxing bodies, at least 20 per cent of the total cost. It has been assumed that the state might go as high as 25 millions in financing housing.

The conference recommended the bills implementing the program, which were drawn by Atty. Walter F. Dodd, be studied by the planning commission and transmitted with approval to the governor and the legislature.

FIRED CAPTAIN AND COLLECTOR SUE LYONS BOARD

Joseph Duffek, 4214 Prescott av., Lyons, who was dismissed as village police captain last June 21, and Mrs. Emily E. Herber, 7846 45th st., Lyons, dismissed as village collector last Aug. 9, filed reinstatement suits in Circuit court yesterday against the village board. They also asked judgments for back salaries. Duffek said the board voted to reinstate him last September, but has not restored his salary and has not permitted him to work. Mrs. Herber charged she was dismissed by Theofil T. Bulat, village president, without the consent of the board.

Revisits Scenes

Walter Haag, 37, firebug who touched off 70 fires in the last four years at homes in his neighborhood, visited the scenes of his crimes yesterday and pointed out to Earl Downes, city fire attorney, where he placed baskets of oil soaked paper beneath stairs and set them afire.

Haag, driver of a soft drink company truck who lives at 1744 Barry av., told Downes how he set the fire May 16 at 1733 Nelson st. in which six persons were injured. Brooks Osteen, who lived on the second floor, dropped his children 20 feet to the ground, and helped his wife and parents to jump.

Most of the fires Haag set were on Fletcher st., Barry av., and Belmont av., in the 1700 to 1900 blocks, Downes said. Haag often set as many as four fires in one building entrance at different times. Downes listed more than 30 addresses where Haag had started a total of 70 fires to experience what Haag described as an "elation."

Haag, who lives with his mother, told police he was released from the Elgin state hospital several years ago and previously had served time in other state hospitals for sex crimes.

REINSTATE COP WHO RESIGNED IN MARITAL TANGLE

Policeman Alfred W. Lauderdale of the North av. district, who was suspended Feb. 1 by Police Commissioner Allman after he tried to resign from the department without notice, was ordered reinstated yestefday by the civil service commission. Lauderdale resigned when he was questioned about an anonymous report that he was a bigamist, but Allman refused to accept the resignation and suspended him for being absent from duty without permission. The policeman and his lawyer, Isadore Goldstein, told the commission yesterday that he was remarried after his first wife told him she had obtained a divorce. Since his suspension, he said, his first wife did divorce him, and his second wife is suing for an annulment.

SUSPEND 2 AIDS WHO HIT INMATE IN STATE SCHOOL

Richard Eddy, managing officer of the Illinois State Training school, near St. Charles, announced yesterday that two cottage officers have been suspended for 30 days for violating the school rule against corporal punishment.

The two men, Frank Phillips and Carmile Bichols, Negroes, admitted striking Eugene Davis, 13, of East St. Louis, on the wrist with a leather strap. Eddy said the two men also admitted having punished other boys in the cottage. Davis was treated at the infirmary for welts on his wrist.

Shortly after the suspensions were disclosed, two inmates escaped from the school, but were caught soon afterward near Lily lake. They were Billy Benefield, 15, of Peking, committed Dec. 29, 1944, for burglary, and Armin Schuchardt, also 15, of Route 3, Downers Grove, received Sept. 25, 1944, for attempted burglary.

FIRE OFFICIALS CONTINUE FIGHT TO CLOSE SHOW

The fire department yesterday continued the fight to have the Douglas Park theater, 3206 Ogden av., closed on the ground that it is unsuited for a show house. Fines of $100 and costs against Abe Kalish, building owner, and Oscar Ostroff, theater manager, were stayed by Judge Erwin J. Hasten in License court on an announcement by Atty. Simon Herr for the defendants that he planned to appeal.

They were given a week to file appeal bonds of $250 each. It was Kalish's 26th appearance in court since the fire department began bringing charges against him.

Hearing of charges against the Federal Truck lines, 1700 Indiana av., the scene of a $100,000 fire Saturday in which four firemen were injured, was continued to Feb. 28 to bring in witnesses on warrants.

Judge Hasten was scheduled yesterday to hear 41 defendants charged with violating city fire codes.

A NEW TRACTION PLAN.

The governor and the mayor have agreed on a plan for the creation of a new local government in Cook county, whose business it will be to buy and operate the existing elevated, street car, and bus facilities and provide additional lines and equipment. A bill to permit the organization of this new authority is now being drawn for submission to the legislature. The expectation is that the legislature will pass the bill without delay and that the question of adopting this solution of the local transportation problem will then be presented to the voters of Chicago at the judicial election in June. The suburban towns will vote themselves in or out of the district at later elections.

If the legislature and the people of Chicago approve the plan, a board of seven will be appointed to run the transportation district. Four of the members will be appointed by the mayor and three by the governor, but the mayor's appointees must be acceptable to the governor and the governor's to the mayor. Both officials have pledged themselves to appoint only men of the highest standing and to support provisions in the law to assure the same kind of appointments in future.

The money to purchase the existing facilities and finance extensions is to come from the sale of so-called revenue bonds. These securities, it is said, can be issued at a low interest partly because of present market conditions and more especially because the interest paid on municipal bonds is exempt from income tax. Financing the traction district in this fashion, it is promised, will never impose a burden on the taxpayers.

Two points ought not to be overlooked.

The first is that there isn't any way to assure honesty and competence in the board of trustees. The very fact that the mayor and the governor promise to appoint only men of the highest standing is itself significant in this connection. No doubt if the plan is adopted they will keep their word to the best of their ability. Their pledge, however, is an attempt to quiet their own and everybody else's apprehension that politics will continue to be politics. There was a time in this community when the Circuit court judges were regarded as the fount of integrity; that is why they were given supervision of the county fee offices. In its early days, the sanitary board was above reproach. Experience warns against judging this plan on the assumption that the board will always be composed of intelligent and disinterested citizens.

Of equal or greater importance is the financial prospect. New money is needed to build extensions and acquire equipment. It is for lack of these additional facilities that Chicago's transportation is as deficient as it is. The people will be no better served than they are today if the new district exhausts, or nearly exhausts, its credit in acquiring the existing lines. The question, therefore, is: Can the new district, if it is established, borrow upward of $100,000,000 over the next eight or ten years in addition to the amounts it will have to borrow to buy the lines? More particularly, can it obtain these very large sums by offering no greater security to investors than revenue bonds?

The mayor and governor say yes, but we should imagine that the legislature will desire more precise assurances on this point. Surely the voters will insist that the proponents of the plan state without ambiguity just why they are confident that the money will be forthcoming when it is needed, without imposing a burden or a lien on the taxpayers.

The only useful purpose that can be served by the proposed new government is to provide funds not now obtainable for extensions and betterments. If there is good reason to doubt that this result will be realized, the plan has nothing in its favor. It would merely remove the traction companies from the roll of taxpayers without giving anybody a faster or more comfortable, or cheaper ride than he gets now.

We think the mayor and the governor can be credited with sincerity and good intentions in this matter. We think their proposals, when drafted, should be examined without dogmatic enthusiasm for or against public ownership, and, more particularly, without wishful thinking.

WHY AMERICA NEEDS MacARTHUR.

Arthur Veysey of THE TRIBUNE gave a Chicago audience convincing reasons the other day why 15 months with the armies led by Gen. MacArthur have caused him to regard MacArthur as the first general of this war.

He described handicaps overcome to win our first successes in the Southwest Pacific—the first "invasion fleet" of Higgins and PT boats. He demolished some of the lies that have been told about MacArthur by "sniping, petty minded, jealous gossips." He described the formula of MacArthur's military success, the formula that carried the army of Philippine liberation, in 15 months, past strongholds manned by 200,000 well equipped Japanese at a cost of only 5,000 American casualties.

The formula is not original. Every general tries to apply it when he can, but none in this war, at least, has found means of using it so consistently and successfully as has Gen. MacArthur. It consists of hitting the enemy at his weak points and avoiding his concentrations of strength. As it was applied in the Pacific warfare the American army, while it was on the offensive, forced the Japanese time after time to attack its prepared positions, at terrible cost to the enemy.

Lately there have been whispers in this country, perhaps politically inspired, that Gen. MacArthur's task is finished with the liberation of the Philippines, and that further offensives in Japan will be entrusted to other leadership. No more tragic blunder could be imagined. It is not merely that Gen. MacArthur deserves to continue his leadership, because of the victories he has won; more important, the American army in the Pacific deserves to keep his leadership. The parents of the boys fighting there deserve it, for it guarantees that future victories will be won at the least possible sacrifice of their sons.

The MacArthur formula is not always applicable. It is one thing to by-pass strong points in a chain or group of islands, hitting where the enemy is unprepared to resist, and quite another to reduce an isolated strong point in the midst of wide expanses of ocean. If possession of the strong point is essential, as possession of Guam and Saipan was to our campaign against Japan, the only way to get it is to send troops ashore, with as much naval and aerial support as possible, and pay the price of a frontal assault.

The 4th and 5th marine divisions are displaying incredible heroism in the present assault on Iwo. The casualties they have already suffered would have caused less courageous and well trained organizations to abandon the battle, but the marines are driving ahead against an enemy whose natural shelters render him largely invulnerable to shellfire and bombing. The only way to clear Iwo is for the marine infantry to hunt them out of their caves and kill them. For the lives we are paying in this costly process we expect to exact a price not only on Iwo itself, but in Tokyo, which will soon be harassed by American bombers from the air fields we are winning.

Whatever the military advantages won, casualties such as we are suffering on Iwo are a great tragedy to the American people. The best way to keep such tragedies at a minimum is to keep Gen. MacArthur in command until Tokyo surrenders.

IVORY, APES, AND PEACOCKS.

Harun al Raschid in his adventures in storied Bagdad had a chronicler—alas, anonymous—and so it was, too, with Mr. Roosevelt. The White House account of the President's travels provides no clew to authorship, but is it too brash to guess that the great man himself might have deigned to turn a jeweled phrase or two? We know from his lectures to the White House correspondents that he has always fancied himself a craftsman in prose, and here, in sooth, was a yarn well worth the telling.

First to the President's man-o'-war came King Farouk, bearded like the pard and topped with a fez. But, hark! Who comes now? Batten my hatches, but unless these old eyes deceive me, yon lean and hungry knight, bearded like the pard, is Haile Selassie, King of Kings and Lion of Judah, out of the fastnesses of Ethiopia. But soft, my hearties, who's that knocking at my door? Aye, right ye are, mates. It's King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia, come from the desert land where the coyotes howl o'er the lone prairie and the sands shift ever to the fickle winds.

Let the deck be spread with rich rugs of Araby. Place the gilded chairs. Dispose the cups. Coffee, you say? Nay, it's nectar. The flowing robes and accessories made the native dress strikingly picturesque, we are told. The President was seated on the forward gun deck to receive the visitors. The boatswain's pipe shrilled, the bugles sounded, and all hands leapt to rigid attention. Ibn Saud, bearded like pard, stepped forward, smiling inscrutably, and bowed low with the old world courtesy of an ancient race. Mr. Roosevelt, not bearded, but also smiling inscrutably, bowed, too. It was a sight that would e'en warm the cockles of a democrat's heart.

The conversation is veiled from us. All that we know is that "the discussions were in line with the President's desire that heads of governments thruout the world should get together whenever possible to talk as friends and exchange views in order to better understand the problems of one another." Did Mr. Roosevelt, perchance, chat oil politics with Ibn Saud? Did he, in his conversations with Farouk, advance the scheme of a little pan-Arab Dumbarton Oaks? Did he inquire what Haile Selassie heard from the mob in Addis Ababa?

We do not know. We know that he spared no pains to play the expansive host. An American warship was sent to Jidda to transport Ibn Saud to the meeting, and that monarch came, driving a herd of wild sheep before him up the gangway and onto the deck. He offered to feed the entire destroyer crew from his flocks, but they politely declined. Not for this child of nature the stuffy confinement of the cabin. He pitched his tent on the deck and slept 'neath the stars.

We do not know what tokens of amity were exchanged, but we may judge that they were magnificent, for Prime Minister Churchill, with the prestige of the empire at stake, could not permit himself to be outdone. To him Ibn Saud presented a golden sword and dagger, encrusted with jewels, and himself received two large and elegantly built boxes which, upon being opened by the enchanted monarch, disclosed vials of concentrated esences of amber, musk, mimosa, jasmine, and others. It is different from Solomon's day, when these things were the products of the east, but chemistry has moved apace.

Altogether, the President's script is good, and we think it should play well, but the third act lets down. The suspense is built up by Gen. de Gaulle's invitation that Mr. Roosevelt visit Paris, and Mr. Roosevelt's counter-invitation that the general visit Algiers. But then nothing happens. Boy doesn't meet boy, after all. Some good play doctor, familiar with "The Voice of the Turtle," can fix this up. After that, the production will be ready to open in Trenton. Do we hear Hollywood bidding for screen rights? Lights! Action! Camera!

Origin of the Purple Heart.

Under date of Aug. 7, 1782, general orders, we find the followjng:

"The general [George Washington], ever desirous to cherish a virtuous ambition in his soldiers, as well as to foster and encourage every species of military merit, directs that whenever any singularly meritorious action is performed the author of it shall be permitted to wear on his facings, over the left breast, the figure of a heart in purple cloth, or silk, edged with narrow lace or binding. . . . Men who have merited this last distinction to be suffered to pass all guards and sentinels which officers are permitted to do. The road to glory in a patriot army and a free country is thus open to all. This order is also to have retrospect to the earliest stages of the war, and to be considered as a permanent one."

The surviving records show only three grants of this Revolutionary war badge of honor. The distinction was dropped after the war and was not revived until Feb. 22, 1932, by order of President Hoover.

FOR HIS BIRTHDAY.

(George Washington, 1732-'99.)

The faithless years in dull forgetfulness
Have strewn their leaves about his monuments,
And few look backward in this day of stress,
Absorbed in but the morrow's great events;
And yet the burdens of a war-dark age
Were borne by him in agonizing share;
Our griefs were his, and we may still assuage
Our fears in wisdom time cannot impair.
Tho stern austerity has cloaked his fame
In marble cenotaphs thru all the land,
Let us remember that his greatness came
As troubled leader of a ragged band
In dark discouragement, beneath the trees
One night at Valley Forge—upon his knees.

Science is also revising our clichés. A powder has been developed for dusting on packages, fire alarm boxes, etc., which leaves invisible marks on the hands of a tamperer. Under ultra-violet [black light] rays, however, these marks glow with greenish brilliance. No longer can it be accurately said that the criminal was caught red-handed. Hig.

You would not sacrifice any of the benefits you mention by moving to Mexico since residence in this country is not a requirement.

HOW TO KEEP WELL by Dr. Irving S. Cutter

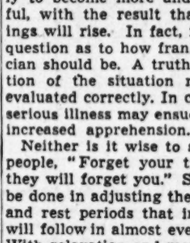
The following article was prepared in advance by Dr. Irving S. Cutter before the illness which resulted in his death Feb. 2.

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune.]

UPSET EMOTIONS AND HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE.

NO one can view medical progress over the last few generations without coming to the realization that the conquest of many maladies lies not far ahead. Chief among these we must include high blood pressure. We are learning so much about the chemistry of the body and the resistance of tissues that the next few years will probably witness new and better dietary regimes, more scientifically adopted to the requirements of the victim.



I wish it were possible to make a critical analysis of the emotional reactions of every individual. We are the sons and daughters of our parents, and we behave as would their children. The offspring of easily excited and jittery forebears cannot fail to incline toward high blood pressure. If the arteries are elastic enough to handle the situation, well and good. But the chances are that a mounting tension will develop.

Observe the middle aged chap who enters the doctor's office. Many signs of instability probably will be observed. He may blush or flush easily, exhibit alternate cold or sweaty intervals, and present occasional dizzy spells accompanied by a tendency to faint. We recognize that such a man is highstrung, that he is his own worst enemy, and that he is punishing his blood conduits. Such a person is rarely benefited by insisting that frequent pressure determinations be made. He is likely to become more and more fearful, with the result that the readings will rise. In fact, it is often a question as to how frank the physician should be. A truthful explanation of the situation may not be evaluated correctly. In consequence, serious illness may ensue because of increased apprehension.

Neither is it wise to say to these people, "Forget your troubles and they will forget you." So much can be done in adjusting the work, play, and rest periods that improvement will follow in almost every instance. With relaxation and mental complacency, many of these sufferers will settle down to a level which is consistent with the normal span of life. One of the first and most important moves of the medico is to help iron out psychic difficulties and concerns.

Of course, the thing will go on and affect the heart. Sooner or later, a neurotic "pump" will become the victim's prize possession. But now and then one of these patients will save himself by encountering some physical disorder which will oblige him to lay off from work for several weeks or months. Possibly he will select another vocation.

I have in mind a school teacher who experienced a typical neurasthenia, with muscular and cardiac weakness and peculiar wandering pains, none of which could be laid on the doorstep of a specific ailment. The only symptom present was high blood pressure. During the prescribed rest interval, the readings dropped from 190 to 130 and remained that way even after recovery. She was persuaded to change her occupation to a type of employment somewhat less strenuous and exacting.

Certain remedies need not be forgotten and, as the chemistry of the body begins to unfold in the light of modern research, new pathways to the relief of this killing disorder will be discovered.

MIND READING.

Mrs. T. writes: My husband and I have been married six months. Every time I think of something, he speaks the word he is thinking and it is the same. How do you explain this?

REPLY.

This is probably a form of mental telepathy and indicates that your husband's thoughts are running in the same channel. I hope this will not rob you of all your secrets.

ENLARGED HEAD.

Mrs. W. writes: Must hydrocephalus be present when the child is born, or can it come on later?

REPLY.

The condition usually occurs at birth but it may develop at any time in meningitis or brain tumor. If the latter is encountered after the bones have become fused, the head does not enlarge.

A TICKLER.

M. G. writes: My right thumb tickles all the time. What could cause this?

REPLY.

The nerves at the end of your thumb may be extra sensitive, and a disagreeable habit pattern has developed. This condition is less serious than the well known itchy palm.

By MARCIA WINN

Hands Across the Waters.

[Editor's note: It now seems remote and long ago, but the men of the 1st marine division can never forget the day they landed in Melbourne, Australia, after the bitter siege and gall of Guadalcanal. They were haggard, emaciated, ill, eaten alive with malaria, and had waited so long for relief they thought of themselves as the forgotten division of the war. Melbourne opened its arms to them. They were met with flowers and food and proud devotion, which reached such a height that when the 1st division went back into battle the Melbourne papers carried headlines speaking of the doings of "our" marines.

[Their long months there best can be understood in the light of an adaptation of the American song, "Thanks for the Memory," written after their departure by two Melbourne girls. Wherever you find a 1st marine today you probably will find a tattered copy of this little booklet. Its words follow:]

To the U. S. M. C.
Thanks for the memory
Of colored campaign bars,
Blossom and stars,
Of rum and cokes
And moron jokes
And driving in staff cars.
How lovely it was!

Thanks for the memory
Of castles in the air,
Fingers in my hair,
Of Collins street,
And kisses sweet,
And those medals that you wear.
How lovely it was!

Thanks for the memory
Of evenings in your clubs,
M. P.'s around the pubs,
Of drunks and fights
And dreadful types
And whirling jitterbugs.
How lovely it was!

For many's the time that we feasted
And many's the time that we fasted.
Gee, it was swell while it lasted.
We did have fun—and no harm done—so
Thanks for the memory
Of sunburn on the shore,
Lunch from twelve to four,
You might have been a headache,
But you never were a bore.
How lovely it was.

O, many's the time that we flirted,
I don't think we'll ever regret it.
I know I shall never forget it,
I loved you so,
But there I go—so
Thanks for the memory
Of really good swing bands,
Of Artie Shaw
And Eleanor!
And scribbling in the sand.
How lovely it was.

Thanks for the memory
Of tidy little flats,
Trying on your hats,
And cozy fireside chats,
Of St. Kilda's esplanade,
You took me home—and stayed.
Of Luna park
And gardens dark,
Those football games you played.
How lovely it was.

Thanks for the memory
Of visits to the zoo,
Those crazy things you'd do,
Of southern drawls,
Long distance calls,
And dreams that won't come true.
How lovely it was.

Thanks for the memory
Of all that might have been,
The things we might have seen,
Of Texas bare,
And old Times Square,
And life in New Orleans.
How lovely it was.

I was so sad when we parted.
Altho I knew you didn't care, dear,
I'd hoped all our dreams we might share, dear,
But thanks for the memory
Of troops who'd been in strife,
Kids who enjoyed life,
Of love affairs
And foolish cares
And photos of your wife.
How lovely it was.

Thanks for the memory
Of "Serenade in Blue,"
That little beard you grew,
I'm awfully glad I met you
And all the others, too.
I know I never should have hoped
That you could love me, too,
But all the same, darling,
Thank you so much!

NO TIME FOR FRANKNESS.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—I was not surprised to read Queen Wilhelmina's denial of the report that she had refused to go on the air with "Commoner" Emily Douglas. After all, she is still grabbing handouts from the American people, and this isn't the time for frankness.

When the war is over, when the last lost Asiatic colony has been returned, when the last slave laborer has reported to his European master, and when the last ounce of lend-lease has put to sea, Europe will again be European. The gang of European diplomats will scorn us all as commoners. The British will call us Uncle Shylock, and the French will call us swine, just as they did when asked to repay some of our largess after the last war.

In the meantime, however, they will continue to flatter those of us who are most responsive to royal or diplomatic pats on the back, and will reserve their kicks on the backside for those who feel that they should cede us Curacao, Martinique, Bermuda, and their other possessions on the Atlantic seaboard in payment for lend-lease.

EXPORT SUGGESTION.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—I am certainly not a bitter anti-New Dealer and do not see eye to eye with you 100 per cent of the time, but your editorial, "Privileges of Office" is certainly a bell ringer.

It happens that I thought that the export-import bank could have done considerable to encourage foreign trade before the war when we needed the business, and during the war when all possible shipping of anything that we could possibly spare would have been good political strategy, as far as Central and South America are concerned.

Yet when I first proposed certain broadening of activities for the export-import bank, when it was under the hand of Harry Hopkins this idea did not even warrant the courtesy of a response, and I am sorry to say did not fare much better with his successor in Mr. Roosevelt's cabinet.

The ability of any exporter to discount the face of the invoice at a very nominal rate, plus a nonrecourse privilege, at say, 1 per cent of the amount, which would be tantamount to credit insurance, would remove the greatest inhibition toward a broader export activity. Actual credit losses without a doubt would be diminished, because foreign deadbeats would more easily show up in a centralized credit office.

JULIUS BRAUN.

THEY VOTED FOR IT.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—I have read with glee the squawking and moaning of certain people about the Polish situation. Before the election I tried very hard to convert certain Polish people to vote Republican, for their own good. "O, no," they said, "Mr. Roosevelt is our man. He will take care of us. [And how.] Our boys will come back. Poland will be free, etc., etc."

Some have lost their boys, for which I am sorry. Russia has practically taken Poland—which is O. K., the war is far from over [Mayor Kelly told the people, "Elect Roosevelt and the war will end."] Taxes are higher. Rationing which was taken off just before the election, is back again and worse. I can take it all because I expected it, but those who voted for Roosevelt are the ones who are moaning—and I do mean moaning—the poor, misguided people. C. A. J.

NAVY SCHOOLING IN RADAR.

Elmwood Park, Ill., Feb. 10.—I have noticed in several editions of your newspaper, which my parents have sent to me, the need for 10,000 boys 17 years of age to become radar technicians. I am at the present time a radar man in the navy.

The reason for this letter is that it makes me fighting mad to see fellows come into the navy and get a soft touch like that when there are innumerable men now at sea who would give their eye teeth for a few months at a radar material school. There is many a good radar operator who needs only a little expert instruction, which cannot be gotten at sea, to become a competent technician. I have attended a radar material school and have no gripes about my good fortune in being sent to school, but what of the fellow who has been at sea one, two, and even three years? Why not send the new men to sea and have them earn the chance to go to a service school.

No matter how they figure out these programs, they should give the man who has put in plenty of sea duty first crack at these new schools.

A SAILOR ON LEAVE.

BROWN-OUT PROWLERS.

Chicago, Feb. 16.—Since the beginning of the "brown-out," the entrance lights on our apartment building have been turned off. Our block is now very dark, with a park on one side. The women in our building are panic stricken. There has been an average of one holdup a night in our neighborhood. The "brown-out" order is a commercial one, intended for business houses and places of amusement. Surely it is not the intention of the government to make the city unsafe for women. Apparently it is an opportunity for the landlord to reduce operating costs at the expense of the tenants, for other entrance lights are burning all over town on apartment buildings.

STRATEGY AGAINST JAPAN.

Beulah, Miss., Feb. 16.—I think it is time for a change in our war plans as concerns Japan; after we win the Philippine Islands and possibly one or two more, can we not do enough damage to Japan to satisfy our honor by a naval and air blockade with fire and explosives dropped on everything she has for, say, a period of 10 years?

Why should we go ahead and loan half million more lives in order to free the empires claimed by England, France, Holland, and even Russia?

SHOVELING THE GANGWAY.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—If a landlord has a front and rear entrance and a tenant has only a rear entrance, [1] who must shovel off the snow in the gangway? 2. Is there any way to make the landlord do it? 3. If one of the tenants falls and hurts himself is the landlord liable for damages? 4. STUDY AIRPORT SPACE PROBLEM FOR CANADA LINE

Hewitt Sends Inquiries on Leading Details.

Granting of a route to Canada for an air line from Toronto to Chicago raises the question of where ticket office and loading space can be provided for Canadian planes in the new terminal building the city is designing for the Chicago airport.

Public Works Commissioner Hewitt said yesterday the city is eager to make terminal arrangements suitable for the Canadian planes, which probably will be the first foreign aircraft flying regularly scheduled flights into the city. While there has been no official announcement from Canada, it is assumed the Toronto-Chicago route and five other new routes into this country will be assigned to Trans-Canada Air Lines, because that company is govment dominated.

Questions Are Sent.

Commissioner Hewitt addressed a letter yesterday to Herbert J. Symington, president of TCA at Montreal, inquiring whether his company was to be given the right to fly here, when service might be expected to start, and what facilities in the terminal TCA would require.

The questions relate to the acute problem of finding space in the proposed building for the eight domestic lines already on the field, as well as for the Canadian company. Runway and taxiway patterns at the airport limit the size of the building, which is to be on Cicero av., near the north end of the field, in the area bounded by the southwest-northeast and east-west runways.

For several weeks an air lines committee has been working on plans with City Architect Paul Gerhardt Jr. An agreement has been concluded allocating positions in the terminal to each line, with space for each line in ratio to its business. This plan has consumed all the interior of the proposed terminal, and the 17 loading positions for planes, without provision for Canadian or any other new operators.

Negotiations Now Best.

The American lines are paying $2 a square foot for space in the terminal in addition to landing fees. Hewitt's view is that it will serve the Canadians' best interests to negotiate financial and space questions before the terminal construction starts, so the foreign line can be berthed conveniently with the American lines.

The eight companies now planning the building find their ingenuity is being strained to cram the necessary ticket counters, waiting rooms, and office equipment into the 25,000 feet the building affords.

There has been discussion of the possibility of making the foundations of the terminal sufficiently strong to support a second story if, as it already appears, the lines will want more room within a short time. At least one Canadian line must be accommodated, and perhaps other domestic air companies will be given routes to Chicago.

CHAPLIN ANGRY AT BEING CALLED RED AND INGRATE

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 21 [Special].—Recalling that he was once called to Washington "for questioning as a war monger," Charles Chaplin, 56, British born former comedian, today issued a statement attacking as political persecution the legislation now pending in the senate immigration committee to investigate whether he should be deported as an undesirable alien.

The aging actor admitted he is an internationalist and called his critics "pro-Nazi and reactionary elements." He attributed the inception of what he termed his "persecution" to the ideas he expressed in his movie "the Great Dictator," declared it increased after he spoke on behalf of Russia, and that he was called a Communist and an ingrate, the latter for making millions in this country without becoming a citizen.

He even blamed his recent sensational moral and paternity troubles on this "political persecution." His trials for seducing Joan Berry, 24, his protege, and allegedly fathering her child were "trumped up" and inspired lies by "sob sisters" using as their tool Miss Berry, "who was played up as an innocent girl lured into immoral relations," he contended.

CHICAGOANS AID DOWNSTATERS ON AIRPORT BILL

Bid for Return Help on City Legislation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 21.—The senate reached a compromise today on the bonding provisions of the revised bill to permit downstate cities to create airport authorities with power to acquire and operate air fields. Under new amendments, approval of the voters must be received before the new governmental units can float bond issues.

Sen. Daley [D., Chicago], in his capacity as Chicago spokesman, also changed the airport authority bill so that it does not apply to the city of Chicago. The earlier draft exempted all of Cook county from its provisions, but used legal phraseology previously disapproved by the Illinois Supreme court, Daley told the downstate sponsors.

Suburbs Unlikely to Act.

While the revised act makes it theoretically possible for any Cook county suburb of 5,000 or larger population to create an airport authority, Daley held that such action was improbable until Mayor Kelly and Gov. Green, who last week reached an agreement on traction settlements, decide what, if anything they want to do about an airport authority for Chicago. A Chicago airport program probably would take in suburban territory.

The stand taken by Daley was designed to create the impression that the Chicago delegation was anxious to help pass airport legislation for downstate communities, whose legislators will be needed to put across the traction and other metropolitan legislation.

Unless additional obstacles bob up, the airport bill is expected to be passed and sent to the house next week.

Judicial Reviews Proposed.

Uniform procedure in getting judicial review of rulings made by state and local administrative agencies was sought in a bill introduced by Sen. Mills [R., Chicago], chairman of the administrative practice and review commission created by the 1943 legislature. Co-sponsors were Senators Thompson and Keane [D., Chicago].

"We are trying to end the confusion and bewilderment that arises when there is no uniformity in methods of judicial review from agencies operating under more than 100 regulatory acts," said Mills.

A bill to increase the salaries of county judges, who are paid by the state on a graduated basis according to population, was introduced by Senators Little [R., Aurora], Trager [R., Peoria], Libonati [D., Chicago], and Barry [D., Chicago]. Other bills to increase salaries of Circuit and Superior judges were introduced last week, and Probate judges also are seeking higher pay. Judge Jarecki of the Cook county court would have his salary from the state treasury boosted from $8,000 to $10,000 a year under the new bill. Like Circuit and Superior judges in Cook county, he now gets $15,000 a year with the county paying $7,000.

Harding av. Corp. Koski has been in the army seven years, and participated in four major engagements in the European theater of war. The couple will live in Texas, near Camp Palacios, where Corp. Koski is assigned as an instructor in the air forces.

F. T. McCURRIE IS SWORN IN AS PUBLIC DEFENDER

Francis T. McCurrie, assistant state's attorney for the last 12 years, was sworn in yesterday by Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan as Cook county public defender. The ceremony took place at a meeting of the executive committees of the Circuit and Superior court judges. McCurrie succeeds Benjamin Bachrach, the first to occupy the office, who resigned because of illness. Mr. McCurrie, a graduate of the University of Notre Dame, is a former president of the Notre Dame club of Chicago. Court officials said Bachrach would continue with the public defender's office in an advisory capacity.

⅔ Inch of Rain Washes City; 36° Forecast Today

Rainfall measuring .61 of an inch yesterday gave the city a needed washing and did away with most of the remaining dirty snow and ice. Forecaster H. L. Jacobson predicted snow flurries would mark the end of the rain this morning and in the afternoon the temperatures would approximate 36 degrees and be accompanied by strong winds.

DE KALB COUNTY PREDICTS TIGHT JUDGESHIP RACE

De Kalb county Republicans yesterday predicted a close race in the county judicial convention called for tomorrow night in the courthouse at Sycamore because Col. Cassius Poust, recently returned from military service, will oppose the renomination of Circuit Judge Harry W. McEwen.

Judge McEwen is the only one of the three sitting judges facing opposition in the 16th circuit, which includes De Kalb, Kane, Du Page, and Kendall counties. County conventions have been called for the same night in the three other counties with the anticipation that Judges Win G. Knoch of Naperville and Charles A. O'Connor of Aurora will be renominated unanimously.

The district convention has been called for March 22 in Geneva. The district is so strongly Republican that nomination assures election.

McEwen had served as city judge of De Kalb for 15 years and was De Kalb county judge from 1930 until his election as circuit judge in 1942. Poust formerly was state's attorney of De Kalb county and was first assistant to United States Atty. George E. Q. Johnson from 1929 to 1931.

with vamp cut-outs $7.95

It's easy to see why these are such engaging shoes; note the short vamp and smart openwork! When you see them on your feet, you're sure they're not your size—so small do they make your feet seem! Black patent leather or calf; also blue or turf tan calfskin.

remember that Latin dancer?

bet she wore a bolero!

It's an optical illusion . . . but believe us, boleros do whittle your waist down to nothing. Partly it's the broader shoulders of the jackets . . . but mostly, it's the length! Stopping just where they do gives the waist identification . . . makes it look smaller than it is. As here . . . in three of the handsomest bolero suits we've seen.

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

BRIDGES CALLED A 'QUISLING' BY LEADER IN CIO

New York, Feb. 21 [Special].—Harry Bridges, leftist leader of the CIO longshoremen's union, has been accused by the president of another CIO union of being a "misleader of labor" who has been allied with "fascistic and reactionary elements" and is a "Quisling in our ranks."

These charges were made by Milton Murray, president of the American Newspaper guild. Both Murray and Bridges are members of the top executive board of the CIO. At the same time it became known the guild's executive board has turned down a resolution requesting dismissal of deportation proceedings pending against Bridges by the department of justice.

Attention was called to these facts by the Daily Worker, communist publication and stanch defender of Bridges, in an attack on Murray which accused him of having decided to scab on CIO policy

"Originally it appeared the attack on Bridges was because of his labor activities," said Murray in a statement. "In the light of that attack I was one of his defenders. Subsequent developments have made it clear Bridges is not leader of labor. He is misleader and is a wrecker of honest trade unionism. At a time when national service legislation was being desperately opposed by the CIO he took it upon himself to support that legislation."

3000 AFL CHIEFS MAKE PLANS FOR RED CROSS DRIVE

More than 300 members and heads of AFL unions in Chicago met last night with the Chicago Federation of Labor's Red Cross committee to make plans for its role in the annual Red Cross campaign. A similar meeting will be held later, but it was tentatively planned last night to collect not only from each local's treasury and membership, but from management as well. Speakers included Thomas J. Murray, president of the Electrical Workers' union, local 134; Patrick F. Sullivan, president of the Chicago Building Trades Council, and Anton Johannsen, vice president of the Chicago Federation of Labor. Harry E. O'Reilly, AFL regional director, had charge of the meeting.

Flees with Cash Register; Outruns Wife of Owner

A young robber seized a 75 pound cash register from Gunnar Young's florist shop at 2300 Peterson av. last night and ran out. Young's wife, Vivian, pursued him. He outdistanced her despite his heavy load. Police later found the cash register three blocks away. Fifty dollars were missing.

FM RADIO FIRMS SAY FCC PLANS WILL DELAY SETS

Protest Proposed Change in Wave Band.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21 [Special].—Higher frequencies that the federal communications commission has proposed for FM broadcasting would cost the public millions of dollars, paralyze a new industry for two years after the war, and discriminate against it in the highly competitive post-war radio market, the Frequency Modulation Broadcasters, Inc., declared today.

In a brief filed with the FCC, which plans to renew hearings on the subject on Feb. 28, the broadcasters also charged that the commission, in formulating its proposal, had rejected the opinions of qualified industry experts and "gave undue weight" to those of its own witnesses. The brief asked for a reconsideration of the proposal, made public by the commission on Jan. 16.

Plan Higher Levels.

Under the proposal, FCC would raise the FM frequency range from the 42-50 megacycle level to one between 84-102 megacycles. The commission said its purpose in moving FM "upstairs" was to raise it above the plane of sky wave interference.

The FM broadcasters today pointed out that their industry, despite war time handicaps, has in the last five years developed resources and facilities to meet an expected demand for an estimated 5,000,000 FM radio sets in the first year after the war. However, a complete change in the frequency range would "paralyze" these facilities, since present transmitters and sets would have to be redesigned and tested. Most of this work could not be done under war conditions.

Charge Public Will Pay.

A spokesman for the broadcasters estimated the proposed removal to higher frequencies would cost prospective buyers of FM receiving sets $100,000,000 more than if they would be permitted to buy sets now designed as soon as they could be made available after the war. In addition, the broadcasters, who have already risked immense capital without reward for five years, would be financially penalized.

"The change would cost a paralyzing delay during the post-war years when FM could move forward with great rapidity," one brief said.

As a result, it was stated FM's competitors, including standard and television broadcasters, would be favored in the anticipated lucrative post-war radio market.

Millions Switching To Mutton Suet And Medication

"Old Reliable" For Relieving Chest Muscle Tightness-Coughing, Rheumatic Pain, Simple Bruises and Many Other Home Uses.

Grandma liked to "rub" miseries of chest colds and other simple pain. She medicated her rub but insisted it contain mutton suet. She liked the way mutton suet disappeared as it helped carry medication to nerve ends in skin to relieve pain. Today science has modernized Grandma's old-time pain relief principle to bring you Penetro, the salve that contains mutton suet plus 5 active ingredients. Mothers now thank Grandma for her old idea that created this newer relief.

In this colds' season, Penetro is especially helpful in easing chest muscle tightness, chest rawness, loosening phlegm, relieving coughs. That's because Penetro melts instantly, quickly vanishes to act 3 ways (1) To relieve pain at nerve ends in skin. (2) To ease chest muscle tightness by counter-irritation. (3) To soothe irritated breath passages through inhaled aromatic vapors. Penetro is so helpful, too, in easing rheumatic and neuralgic pain, taking sting from chapped lips and nostrils, and as a soothing dressing for bruises, minor cuts. Today get clean, white, easy-to-use Penetro.

ODT WARNING: REPAIR TIRES OR GO WITHOUT!

The office of defense transportation yesterday forecast a "serious breakdown of rubber borne transportation" of all kinds unless its appeals for repair, recapping, or retreading of all types of tires before summer are heeded. J. Monroe Johnson, ODT director, said in Washington, D. C., tire stocks are decreasing steadily.

"Improvement of the military situation in Europe will extend supply lines there, with an increase in demand for military type tires," Johnson said. "The present critical situation probably will continue thruout this year. There is a deficit of all kinds of tires, including 327,000 smaller truck casings and 192,000 larger sizes. The need for passenger car tires also will increase with the added wear of warmer weather.

"We are like a family living far beyond its income, using up its inventory, and going deeper into debt. We have reached the hand to mouth stage where even spare tires are hard to find."

STRIKE SETTLED IN THREE LOOP BARBER SHOPS

Settlement of a strike which started last Friday in three loop barber shops operated by the Terminal Shops, was announced yesterday by Daniel D. Carmell, attorney for local 548 of the AFL Journeymen Barbers union. The strike bound shops were those in the Palmer House, the Bismarck hotel, and at 1 N. La Salle st. The agreement to return to work followed an offer forwarded by George B. Christensen, attorney for the company, that if the union would call off the strike, the Terminal Shops would meet with the union to attempt to negotiate a contract.

Isbell, area director, said yesterday. Degnan, who helped establish the OPA shortly after the attack on Pearl Harbor, has been national price panel officer for two years. He will be responsible for operation of 173 local boards in the Chicago metropolitan area, the largest OPA district in the country.

SURFACE LINES ASK BIDS ON 570 NEW CARS, BUSES

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

Regardless of whether Chicago surface and elevated lines are unified under municipal ownership sponsored by Mayor Kelly and Gov. Green or under the private ownership plan being pushed in the federal District court, it is certain the surface lines will acquire a substantial amount of new rolling stock as soon as the war production board will permit construction.

Transportation officials said that new, improved equipment is essential to profitable operation of the transit lines from the standpoint of convenience and comfort of the passengers and economy of operation.

With the approval of the court, which controls the two companies in bankruptcy, and the city, the surface lines recently called for bids on 570 new vehicles — 270 gasoline buses, 100 trolley buses, and 200 street cars. The lines have enough cash to buy several times that much rolling stock.

Experimental Cars Ordered.

The elevated, altho its resources are more limited, has awarded contracts for the building of four experimental cars, each to carry twice as many passengers as the L cars now in use. The Pullman Standard company of Chicago is to build two and the St. Louis Car company the other two.

Engineers for the L, who drew the specifications for the new cars, said they will be faster and more economical than any now in use anywhere. Each is to be 88 feet long, streamlined, and with three articulated units to facilitate the taking of sharp turns.

The surface lines' buses are to be of types found satisfactory after years of investigation and service, and are to be built by such companies as General Motors, Mack, and White. Some have been promised for delivery next summer.

Only 85 Modern Cars.

Of the 3,600 Chicago street cars now in use, only 85 on the Madison st. line were bought in the last 20 years. They were purchased in 1934. They are said to be 10 to 12 per cent faster, stops included, than old type cars [many 40 years old are being run]. Surface lines officials said the new cars on order will be more comfortable, less noisy, and three inches wider than the Madison st. type, which has given general satisfaction.

Officials said the specifications were not ironbound and any development of new metals more serviceable than those specified would be used.

Spending of the surface lines' renewal fund, which has risen to 25 million dollars, has been blocked by the receivership into which the lines were thrown in 1927. The city's refusal to grant a franchise to any but a unified company also was a contributing factor to the inertia. But now the city is willing and eager for the buying of better rolling stock and has agreed to raise its municipal purchase price by the amount spent for the vehicles.

'Private Investigator Maclain'. . . . . By Baynard Kendrick

(Copyright: 1945: By Baynard Kendrick.)

CHECKUP.

Hot or cold, sleet or snow, sunshine or storm, the weather was only a matter of sensation to Duncan Maclain.

Rain might depress him, not because the night was darker or the skies were gray, but because he was keenly conscious of its monotonous patter, and dampened objects were naturally disagreeable to touch and feel.

Still, there was something stimulating about dampness to Duncan Maclain. It heightened the sound carrying properties of the atmosphere, and his audacity and belief in himself were enhanced in direct proportion to his ability to hear.

Just a few hours before, murder had followed in the train of a set of footsteps, and leaving the Arday apartments he felt convinced that he had heard them again. The footsteps had been clever during the afternoon, devilishly clever. The captain decided not to underrate them.

The doorman had left for the night, but the elevator boy asked, "Can I get a taxi, sir?"

"Thank you, I'll walk."

Escorted by Schnucke, he struck off up 5th av., tucking himself deeper into his light waterproof coat against the feel of the misty rain.

Schnucke checked him at the first crossing. A couple was talking half a block ahead.

Schnucke took him forward, crossing 11th st. The brief pause had been enough to tell him that so far there was no one behind him.

A block farther on, several people came out of a restaurant. They were talking animatedly as they passed in front of the captain. Filtered thru the distracting sounds of the conversation, he thought he heard the footsteps again. The people got in a taxi and slammed the door.

A second cab pulled up to discharge a single passenger. Change tinkled. A man passed by, and there was a noise as the driver raised his flag.

A voice said, "Taxi, mister? I don't mind your dog."

The captain said, "Globe-Tribune building," and got in.

The cab made a U-turn, heading downtown. At 8th st. it slowed, and two other cars went by.

The cab turned east to Broadway where it headed south. The street was deserted with a Sunday night deadness.

The driver hopped out and opened the door. "Can I see you inside, mister? This is the Globe-Tribune."

"To the elevator, if you don't mind." Maclain put a hand on the driver's arm.

An elevator man asked, "Where to?"

"I want to talk to the night city editor." Maclain heard the taxi driver whisper, "That guy's blind."

A woman came in and entered the car accompanied by a swish of skirts and a smell of perfume.

The car shot up. The woman got out at the 10th floor. The car went higher, and the operator said, "You get off here, mister. This is 20, the city room."

Maclain stepped out, and the door slid shut behind him. A boy took him in charge and conducted him for 80 paces across a noisy room. A wooden chair was by a desk. The captain touched it and sat down.

An interested voice said, "I'm McVeigh. Couldn't I have helped you by phone? This is a bad night to haul all the way downtown."

"I'm interested in a couple of news stories," said Maclain. "The only information I have about them is that one concerns a fellow named Felix Nightingale and the other one's about a widow named Cornelia Brown. There're some others, but my information is too indefinite to identify them."

"Your information still isn't very definite on the first two. What happened to this Nightingale and Brown?"

"All I know is that the widow had a second son who was killed by a taxi. I don't know anything about Felix Nightingale except that something was written about him. There're some other stories, but I've no names. One concerned a man beaten near a railroad siding."

"Wait a minute," said McVeigh. "I know who covers that sort of thing. I'll get his file."

A pencil scribbled on a pad. A boy came up. Near-by, a typewriter clattered briefly. The boy went away, and McVeigh talked over a telephone. After a while the boy came back.

McVeigh was silent a moment before he said, "Felix Nightingale was a sergeant in the army who came to New York to get married and lost his girl in the crowd. Human interest stuff. You want the details?"

"Not necessarily. I'm interested more in the stories than the details."

"The Brown woman had a son in the army who was killed in action, and the day she got the message she had another son run over by a taxicab. She wasn't exactly a widow. Her husband was in the penitentiary in Arkansas. More human interest stuff."

"Who wrote them?" asked the captain.

"Bob Morse covers all that sort of thing." McVeigh chuckled. "It isn't really news. We run them more on account of his sob sister style. Now here's the one about the man who was beaten up near the railroad siding. A fellow named Fitzgerald." He read it, and more.

The captain listened politely, and then asked, "How long ago were those written?"

"Quite a few months ago," said McVeigh, "but there have been more recent ones. Do you want to see them?"

The captain said, "No. Thanks very much. As a matter of fact, it was the style I was interested in." He gave a sheepish grin. "There's been some talk of Bob Morse putting me into a profile."

"You're famous enough around here to make a good one, Capt.

Several Events of Interest on the Calendar

BY JUDITH CASS.

SEVERAL interesting gatherings are on the calendar for the next few days. The 100 guests who have been invited to cocktails from 6 to 8 p. m. tomorrow in the Arts club by Lionel Vasse, French consul; Mme. Vasse, and Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, president of France Forever, will have a chance to meet Prince Sisowath, a member of the royal family of Cambodia, the Indo-Chinese state under French protectorate. The royal visitor, who was educated in France, will arrive in Chicago today.

By coincidence, the Alliance Francaise had planned its Saturday morning lecture, to be given by Jacques Marquette, around an Indo-Chinese theme, and so the prince will be present and may give a brief talk. After the lecture Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick and Mrs. Francis M. Gunn, president of the Alliance, will entertain at luncheon in the Casino for the visitor.

Prince Sisowath and members of the boards of directors of all organizations located in the International Relations center, 84 E. Randolph st., will attend a luncheon to be given at 12:30 p. m. tomorrow in the Woodrow Wilson meeting room in the center for eight French journalists. The visiting writers, some of whom were members of the French underground, are touring this country.

Also on the Calendar.

Even limiting the number of guests which members of the Drama league may bring to a breakfast for some of the cast of "The Searching Wind" at noon Monday in the Blackstone to two for each member, the league already has nearly filled the reservation list. Cornelia Otis Skinner, Dennis King, Dudley Digges, Barbara O'Neil, and Henry Barnard of the cast will be the breakfast guests, and sharing the speakers' table with them will be Mrs. Ira Humphrey, Mrs. Sherman Spitzer, Mrs. George B. Dryden, Mrs. Victor L. Schrager, and Mrs. Harry P. Jones. The play opened Tuesday night in the Erlanger theater. Mrs. Digges, who organized the Abbey Players, of which Mr. Digges was a member for many years, also will be a guest.

Dr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Frey will entertain at high tea Sunday for the members of the cast of "The Glass Menagerie"—Eddie Dowling, Laurette Taylor, Julie Hayden, and Anthony Ross.

Today's Events.

The ballroom of the Drake hotel has been sold out for the eighth annual fashion show of the Chicago Fashion group, to be held during luncheon at 12:30 p. m. today. "Fashion Becomes You" is the title of the show, which has been arranged by some of Chicago's smartest young professional women in the clothing, advertising, and decorating fields. Gardiner General hospital will receive the proceeds.

The tables around the runway will be filled with women who have become regular guests at these gala showings, but missing today will be Mrs. Burt A. Massee, a former regional director of the group, who left Monday for Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to visit Mrs. Gardner Kellogg of Milwaukee. From Fort Lauderdale Mrs. Massee will go to Jacksonville to visit her stepdaughter, Miss Margot Massee, before returning home in six weeks.

Some of those who have taken tables for the show are Mrs. Philip D. Armour Jr., Mrs. Alanson Donald, Mrs. Louis G. Buss, Mrs. Edwin L. Ryerson, Mrs. Morris McCormick, Mrs. Orville J. Taylor, and Mrs. Fred Herendeen. A preview of the show was held last night.

News of Births.

Lt. E. Freer Willson will arrive today on a four day emergency leave from Geneva, Neb., to meet his new daughter, born yesterday in the Sherman hospital in Elgin. The baby has been named Virginia Freer, the first name for her maternal grandmother, the late Princess Odescalki, who was Virginia Tietgens Deuell. Young Mrs. Willson, the former Patricia Deuell, has been living with her husband's mother, Mrs. Leonard Karcher, in Barrington.

From Greenwich, Conn., comes the news of the birth of a son Feb. 6 to Lt. and Mrs. Frank John Bersbach. The baby, who probably will be named for his father, has a year and a half old sister, Betsy, and a stepbrother, Darryl, who is 10. The youngsters are grandchildren of Mrs. Frank John Bersbach of New York. The junior Bersbachs are living in Greenwich while he is stationed with the navy in New York.

Style Awards Are Important to Designers

BY REA SEEGER.

The three winners of the American Fashion Critics' awards recently were announced. These awards are as important to American dress designers as the famous "Oscar" awards for outstanding performance in the film colony. A jury composed of judges of current fashions [fashion editors of national magazines and newspaper syndicates as well as of metropolitan newspapers] makes the decision.

This year Adrian, Californa designer, won first prize, the symbolic statuette of Malvina Hoffman. It is known as "Winnie," and with it goes a $1,000 war bond. Winnie is kept for a year, and will be passed on to the 1946 winner. The second prize of a silver plaque and a $750 war bond went to Tina Leser, well known creator of sports and play clothes, while Emily Wilkens, noted for her teen age fashions, received a silver plaque and a $500 bond.

These awards are given to the designers of women's apparel or accessories whose influence in the preceding year has had a significant effect on fashions. The Fashion Critics' award is sponsored by Coty.

Adrian is famous for the V silhouette, wide shoulders, and sculptured streamline. Tina Leser designs play and sports clothes that have a definitely decorative quality, with empnasis on the wrapped and strapped silhouette and the unusual colors of the far east. Emily Wilkens designs originals that are young without being infantile, are streamlined for the young crowd, and are made with great imagination and skill.

Shooting the River with Burton Holmes.

If Burton Holmes hadn't already decided to repeat his spectacular trip down the Colorado river in Orchestra hall Saturday night, March 17, it would be cruelty to tantalize non-ticket holders with descriptions of what they are missing. Last night's show was sold out, and nothing is left for tomorrow night or Saturday afternoon. Mr. Holmes' second 50 years, or rather, his 52d year, seems to be his most triumphant, and he gladly shares the bows with his brilliant photographer, Ted Phillips.

Between them they trace the Colorado from the drops of melting snow at its lovely source to the majesty of Boulder Dam, and in the journey they shoot the famous rapids, explore the fascinating Goosenecks, catch a miraculous cloudburst of cataracts in glowing color and motion, and touch the tip of splendor with rare pictures of the Grand Canyon. They follow the sunrise as it lights up the grandeur below, and capture the sinister radiance of the abyss in a storm.

So great is the demand for the Holmes series this season that at least half a dozen extra shows are being planned, the dates to be announced later. Mr. Holmes, meanwhile, is trying to tell me his junket to Guatemala, which is fifth and last in the series, is best of all. It has to go some to overshoot the Colorado.

Why Actors Go Mad.

Excerpts from reviews of "The Searching Wind":

"Dennis King, who has lately shown high skill as a light comedian, goes along blithely enough until he reaches the scene in which he dictates a confidential report to our state department. Mr. King confused this section with the soliloquy from 'Hamlet.' If Cordell Hull saw the play I bet the episode made him bust out laughing."—Robert Pollak in the Times.

"Dennis King as the ambassador who tried well-meaningly to appease both his personal and his international relations, gives quite the best performance of his long and varied career, better even, I thought, than as the Russian officer in 'The Three Sisters.' A scene in which he stumblingly tries to write to Washington his report on the Munich sellout brings out in this actor a depth which I never knew he had."—Lloyd Lewis in the News.

Open WAC Drive Today to Sign Up Aids for Hospitals

A campaign to organize a battalion of mercy for army general hospital duty will open officially today thruout Chicago and Cook county. Military, governmental, and civic agencies have united to recruit women between the ages of 20 and 49 for service in general hospitals, where their help is critically needed.

Qualifications for enlistment are those of the WAC, of which the battalion will be a part. Recruitment offices are at 175 W. Jackson st., where an information booth is being completed to answer questions of prospective candidates.

Maj. Robert Lynch, director of WAC recruitment for the 6th service command, said that Cook county women are needed to serve at army hospitals in Illinois, Michigan, Texas, Utah, California, Washington, and Missouri. Mayo General hospital, in Galesburg, is the Illinois hospital specifically mentioned as being in critical need of help. He said women entering the battalion will be permitted to choose, from a list of hospitals, the institution at which they wish to serve.

Ben Regan, chairman of the recruitment committee, said groups may enter the service together, train together at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., and later take their specialist training and go on to hospital assignments together.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Two Careers.

You're a white collar girl. You have an important job which takes most of your strength and time. You know, without being told, "there's a war on" because those dear to you are fighting it. You buy as many war bonds as you can.

You're young . . . ambitious. You've shelved most of your personal life [for the duration] because you have work that must be done. You tell your heart to behave.

And then, all of a sudden, you find yourself in the hearts-and-flowers department.

The honeymoon is a brief one, because your job is waiting, and it's still important, so you go back to it—to your job which took most of your strength and energy and patience before. Nothing is changed, really; nothing except that now you have a husband and home to think about, too. You have the beginning of a marriage; you have a love so sweet and deep it helps you understand why marriages go on, even in war time.

The Realities.

It doesn't take long to discover that it isn't easy—this business of working and building a marriage. There isn't enough time to do justice to both. Sometimes there isn't enough patience to reach both ways. The realities of marriage begin to crop up, one by one, and they are sharpened by the demands of your other job that now you almost resent—proud as once you were that you could do it so well!

No, it isn't easy . . . so what? You didn't expect it to be. Things that really count seldom are. Your life is more complicated, but it is shared and your problems are met with kindness and love.

All These Things.

All these things you learn as the age of your marriage is reckoned in weeks, then in months. You have your first quarrel; you make up, and have a couple more. You develop your own little jokes—the beginning of your family traditions. You, personally, are somewhat smitten with the seriousness of your double responsibility and sometimes you misplace your sense of humor wondering whether you've made a mistake to undertake so much.

Then you stop counting the weeks and the months. It still isn't easy, but it's easier. Your confidence has grown with marriage; you regard your job, still, as a necessary part of the war. It's important, so you do it as well as you can, yet your point of view relaxes a bit as you realize that, with understanding, you can do two jobs.

And you smile as you notice that those wedding bells continue to make quite a racket in your heart!

School Meals Total 180,000 a Day During January, Board Told

The public schools served more than 180,000 meals a day last month in 51 high schools, 127 penny lunchrooms and special schools, 227 penny lunchrooms serving only cold food, and at seven navy contract schools, John Howatt, business manager, reported to the board of education yesterday. Pupils paid an average of 15½ cents a meal at high schools, 6 cents a meal in penny lunchrooms, 1 cent a meal in lunchrooms serving cold food, and 35 cents a meal in the navy contract schools.

The board authorized its business manager to conclude contracts with 11 major dairies to furnish penny milk to the schools at 4 cents a half pint. The cost is the same as it has been for the last year.

Other action by the board included the election of Mary C. Gillies, principal of Onahan elementary school, as principal of Lucy Flower Technical High school to succeed Sophie Theilgaard.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 21.—Metro has bought an original story by Craig Rice and Jerry Horwin called "Banned in Boston," which George Haight will produce. It's the story of a blue-blooded Boston authoress who writes an historic novel under a pen name, and hires a press agent, who in turn hires a professional model to pose for publicity shots as the authoress. Boston bans the book, the P. A. knocks out an important reviewer in a jealous rage, the authoress falls in love with the P. A., and they live happily ever after. Does all this remind you of anything? . . . David Selznick, who brought an injunction suit against Vivien Leigh in London to prevent her appearing in a play with her husband, Laurence Olivier, may soon be called David [Lawsuit] Selznick. He has another one pending in New York with Charlie Chaplin. . . Otto Preminger, because of "Laura" and "The Royal Scandal," is the fair-haired boy at Twentieth, so when he wanted Ida Lupino for "Fallen Angel" he got her.

These Are Busy Folks.

Dick Powell will appear on the Atlantic Spotlight program. It will be an exchange with the British Broadcasting company. He'll talk to Richard Tauber and Ciro Fletcher, who are in London, and also will sing "Sweet Evelina." . . . Ethel Smith turned down $150,000 worth of radio and theater engagements to do the full length feature "Carnival" for Walt Disney. She'll be Donald Duck's first leading lady. . . Sam Jaffe and Lloyd Bacon, whose picture "The Sullivans" has been picked as one of the ten best in several polls, are getting ready to go into production again with "Glittering Hell," in which Humphrey Bogart is part owner. He'd like to star in it, too, but that can't be arranged, so they're looking for somebody like him. Story is laid in Butte, Mont., during the time the copper fortunes were being made. . . Ralph Bellamy goes to New York when he finishes "Lady on a Train" to make plans for a stage production, then returns here for another picture commitment. . . . Norman Rockwell, creator of the four freedoms paintings, is here working on Gary Cooper and Loretta Young for "Along Came Jones."

Didn't Expect It So Soon.

There's a rumor that Sylvia Stanley will divorce Edward Stanley in England. She's the former Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks Sr. . . . Niles Trammell, radio executive, is in Reno establishing residence for the usual reason. . . . Artie Shaw made many enemies when he shot off his face about jazz music. . . . If Hollywood really means what it says—that it's anxious to give jobs to returning soldiers—how about Sam Wagenaar, who did a smart piece of acting in "Five Graves to Cairo" and "Action in the North Atlantic" before going overseas? He's one of our first actors to reach Paris, and he's finished two stories which would be well worth looking at.

A Cozy Threesome, Wot?

Norma Talmadge dined at Mocambo with Joe Schenck and Georgie Jessel—her two ex's. . . . Irene Castle McLaughlin is in town, after a visit at San Simeon. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Edward Windsor are planning a trip to New York, but very shortly. . . . Virginia Weidler's mother was more than taken aback when one of Virginia's young admirers took the mother aside and said he wanted to talk to her about Virginia's hand. He said, "Between the two of us, we should be able to make her stop biting her nails." . . . On the programs of Paul Small's "Fun Time" playing in San Francisco, it reads: "Intermission, just like in 'Othello.'"

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 club	Pass	1 diamond	Pass
3 clubs	Pass	3 spades	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	6 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead, queen of hearts.

We continue our discussion of percentages with a hand that presented difficulty to most of those who held it.

The final contract of six no trump was not the soundest, because six diamonds would have been a much safer bid and could have been fulfilled by establishing dummy's clubs with two ruffs, retaining the ace of hearts as an entry, in which manner all 13 tricks could be taken. This hand was played in a tournament, where players always strain a point in an effort to wind up at no trump for the higher score.

North elected to open the queen of hearts, which declarer won and could see 11 tricks in sight. Trusting that the clubs would break three-three, he played the ace, king, and another club and was immediately defeated. Another hand chalked up to hard luck! Actually it should be charged up to bad management.

Or, to put it another way, the lack of knowledge of percentages. West's line of play had less than an even chance to succeed, because the six outstanding clubs would probably break four and two, rather than three and three.

The 12th trick would have been available to him by taking two spade finesses, and that was the proper course to have chosen. This is not a mere guess. It is based on probabilities, and there is a simple rule that the average player would do well to remember: When there are two important cards out, as in this case, the king and queen of spades, the probabilities favor those cards being in different hands.

In other words, in more than 50 per cent of the cases these two outstanding honors will be split. Since then, in less than 50 per cent of the cases the clubs will break three and three, the spades should have been selected as the suit on which to work. The reader is asked to remember that while an odd number of outstanding cards will probably break, an even number of outstanding cards will probably not.

On winning the king of hearts, declarer should immediately lead the spade, finesse the 10 and lose to the queen. Hearts will be returned, and now declarer should run off all his high cards and at the end finesse the jack of spades for the 12th trick.

TOMORROW'S PROBLEM.

Chili powder is a south of the border seasoning which North Americans have come to enjoy. Most of us use a fairly light hand with this seasoning, but there are those who love really "hot" dishes occasionally, and these cooks dip the measuring spoon into the chili jar more than once.

Chili powder is a combination of seasonings, and varies in composition with the packer. Most good chilies consist of ground chili peppers, cumin seed, and oregano. Many of them contain some garlic.

Chili con carne is probably the best known chili flavored dish. But meat is by no means the only food which may be enhanced in flavor by such spicing. Eggs, salad dressings, cheese dishes, many vegetables, and almost any dish made with a tomato sauce may be flavored with chili powder.

Fish and chicken, especially when dressed with tomatoes, take on a tantalizing flavor when chili powder is used to season them.

Tomato Fondue.

[Serves four.]

- 2 cups cubed white bread
- 2 tablespoons margarine
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 2 cups tomatoes
- ½ cup water
- 1 teaspoon chili powder
- ¼ pound snappy cheese
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 eggs, separated

Toast bread cubes. Melt margarine, add flour and blend. Add tomatoes and water. Cook and stir until smooth and thickened. Add chili powder, cheese cut into pieces, and salt. Stir until cheese has melted. Add slightly beaten egg yolks, stirring vigorously. Remove from heat. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold into somewhat cooled mixture. Pour over toasted bread cubes, fold together lightly, and turn into a well greased baking dish. Set into a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, until set. Serve hot.

Chili Con Carne.

[Serves five.]

- 1 pound ground beef
- 3 large onions, chopped
- 4 tablespoons lard or meat drippings
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 teaspoon [or more] chili powder
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 2 cups canned tomatoes
- 2 cups cooked kidney beans
- 2 tablespoons minced green pepper

Brown meat and onions in fat, add other ingredients, cover and simmer for about 1 hour.

Corn is a vegetable which seems to take naturally to chili powder.

Scalloped Corn.

[Serves three or four.]

- 2 cups whole kernel or cream style corn
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon chili powder
- ⅛ teaspoon paprika
- ⅛ teaspoon celery salt
- Pinch of sugar
- ⅔ cup rolled cracker crumbs
- 2 tablespoons melted margarine
- ⅔ cup hot milk
- 1 egg [for cream style corn], beaten

Combine ingredients, place in greased baking dish and bake for half an hour at 350 degrees.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE

Chocolate Custard Sauce.

[About two cups.]

- 4 egg yolks, beaten
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 2 tablespoons honey
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- 1 ounce square unsweetened chocolate, melted
- 2 cups milk
- Dash of cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoon vanilla

Combine egg yolks, sugar, honey, salt, and chocolate. Add milk gradually, blending well, and cook in top of double boiler until custard coats a spoon. Remove from heat and stir in cinnamon and vanilla. Serve either warm or cold on plain cake. May be stored in refrigerator.

Thru the Looking Glass

The world seems full of young women who have really quite attractive figures, with the exception of an abdomen that is flabbier and fatter than it should be. Some of these are girls who've had a baby or two, some have had operations within a year or so—but more are slim girls whose abdominal muscles have simply relaxed too much because of careless posture habits.

Did you know that as little as two weeks of daily exercise will show a difference? You can test it for yourself with a tape measure. You don't have to do wildly strenuous things, or undertake a complicated program. You can pick out just one or two simple exercises, do them faithfully, and watch the abdominal muscles tighten from day to day.

In the morning, do a couple of slow stretches first of all, inhaling as you reach upward as much as possible, and exhaling as you relax. This combination of deep breathing and limbering up constitute the best kind of a start for your day.

Then try one or both of these exercises, doing each at least five times: Lie flat on the floor, arms at the sides, ankles close together. Keeping the abdomen flat lift the legs from the floor, keeping the knees straight, until they are at right angle from the body. Then lower the legs—slowly, say at a count of twenty—keeping the knees straight. The hardest abdominal pull will come when the feet are about a foot from the floor. Don't cheat here; continue the downward movement slowly, not with a swift, easy descent.

Do the next one on the floor, too, or on the bed, depending on which is most convenient for anchoring the feet beneath a footboard or a low chest. Lie flat, with arms overhead. Keep the feet on the floor, lifting the arms and the chest not only to a sitting position but forward, until the fingers almost touch the toes. [They won't even come close the first few times, but keep trying.] Then fall back and do it again, and again and again. It's hard, but it flattens the abdominal muscles in almost no time!

'Murder, My Sweet' Lively Mystery Film

"MURDER, MY SWEET."

Produced by R. K. O., featuring Dick Powell, Claire Trevor, Anne Shirley, Otto Kruger, and Mike Mazurki, and presented at the Palace.

By Mae Tinée.

Dick Powell is no longer just an apple cheeked, wholesome lad singing love songs to pretty girls; he has been transformed into a brusque, tough character who refuses to sing to cops, or to any one else for that matter. And as for women—he loves 'em and leaves 'em without a qualm.

The reason for this metamorphosis is his latest role as a private detective in the movie adapted from "Farewell, My Lovely," a hard boiled mystery yarn which was very popular. The book had a good plot and some pretty florid writing, and I thought the movie an improvement on the original, altho some of the fast chatter and the dramatic sequences showing what you feel when you've been swatted with a billy are pretty heavy-handed.

The story involves a lot of weird characters, including one Moose, an overgrown hunk of man with powerful fists and a one-track mind; a sultry blonde who's married to an elderly connoisseur of jade; a stepdaughter who strives to protect her father from her new mama's meanderings, and a suave psychic who blackmails his feminine victims after they've revealed their secret sins and sorrows to him. At times the story is a bit difficult to follow, but eventually the sleuth cuts all these characters down to size.

Mr. Powell's new role fits him like a glove, and I'll be surprised if he ever goes back to warbling. He's easy and natural in a role which requires a great deal, and here's hoping they give him a better vehicle in which to demonstrate his talents in the future.

The men walk away with the honors this time, with Otto Kruger and Mike Mazurki turning in excellent performances. Neither Miss Trevor nor Miss Shirley seemed particularly effective.

It's a fast and furious mystery, with a few laughs here and there. If you like 'em bloody and bruising—here's good red meat for you, and no ration points, either.

Pianist Flagg Has a Way with Chopin, but It's Wrong Way

Chopin, by the very nature of his genius, most likely has been the victim of more misrepresentation, more affectation, more sheer assault and battery, than any composer who ever lived. Without Chopin the amateur pianist could not exist. But rarely in the nearly 100 years since the Polish master left his music defenseless to a merciless world, has it been subjected to such punishments as that inflicted on an all-Chopin program by Christian Bergeson Flagg at Kimball hall last night.

The setting was romantic—dim lights, delayed entrances, a shadowy figure that floated rather than moved to the piano. But the poetic atmosphere was soon dispelled by a Berceuse that all but upset the cradle, a C-sharp minor scherzo that was one of the most protracted experiences in quite a number of years of concert going, and a B-flat minor sonata that had at least twice as many wrong as right notes.

For a moment the atmosphere cleared with the F-sharp Nocturne, but the illusion of fair weather was quickly shattered by an impromptu and two waltzes that fairly skidded off the keyboard. As for the etudes, Czerny exercises, book I., would have been a better measure of the pianist's technical abilities. A. G.

Small Appetite of Child May Be Improved

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The fact that your little daughter is a small eater and doesn't put on any weight is not necessarily a legitimate cause for worry. Particular physical "set-up" may be nature's intention for your individual child.

On the other hand, there may be good reasons why this particular child does eat so little, causes for it which can be corrected. For, while she may never be a big eater and may always be slender, she still needs a balanced diet, even if the total quantity she takes in is much less than that of some neighbor's child.

She must have in her food, for her body's growth needs as well as for her energy needs of the moment, certain elements that are to be found in milk, some form of grain [bread or cereal or both], fruits, vegetables, meats, and natural sweets. To eat these she must have some appetite. Frequently there is something lacking in the set-up of these children's daily routine which is adverse.

Appetite is encouraged by lots of vigorous play in the fresh air; by plenty of sleep at night and often a day time rest; by play indoors and the zest that comes with receiving interest and love from one's grown-ups; and by appetizing meals eaten in an atmosphere of cheerfulness, without undue coaxing, and served in rather small quantities at first, even if a second helping may be added later. This "small serving" idea, possibly followed by a little extra, works well with the child who is a small eater.

Women Confer Today on Their Post-War Role

BY KATHRYN LORING.

Members and friends of 34 women's organizations of the Chicago area will gather today in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer House for an all-day conference on "Women's Share in Post-war Planning."

Following registration at 9 a. m., Mrs. LaFell Dickinson of Keen, N. H., president of the General Federation of Women's clubs, will speak at the opening session on the general status of women in the home and community and ask the question, "Where Are We Going from Here?" As head of the General federation, composed of women's clubs thruout the country, Mrs. Dickinson has created a post-war planning department in that organization, designating the home as "the hub of world affairs" and built on consultation, coöperation, kindness, and tolerance, which she contends constitute the necessary foundation for world peace.

Other morning speakers will be Miss Mary V. White, head of the Illinois State Women's Trade Union league, who will discuss the post-war status of women now in industry; Mrs. Raymond Sayre, vice president of Associated Women of the American Farm bureau, and Mrs. Edna Siebert, vice president of the Illinois Educational association.

"Medicine in the Post-War World" will be the topic of Dr. Carroll Birch, vice president of the American Medical Women's association, at a noon luncheon. At 2 p. m. Miss Iman Elsie Schatzmann, former executive secretary of the committee on rural education of the American Country Life association, will discuss "World Education in the Post-War World."

Other afternoon speakers will include Mrs. William T. Grable of the Chicago Camp Fire Girls; Mrs. Vivian Carter Johnson, representing the national office of Girl Scouts; State Rep. Lottie Holman O'Neill [R., Downers Grove]; State Rep. Bernice T. Van Der Vries [R., Winnetka], and Miss Harriet Vittum of the Northwestern University settlement.

Mrs. Stella Ford Walker, conference chairman and president of Chicago Altrusa club, which was instrumental in rallying support of other women's organizations for the meeting, will preside.

Canning Sugar Cut 20 Pct. Below 1944 Allotment by OPA

The office of price administration announced yesterday it had reduced canning sugar allotments for 1945 by 20 per cent under the 1944 allowances, and had tightened the rules for obtaining it. Marion W. Isbell, area director, said this year's quota will be 20 pounds for each member of a family up to eight persons, compared with last year's allowance of 25 pounds with no limit on the number of recipients.

There will be no special stamps providing for an automatic five pounds' issuance, as in 1944, he said. Allotments must be obtained by application to local boards.

Last year's quota of 700,000 tons of sugar for home canning was overdrawn 300,000 pounds, Mr. Isbell said. This year's allowance again is 700,000 tons, but consumption will be limited to that amount.

Household Forum

By Louise Bargelt

Mrs. Sarah G., Chicago—To remove a stubborn stain which ordinary washing won't touch, mix the following cleaning powder and add it to your wash water: Three ounces of sodium perborate, 4 ounces of borax, and 5 ounces of trisodium phosphate. Add this mixture to your soapy water in small quantities.

Mrs. Ted W., Hampton, Ia.—When I pan fry bacon and want it really crisp I start it in a cold pan over a low heat and turn it frequently. This takes a bit more time, but it gets results.

Mrs. Edmond H., Chicago—This winter I slipped a shallow cooky sheet into one corner of a cabinet shelf. On this I put my various seasonings, spices, baking powder, etc. When I start baking it only takes a moment to slip out the tray, select what I want. Then back goes the assortment into the cabinet. This saves time.

Write Sailor More Letters, Girl Is Told

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Q. "A sailor with whom I correspend has asked me to write to him more than once while I'm waiting for an answer from him. He says that he is very busy and hasn't much time to write. If I knew whether or not he liked me as more than a friend I wouldn't hesitate, but as things stand I'm not sure whether I should. He has never asked me for a date but has come over to my house often with a group of his friends."

A. If your Joe is in the navy, believe him when he says he doesn't have much time to write. And no one will think you overly anxious or downright guy-goony if you send an extra letter his way. Just because you're not sure how you stand with him should make no difference. If you are "just a friend," that is reason enough to keep him posted on the goings-on round school and the crowd of guys and gals he used to know. And if you are more than a friend [and your dreams are getting better all the time!], you'll probably be advanced to dating status just as soon as he gets a first leave. Keep writing.

Q. "I'm a junior in high school and am 16. Our school is going to have a prom shortly, and I had planned to ask a fellow whom I like and whom I have dated occasionally. He goes to a different school, but I have just found out that he is a sophomore and only 15, going on 16. My best girl friend, who works on the school paper, says I should still ask him but that she will mention it in the gossip column if I do. So now I don't know what to do!"

A. You liked the boy before; you had fun with him. Don't cross him off your date list now because he is a few months younger than you are—10 years from now you wouldn't think twice about so small an age difference. And it won't make much difference on prom night either. If your best friend submits the item to the gossip column [and chances are 10 to one she won't] well, that's just another clipping for your memory book.

To Relieve Bad Cough, Mix This Recipe, at Home

Big Saving. No Cooking. So Easy.

You'll be surprised how quickly and easily you can relieve coughs due to colds, when you try this splendid recipe. It gives you about four times as much cough medicine for your money, and you'll find it truly wonderful.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's no trouble at all. (Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.) Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle. Add your syrup and you have a full pint of medicine that will amaze you by its quick action. It never spoils, and tastes fine.

This simple mixture takes right hold of a cough. For real results, you've never seen anything better. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and eases the soreness.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

AN INVITING EMERGENCY SHELF DINNER

When the clock seems to jump ahead to five o'clock before you've accomplished your particular job, it's a pleasure to be able to reach up on the shelf for the makings of an easy dinner. It's on just such a busy day that your emergency shelf—stocked with ready-cooked foods—comes to your rescue.

Corned Beef Hash and Eggs—A Tasty Quickie

1 can Wilson's Certified Corned Beef Hash
2 tbsp. Certified Margarine, melted
6 Clear Brook Eggs

Cut open both ends of the can of Wilson's Certified Corned Beef Hash and remove the roll of hash. Cut into 6 slices and pan fry in the melted margarine, browning both sides well. Or brush the top side of each slice with melted margarine, and broil about 6 minutes on each side or until nicely browned. Top each slice with a poached egg and serve at once.

Clip Recipe Here

QUICK AS A WINK

Wilson's Certified Corned Beef Hash is so good because it's made of high quality ingredients, expertly seasoned. Serve it with poached Clear Brook Eggs, whole carrots seasoned with melted Certified Margarine, tossed vegetable salad, toast and coffee and you can almost skip dessert. However, if your family really "goes" for dessert, try whipping a cup of strained cranberry sauce into 2 stiffly beaten egg whites. You'll need no sugar. Just pour it into sherbet glasses and set in the refrigerator during dinner. Then whisk it out for dessert—ready to serve.

Have a Practical Shelf

Don't be a high-brow about your pantry emergency shelf—no need for delicacies only—keep a stock of food on hand for "just us folks." You know the kind of handy meat dishes that are quick to prepare when Sis brings home company.

Wilson's MOR has many quick uses; Certified Chili Con Carne and Tamales hit the spot; Certified Deviled Ham fills many sandwiches and Certified Corned Beef Hash is so good it would please even Jiggs.

Don't forget to replace foods used from your emergency shelf so it will really live up to its name.

Low on Points?

If you're low on points—here are some hints on making them stretch:

(1) Use a variety of fillers for meat loaf—B-V bread stuffing is a tasty favorite. The family will sigh with pleasure.

(2) Grind left-over meat loaf with vegetables, make into patties and serve with hot B-V gravy.

(3) Broil Certified Liver Sausage as a main course dish. It's packed with iron

(4) Check the no-point meats and learn how to prepare them so they're really tasty. Every one of them can be delicious.

Sincerely,
George Rector

MAJORS' 1945 ALL-STAR GAME RULED OUT

GOLDEN GLOVES PRELIMINARIES BREAK RECORDS

Big Crowds, Strong Teams the Rule.

Gloves Activity

GOLDEN GLOVES programs in out of town centers this week follow:
TONIGHT — Pensacola [Fla.] News, semi-finals; Cedar Rapids [Ia.] Gazette, finals; Streator [Ill.] Times Press, finals.
TOMORROW—Pensacola [Fla.] News, finals.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Interest in the 27 out of town Golden Gloves centers this year has been so high and their champions are so well recommended that The Tribune Charities, Inc.'s 18th Tournament of Champions, which opens its three night swirl of action Monday in the Chicago Stadium, is expected to produce the most thrilling bouts in the history of the nation's greatest amateur boxing show.

Corp. Tom Attra.

Sellouts have been reported in a score of the cities which have provided opportunities to thousands of lads to participate in the Tournament of Champions Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. A string of victories there and they'll be back on March 9 for the finals.

Fighting Milkman and Doctor.

During the week the Minneapolis [Minn.] Star Journal and Tribune, the Columbus [O.] Dispatch, the Fort Worth [Tex.] Star Telegram, and the Terre Haute [Ind.] Tribune Star cleared their decks for action in Chicago and they did it with a will before packed arenas.

A milkman, a premedic student, and a couple of rugged Minnesota farmers will lead the team of eight Northwest Golden Gloves champions from Minneapolis into the Tournament of Champions. The Star Journal and Tribune's team was named Monday night before a record crowd of 11,000.

The standouts are Niell Schaub, the middleweight champion from Superior, Wis., who wants to be a doctor, and Roger Charf of Procter, who does his roadwork carrying milk bottles from truck to back doors before the sun rises each morning.

Two Farmers Take Titles.

The two farmers are Bud Streit, heavyweight from Fairmont, Minn., who can take more punishment than a squad of marines, and Anton Thostenson, string bean light heavyweight from Hanleyfalls, Minn. Streit knocked out Al Cotton, the favorite, in the finals, flooring him three times with three punches.

Then there's Jerry Slavin of Minneapolis, who won the Northwest lightweight championship a year ago and has moved up a notch to take welterweight honors. He's a high school student. Ed Lacy, little Negro flyweight from Minneapolis; Del Flanagan, featherweight, also of Minneapolis, and Allen Wilson, Indian lightweight, make up the rest of the team.

Texas Champions Chosen.

The Texas champions also were crowned Monday night in Fort Worth before a crowd of 7,000. The winners who will be on hand for the Stadium show Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday are:

FLYWEIGHT—Gilbert Areche of San Antonio, who won four fights during the Star-Telegram's six night tournament.

BANTAMWEIGHT — Hector Marquez, a knockout artist. He won all his fights with a good right hand.

FEATHERWEIGHT—Donald Fry of Houston, a tall, long armed lad who likes to mix. All his victories were by decisions.

LIGHTWEIGHT—J. W. Blankenship of Beaumont, a strong boy who registered two knockouts during the tournament.

WELTERWEIGHT — Gilbert Garcia of Houston, hardest puncher on the team. He works in the shipyards.

MIDDLEWEIGHT—Jim McGrath, a native of Detroit, who is stationed at the Bryan army air field. He's clever.

LIGHT HEAVYWEIGHT — Corp. Tom Attra of San Antonio. He won his fourth state championship this year and in 1942 was a Chicago champion.

HEAVYWEIGHT—Corp. Gene Gosney, a native of Seminole, Okla.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

THE 12th annual All-Star football game between the Green Bay Packers, champions of the National Football league, and the strongest squad that can be recruited from nonprofessional ranks will be played in Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 30. . . . The complaints which prompted Chicago Tribune Charities, sponsor of the event, to move the game from the lake front stadium to Dyche stadium in Evanston two years ago have been adjusted by the park board. . . . Dom Dallessandro, Cub outfielder, who recently passed his induction examination, is 5 feet 6 inches tall, just high enough to peer out of an abandoned Jap foxhole, if he stands on his helmet. . . . Bill Osmanski, former Bear full back, has been promoted to lieutenant, senior grade. . . . He is serving in the Pacific. . . . Joe Farrell, Blackhawk press agent, bemoans the fact that the bad season the Hawks are having virtually has destroyed practical joking. . . . In recalling jokes of other years, Joe tells how the late Charley Gardiner decided Joe's night shirt wasn't up to snuff as evening wear. . . . One day he stole the garment and had a seamstress fashion it like an evening dress-coat, cutaway in front and nice long tails. . . . Farrell says he felt like a minstrel man's nightmare when he tried on the creation after he had disrobed and taken the supposed complete nightgown from the hook to which Charley had returned it. . . . Larry Gilbert, manager of the Nashville baseball team, says foul balls come down the third base coaching line so fast he can't see them any more. . . . He has been active 35 years as a player and coach. . . .

Elmer Yoter, who was a Cub infielder a couple of decades ago, will manage Trenton in the Eastern league in the 1945 season. . . . Lt. [j.g.] Norm Cottom, Purdue basketball star several years ago, has been transferred from St. Mary's Pre-Flight school, but the basketball roster there still includes a veteran familiar to midwestern sports fans—Lt. George Svendsen, 31 year old former Minnesota athlete. . . . Miss Mary Madigan, older daughter of Slip Madigan, Iowa football coach, is engaged to marry Lt. John Clancy of the coast guard. . . . Lieutenants Bob Gleason, Ray Kuffel, and Bob Pierce of Marquette university's 1943 basketball squad are teammates on a marine quintet at Oceanside, Cal. . . . Ensign Don Smith, captain of Northwestern's 1941 track squad, who participated in Normandy invasion, is convalescing in a naval hospital at Chelsea, Mass.

Kentucky Skies.

[To a soldier in a tank battalion.]

Kentucky skies, be bright today
And let the sun shine down
Upon a camp, among your hills,
A teeming army town;
And somewhere there along the slopes
You'll see a touseled Yank.
It won't be hard to find him
For he's polishing his tank.

Kentucky skies, be clear tonight
And let the moonbeams fall
Upon the silent barracks,
Until the reveille call.
Before the coming combat, may
He have some time to smile;
So, let your stars shine softly
And let him dream a while.

The Pay-Off.

A 16 year old boy meeting a padre at the railroad station offered to carry his grip to the rectory, which was several blocks away. At first the padre was hesitant, but he finally consented and walked with the boy, pointing out the way. The grip was heavy and the boy had to change hands several times in the course of the journey, but he finally laid the grip on the rectory porch expecting a good sized tip.

"Do you take a drink?" said the padre.

"Yes! Of course I do," said the boy brightening up.

The padre looked at him very solemnly over his glasses and said: "You better come in the house and let me give you the pledge."

Jazbo Is Grateful.

Following is an excerpt from a letter to the Wake conductor from William J. Stratton, a friend of Jazbo of Old Dubuque:

This, Mr. Ward, is a letter off the records, so to speak. I wanted you to know that the boost that you gave Jazbo in your column has done more for him than all the medicine the doctors have given him in the past month and a half. The letters have been pouring in by the hundreds. I wish you could have seen his face the first day that I took the letters and cards up to him. He was speechless, and when Jazbo is speechless, well, something is wrong.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Chicago Blackhawks' Stanley cup play-off chance, a pale, sickly looking little thing at 8:30 o'clock last night, bloomed within two and one-half hours into a robust, bristling opportunity. Before a howling Stadium audience of 10,116, the Hawks trounced the haughty Boston Bruins, 5 to 0, for their most decisive victory of the season.

The convincing triumph left the Chicagoans just three games back of the fourth place Bruins and only one back of the New York Rangers, who are now in fifth place. The Hawks now have 10 games in which to cut down Boston's three game advantage, two of them against the Bruins and as many against the Rangers.

120 Consecutive Scoreless Minutes.

Seldom thruout this up and down season have the Blackhawk faithful seen their young men work as they did last night. For 60 minutes, the defense functioned nobly, while the forwards, not content with driving five pucks past Goalie Paul Bibeault, did a superb job of poke checking all Bruin drives. The game concluded 120 consecutive scoreless minutes for Chicago opponents, the local boys having stood off the champion Canadiens last Sunday.

The Hawks' dressing room after the game was the scene of a bowing contest, with all of the boys making sweeping obeisances to Goalie Mike Karakas, and Michael bowing right back at Defense Men Joe Cooper, Red Mitchell, Wilf Field, and Cully Simon. Karakas, who was at his season's best, not only scored his fourth shutout of the campaign, and his second in a row, but also was credited with that hockey rarity —an assist by a goalie. With only seconds remaining, Mike cleared a Boston shot, then passed it along to Mush March, the team's grandpappy. The little man, now completing his 17th year as a Hawk, drove down the ice alone to beat Bibeault at 19:58.

Hawks Score in Each Period.

The Hawks scored in every period, starting out with a neat first session maneuver by Bill Mosienko, who came down right wing, swerved to his left around the Bruin defense and then fired the puck past Bibeault. Bill Cupulo of Boston was serving time at the moment. The rugged second period found the Chicagoans frustrated until the last eight minutes, wherein they ran the score to 3 to 0. Little Johnny Harms, with the collaboration of Field and Ramsay, beat Bibeault at 13:25.

The Hawk trio of Clint Smith, Mosienko, and Byron McDonald then went to work with the penalty box peopled by Egan, March, and Jack Shewchuk. They brought off the neatest play of the evening, Mosienko driving over the blue line to flip a drop pass to McDonald, who fired it Smith just as the latter swept in on Bibeault. The time was 14:21.

Play Two with Detroit.

Chicago was in full charge of the offensive thruout most of the last period, altho the Bruins' high scorers, Billy Cowley and Herb Cain, who last season made 153 scoring points between them, strove desperately to avert the ignominy of a whitewash. They began to try so hard, in fact, that Harms engineered his second goal of the night with assists by March and Ramsay with 30 seconds left. This might have seemed sufficient, but the Karakas-to-March feat followed within 28 seconds, Mush surviving a couple of lusty checks by Bruins in his solo success.

The Hawks face a difficult assignment over the week-end, meeting Detroit there Saturday and returning to the Stadium Sunday for an encore against the Wings.

Todd School of Woodstock, defending champion in the Private School league basketball tournament, last night successfully passed its opening test in the league's tournament by defeating North Park, 41 to 32, in a first round game in the University of Chicago fieldhouse.

Todd led, 17 to 12, at the half, and was paced by Forward Len Demichele and Guard Albie Plain, who each scored 11 points. Bob Nordley, North Park center, also scored 11 as he led his team. The victory advanced Todd to the semi-finals, due to the strange draw used in the meet, which gives the Woodstock school a bye in the second round.

In the opening game of the tournament, University High defeated Francis Parker, 33 to 24, as Guard Dave Blumberg paced the University offense with 12 points.

In the second game Concordia led all the way to defeat Wheaton academy, 44 to 27. The victors led, 25 to 12, at the half. Forward Darwin Cooper of Wheaton took scoring honors with 15 points.

Cubs Release Novikoff to Los Angeles

BY EDWARD PRELL.

Lou Novikoff, after four years of trials and tribulations in a Chicago Cub's uniform, yesterday was released outright to the National leaguers' Los Angeles Pacific Coast league affiliate. Thus ended the saga of Outfielder Novikoff, at least Novikoff the Cub, for officials left no doubts that the one time phenom never minor league phenom never again will wear a Chicago uniform.

Lou Novikoff.

The Cubs paid Los Angeles $100,000 cash for Novikoff and Infielder Lou Stringer before the 1941 season opened.

Waived by Other Clubs.

All major league clubs waived on the colorful pudgy Russian.

He came up to the Cubs in 1941 as the most highly touted minor leaguer since Joe Di Maggio left San Francisco for the Yankees. He had been batting champion in every league in which he played—the Western association, the Three Eye league, the Texas league, and the Pacific Coast league. In 1940, before coming to the Cubs, Lou hit 40 home runs for Los Angeles and had a .363 batting average.

Hit .300 in 1942.

In the five seasons with the Cubs Novikoff was a disappointing phenom except for a five week stretch in 1942 when it seemed he would match his minor league accomplishments.

Lou was optioned to Charley Grimm's Milwaukee team in midseason of 1941 when he was hitting only .241. With the Brewers he came to life and batted .370, which gave him hitting honors in the American association. In 1942 Novikoff played in 128 games, his longest stretch of employment with the Cubs in any one season. Last year he reported late and out of condition. He batted .281 in 139 times at bat in 71 games.

James Gallagher, Cubs' vice president and general manager, who always liked the colorful outfielder, said:

"Novikoff can come back to the majors if he's good enough. We won't hold him back."

Manager Grimm will arrive from his Missouri home this morning and go into a huddle with Gallagher on operational plans for 1945. Bobby Dorr, groundkeeper, will leave this morning for French Lick, Ind., where the Cubs will start their training routine on March 8.

Dick Triptow, former De Paul basketball star, who played with the Cubs' Erwin club in the Appalachian league last year, will leave tomorrow to join the Pacific coast league team at Los Angeles.

Schurz Track Teams Win Dual Meets with Maine

The Schurz High school track team won two practice meets from Maine High school in Des Plaines yesterday. In the senior meet, Schurz triumphed, 41 2-3 to 33 1-3. The junior score was 61 to 11.

ODT ASKS 25 PER CENT TRAVEL SLASH; WORLD SERIES PERILED

Harridge and Frick Optimistic After Conferences.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21 (AP).—The 1945 world series may be canceled, the annual All-Star major league game is definitely out, and the whole sports world will have to curtail its travel sharply as a result of a government decree today.

The action, which took the form of a request by the office of defense transportation, was addressed initially to baseball, which was asked to cut its travel by 25 per cent, compared to 1944.

But the ODT is formulating an over-all "home field" policy which is expected to cut out at least one-fourth of all passenger miles traveled by athletic teams, amateur and professional.

Some intersectional football games and basketball contests apparently will go by the boards.

Here's 4 Point Proposal.

However, the action came as somewhat of a relief to those who had been fearing outright cancelation of baseball in 1945. It was viewed as giving the game a sort of lease on life, on a clarified basis, provided the ODT requests are observed.

Here are the four ways in which baseball was asked to cut its travel:

1. Games will be played only in the home city of one or the other competing teams. Exhibition games on neutral fields will be canceled except at army and navy establishments where the military will provide transportation. Pre-season training will continue to be held at places in or near the home city of each team.
2. Team rosters, when traveling, will be reduced to a minimum.
3. The world series games will be held only if transportation and war conditions at the time permit.
4. All clubs will re-examine their schedules and make such further transportation savings as are possible.

Baseball Leaders Pleased.

Major league leaders voluntarily pledged full coöperation with the government conservation program in a conference with Col. J. Monroe Johnson, ODT director.

Ford Frick, National league, and Will Harridge, American league, baseball's official two-man committee, went over the situation with Johnson and said they were pleased. They commented that their two-day visit here, including a conference with War Mobilization Director Byrnes principally on the game's man power problems, obtained encouraging and satisfactory results.

Optimistic over chances of continuing this year, despite this latest restriction, Frick and Harridge said they will report "very interesting findings" to their respective leagues by correspondence.

"Now We Can Go Ahead."

The ODT's action was considered a realistic approach to a general government war time sports policy —a policy which many athletic leaders have recommended as the best solution to the whole problem.

Frick probably expressed the sentiments of these leaders in saying, "It's just what we wanted; now we know where we stand and can get down to the business of going ahead."

As applied to baseball specifically, Frick estimated that ODT's policy calling for cancellation of the annual All-Star game will shave off at least 500,000 passenger miles.

The American and National league squads number 25 players each and when newspapermen, coaches, baseball officials and others are added, approximately 500 working persons attend this All-Star game, to say nothing of travel by fans. This year's game was scheduled for Boston in July.

Frick felt that ODT's request will not pinch baseball too hard since the regular schedules remain unchanged.

Blow at Big Football Games.

Under ODT's over-all home field policy, such major football games, for example, as Notre Dame meeting the Army or Navy in Yankee stadium will be knocked out since that gridiron would not be the home field of either team.

Cross-country trips by basketball teams from the west or southwest into Madison Square Garden to face

Club Chiefs Approve Any Helpful Plan

Reaction of clubowners and baseball officials in the major leagues were varied in regard to travel restrictions suggested for 1945 yesterday by the office of defense transportation. Comments follow:

P. K. WRIGLEY, owner-president of the Chicago Cubs—It is up to baseball to fit in with the nation's program and if we are asked to curtail travel, that will be all right.

Transportation Not Chief Problem, Rickey's Opinion.

HARRY GRABINER, vice president of the Chicago White Sox—We have said before and it still goes—the winning of the war comes first.

BRANCH RICKEY, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers—I never did consider transportation as our most pressing problem. Right now it is man power and the green light I would like to see will have to come from the Byrnes [war man power commission] office, not the ODT. Of course, it is encouraging to know that we can meet with the approval of the ODT. We'll be very glad to rearrange our schedule to fit the four point program.

May Necessitate Further Cut in Number of Trips.

HORACE STONEHAM, president of the New York Giants—I don't see how we can reduce our transportation that much without cutting the western trips from three to two. That would involve staying in one city for five or six days at a time. [ODT suggested baseball curtail its travel 25 per cent on the basis of 1944 mileage.]

[A baseball official who asked that his name be withheld suggested that the 25 per cent saving in travel could be solved by smaller rosters. It was pointed out that until June 1 big league teams may carry 40 players, tho in the war years few, if any, have geared themselves to this maximum. The limit after this date is 25. It was suggested that teams which since the war began normally have started the season with 30 players could reduce to 25 at the beginning. After June 1 the player maximum perhaps could be further cut from 25 to 20.]

GEORGE TRAFTON REPORTED OUT AS LAMBEAU AID

Green Bay, Wis., Feb. 21 [Special].—It was reported here tonight that George Trafton, who coached the National football league champion Green Bay Packers' line last season, has been advised his contract will not be renewed. Curly Lambeau, vice president and head coach, who arrived here yesterday after a trip to California, could not be reached tonight for a statement. Trafton, who recently moved here from Chicago, also was unavailable.

A few weeks ago the Packers signed Walter Kiesling, former head coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers, as line coach but at the time it was said Trafton also would be retained. Trafton, center for the Chicago Bears for 13 seasons, had been out of pro football a dozen years until joining the Packers.

LINDBLOM WINS CENTRAL SECTOR BASKET CROWN

Defeats Kelly, 47 to 14; Phillips Ties for First.

Lindblom and Phillips finished their central section City league senior basketball schedules in a tie for first place, each with seven victories and one less by winning their final games yesterday.

Lindblom triumphed, 47 to 14, over Kelly on the Lindblom floor, and Phillips invaded Dunbar to win by a 32 to 18 count. However, according to City league rules for the playoffs, Lindlom will take the No. 1 position because Phillips was defeated earlier in the season, 49 to 32.

Tilden, Kelly Also In.

The other two playoff positions will go to Tilden and Kelly. Tilden finished with six triumps and two setbacks turning back Du Sable, 27 to 24, in its final game, and Kelly was shoved into fourth place because of its loss to Lindblom.

Kelly was held to two points in the second half, a free throw in each quarter. Ray Jablonski tallied the one in the third period, and Floyd Safranski made the other.

Harper finished in second place in the south section senior race by taking a 45 to 30 game from Fenger for its ninth success in 10 starts. South Shore is the leader with nine straight victories. The Tars conclude their schedule tomorrow when they meet Morgan Park.

Hyde Park and Calumet are both in the play-offs, but their game tomorrow afternoon will decide which team takes third, and which takes the fourth spot.

Lane Juniors Unbeaten.

The Lane Tech juniors went thru a 10 game north section schedule undefeated. Sweeping by Steinmetz, their final opponent, 73 to 36, at Lane.

Lane's senior club also qualified for the play-offs by taking a 71 to 39 decision from Steinmetz.

Illinois Bill Would Bar Pro Boxing, Mat Shows

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 21.—A bill to prohibit boxing and wrestling matches for purses or where an admission fee is charged, was introduced today in the house of representatives by Rep. Granata [R., Chicago]. The prohibition would be for the duration of the war.

Major League All-Star Game Off for 1945

each other also may be eliminated.

Cancellation of exhibitions, it was explained, will not affect contests held on the home field of either team. In spring training games, teams based in the same city, such as the New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox in Atlantic City, will be allowed to meet, baseball men said.

In case two teams from the same city qualify for the world series, as did the St. Louis Cardinals and Browns last year, the big show will not be disturbed.

Frick pointed out that team rosters, when clubs are traveling, can be reduced on trips for short series. To illustrate, nine pitchers usually are carried by each team.

Time and war developments will tell whether the world series must be canceled but right now it falls into the same category under ODT's policy as the All-Star game, which "is out," as Frick expressed it.

Praises Game's Coöperation.

ODT Chief Johnson, in taking today's action, declared that baseball's coöperation in war time has been exemplary. In a prepared statement he said the game has "effected large economies in transportation" . . . "coöperated fully" and is an excellent travel deterrent. He added:

"Twenty thousand fans in the grandstand seats probably means several thousand less travelers in railroad and bus seats. In that way a comparatively reasonable amount of travel by baseball groups is a good investment in the general travel conservation economy.

"However, the transportation situation this year is so critical that I am asking baseball to effect such further economies as will permit the continuance of the national game."

200 VETS SEE TOWN CLUB'S WATER BALLET

Water ballets were presented last night at the Lake Shore club and the Town club. More than 200 patients from Gardiner General hospital were guests of the Town club's event which will be given for the public tonight, tomorrow night, and Saturday afternoon and night.

In addition to the drama in water given by the Town club synchronized swim team, a diving exhibition by Marilynne Miller, central A. A. U. champion, and Dorothy Ziegler, past champion, highlight the program. Professional talent provides comic relief in the show.

The Lake Shore production was a feature of Palm Beach night. Similar programs will be held in the club's pool the next four Wednesday nights.

NEW TRIER SWIM TEAM FAVORITE IN STATE MEET

New Trier High school, defending champion; Lane Tech, 1944 runner-up, and Oak Park High school will be in the role of favorites when the state high school swimming meet opens tomorrow in the New Trier pool in Winnetka.

Twenty-one schools have entered the meet, which will run thru Saturday afternoon. Preliminaries are scheduled to start at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow with the diving events. Swimming preliminaries will be held during the evening session, with the finals at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

New Trier Sets Two Marks.

Past performances point to New Trier retaining the title. Last week the Terriers won the Suburban league meet, after taking the Suburban league title in dual competition. In winnng the Suburban meet New Trier swimmers broke two league records, with Chuck Solberg lowering the 100 yard breast stroke and the undefeated relay team cracking a mark.

New Trier will base its hopes mainly on Solberg and Dick Lepman, both state champions, and the relay team of Howard Lehman, Bob Ellis, Don Kaufman, and Lepman.

Gibe Leads Lane Tech.

Lane Tech, which has won more state titles than any other team and which holds five of the eight state records, will be led by Robert Gibe in the free style events, Chuck Weber in the breast stroke, and are expected to count in the back stroke.

Dave Title, who last week broke the Suburban league mark for the 100 yard free style event, will lead the Oak Park team. The Oak Park fans also expect Bill Sutherland and Bob Trimborn to gain some points in the breast stroke and diving, respectively.

Illini Starting Quintet Is on Casualty List

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 21 (AP).—The University of Illinois basketball squad tonight had a casualty list of five—its entire starting quintet—as Coach Doug Mills tried to find a starting lineup for Friday night's important Western conference game with Ohio State.

"I don't know how many of them can play, and we haven't been able to work together since Monday night's game with Minnesota," Coach Mills moaned as he listed the following casualties:

Forward Johnny Orr, recurrence of a knee injury suffered in football.

Guard Junior Kirk, pulled groin muscle.

Guard Jack Burmaster and Center Walt Kersulis, hospitalized with bad colds.

"Orr and Kirk may get in shape for the game, but Judson is a very doubtful starter," Coach Mills said. "If Burmaster and Kersulis respond to treatment at the hospital, they may make it."

Illinois, now in second place in the conference, must beat Ohio State Friday and Iowa next week to fulfill its hopes of a championship.

23 MILLION SET FOR RECORD CAR POST-WAR TOURS

More than 23 million motorists are waiting only for the end of the war and the return of tires and unlimited gasoline supplies to begin the greatest travel boom in the history of the nation, if a survey just completed by the Chicago Motor club among its 127,000 members is a criterion of the desires of the nation's 20 million motorists.

"We have stored up a vast amount of wanderlust since the time when gasoline and tire regulations put the first curb on the use of the automobile," the report says. Survey figures show that 80 per cent of the club members are planning post-war motor trips.

The Alaskan highway is the vacation goal of the largest number. The report shows 19 per cent plan to travel over the new highway to Alaska. Other favored destinations are: Mexico, 16 per cent; Canada, 15; South America, 12; Pan-American highway, 11; Europe, 11; Pacific Islands, 9, and the orient, 7 per cent.

ALL AVAILABLE COPS ASSIGNED TO SOLVE DEATH IN HOTEL BATH

Lt. Philip Breitzke, head of the homicide bureau, yesterday ordered all available men in his department to aid in solving the mysterious bath tub death of Mrs. Blanche Zimmerman, 38, of 4025 W. 16th st., whose body was found Saturday in a room of the Atlantic hotel.

At the same time, Capt. Thomas Duffy of Central police telegraphed New Orleans [La.] authorities requesting a photostatic copy of the register of the hotel where Laura Fischer, 28, of New York was found dead Christmas eve under circumstances similar to those attending Mrs. Zimmerman's death. Miss Fischer had registered with a D. J. Stafford of Chicago, who checked out several hours before her body was found. The two registrations will be examined by handwriting experts.

John J. Grosch, chief of detectives in New Orleans, last night said that news of Mrs. Zimmerman's death had convinced him that Miss Fischer had not died of suffocation, as some investigators had said.

Police continued to search Chicago for a man who gave his name as J. H. Hanan of Dallas, Tex., who checked out of the Atlantic hotel room two hours before a maid discovered Mrs. Zimmerman's body.

EXPECTS LITTLE RECONVERSION THRU NAZI FALL

WPB Aid Warns Big Job Will Remain.

Only a small number of the facilities used for war production will be released for civilian manufacturing purposes immediately after the defeat of Germany, Robert A. Irwin, director of the procurement policy division of the war production board, predicted yesterday in an address before the Chicago Association of Commerce in the Palmer House.

"The WPB believes it will not be granting many nonnecessity certificates which certify that this or that facility has ceased to be vital to war production," Irwin said. "We might have granted some last fall, but not now. Personally, I think procurement will go on after the fall of Germany.

New Contracts to Replace Old.

"I don't believe many contracts will be terminated. As the war shifts to new areas and new types of equipment are needed, every effort will be made to award new contracts where old ones are running out. We want complete utilization of our plants until our war needs are met."

No nonnecessity certificates have been issued in the Chicago area, and it is doubtful that any have been issued in other parts of the country, ordnance officials said.

E. C. Wright, agent in charge of the Chicago bureau of internal revenue, said war manufacturers who accelerated production by adding one or more shifts and used equipment and machines thruout the day were entitled to increased depreciation rates.

How Rate May Be Raised.

"If for any reason depreciation is accelerated by reason of multiple shift operation, it must follow that the expected useful life is shortened to a point below that originally estimated in fixing the depreciation rate," he said.

Where factors of obsolescence, inadequacy, or decay control the useful life of buildings or equipment, however, he said no change from normal depreciation will be allowed.

"Any modification of normal depreciation must be confined to those items whose useful lives are controled by the factor use or wear and tear, allowable only to the extent which maintenance and repair fail to arrest acceleration of depreciation," he said.

GRAIN ELEVATOR LICENSE LAW OF CHICAGO UPHELD

A Chicago ordinance for the licensing of grain elevators is a regulatory measure, not in conflict with state or federal statutes, the Appellate court decided yesterday in reversing a decision of Circuit Judge Dunne that 13 companies operating elevators were entitled to a temporary injunction preventing enforcement of the ordinance.

The companies, which operate 20 elevators with a total storage capacity of 35 million bushels, had contended that the ordinance was only a revenue measure, but the city replied that the rule was necessitated by the fire hazard of grain storage. The decision, prepared by Justice Niemeyer, said the ordinance must be upheld unless the license fee of $600 yearly for elevators with a capacity of more than one million bushels and $300 for others is found to be excessive. Atty. Joseph B. Fleming represented the grain companies.

DETROIT REGION GETS BILLION IN NEW WAR ORDERS

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 21 (AP).—Nearly a billion dollars in new war contracts have been approved for placing in the 11th WPB region since Jan. 1, WPB announced today. The region includes Michigan's lower peninsula and six counties in Ohio.

The region received $23,139,429,000 in war contracts from the time of Pearl Harbor to Dec. 31, 1944, WPB said. That was 11.6 per cent of a national total of $209,148,168,000.

Wayne county [Detroit], with a cumulative total of $12,218,781,000, led the country in war contracts. Second nationally was Los Angeles [Cal.] county with $10,489,872,000. Cook county [Chicago] was third with $9,015,500,000.

Spencer Gets New U. of C. Professorship

Resignation of William H. Spencer as dean of the University of Chicago school of business to accept the newly established Hobart W. Williams distinguished service professorship at the university was announced yesterday by President Hutchins. Spencer will remain on leave as regional war man power commission director.

Spencer, dean of the school of business for the last 21 years, thru the war will continue to teach only in the evening courses of the executives' program at the school. After he returns from the WMC he will teach in the business and law schools and in the division of social sciences, specializing in problems involving relations between government and industry.

Committee to Nominate Successor.

President Hutchins has directed that a committee be appointed in the school of business to nominate a successor to Spencer.

"The appointment of Spencer is important as marking the University of Chicago's desire to explore a problem of the greatest importance to the nation: the relations between government and industry," Hutchins said.

Spencer has served as chairman of the Chicago regional labor board [predecessor of the national labor relations board], as referee for the national railroad adjustment board and of the national mediation board, and as regional director of the WMC since October, 1942.

Glad to Work in Important Field.

"I am deeply appreciative of the honor," he said. "I welcome the opportunity to spend the remaining years of my academic life in research, writing, and teaching in one of the most important fields of study progressive universities will have to maintain in the post-war period."

Spencer was graduated from Birmingham Southern college and received his bachelor and law degrees at the University of Chicago.

He served in World War I. in the war department's ordnance supply school, heading the school in 1918 with the rank of captain. He was made assistant professor at the university in 1919, associate professor in 1922, full professor in 1923, and dean of the school of business in 1924.

The chair created for Spencer is in honor of the late Hobart W. Williams of Cheshire, Conn., who had been a financial benefactor of the university in its early days.

WHEAT REACTS AFTER RISE ON FLOUR DEMAND

Government purchases of an estimated 400,000 sacks of flour yesterday for European relief purposes and removal of hedges in wheat futures against the flour business sent the May delivery up 1 cent a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade. Wheat reacted later, however, with weakness in other grains to close ⅛ to ⅝ cent higher. The May top of $1.65 was a peak since mid-January.

Corn ended ¼ cent higher to ⅛ cent lower after aggressive buying of the May future by a commission house. Oats lost ⅜ to ⅝ cent, rye ⅛ to ½, and barley ⅜ to ¾.

Farmers selling damp corn will lose an additional ¼ cent a bushel, effective Feb. 26, thru a revision in OPA regulations on discounts from contract price for grain testing 18 per cent or more moisture.

INCOMES IN CHICAGO AREA TOP THOSE OF SOUTHERN ILLINOIS

The average per capita incomes in 1939 [the last year for which data are available] in Cook and three neighboring counties were the highest in the state and about five times the average in the extreme southern part of the state, P. D. Converse, professor of marketing in the University of Illinois college of commerce, reported yesterday.

"Residents of Cook county had an aggregate income of $3,072,045,000 in 1939, compared with a total of $4,393,702,000 in the preceding census year of 1929," the report said. "This was an average per capita income of $756 in 1939, compared with $1,103 for 1929."

Cook county stood fourth in the state in per capita income, topped by three neighbors. Lake county averaged $1,115 in 1939 and $1,304 in 1929. In Du Page the average was $1,212 in 1939 and $1,945 in 1929. McHenry county's average was $983 in 1939 and $1,133 in 1929.

Incomes in the southernmost counties of Hardin and Pope were reported as $179 and $180, respectively, in 1939, and $239 and $228 in 1929.

Sears Reports 2 Million Book Sales by Club

The widening business scope of large mail order houses such as Sears, Roebuck & Co. is reflected in the Peoples Book club, an operation of Sears that was started about a year and a half ago. The books supplied to members are offered at $1.66 each, and more than 2 million have been sold, the company reported.

The method of selection differs from other book clubs in that instead of using the choice of a group of experts or of a single editor, the club's books are selected thru a readers' jury of club members named at random.

Extend Publishing Interval.

With the start of the club a nation-wide poll was made of book reading preferences, and in addition questionnaires sent to members established a cross-section of readers' wishes. The readers' jury, within the limits of the cross-section, receives copies of books, answers certain questions, and the books are scored on the jury's answers. The books scoring highest become the club choice.

Because of war time restriction on paper, the publishing schedule was lengthened to one book each six weeks, instead of the original one a month.

Britannica a Former Venture.

The books are published thru the coöperation of Sears Publishing Associates, Inc., and Consolidated Book Publishers, the company said.

This is not the first publishing venture of Sears, the company having owned Encyclopaedia Britannica from 1920 until it presented title to the encyclopaedia's 24 volumes to the University of Chicago in February, 1943. The university publishes the work.

Plenty of Jobs Predicted If All Co-operate

Private enterprise will provide 55 or 60 million productive, peace time jobs if government and labor adopt the proper attitudes, Whipple Jacobs, president of the Belden Manufacturing company, last night told the Office Management Association of Chicago in the Chicago Real Estate board dining room.

"Maximum employment, whatever figure it may reach, can be attained provided the government refrains from antagonisms, coöperates with business, removes restrictive shackles, adopts sane spending policies, allows incentives for risk capital, and permits the law of supply and demand to operate, and if labor gives a day's work for a day's pay," he said.

"Made Work" No Solution.

"I want to emphasize that I mean productive jobs as against jobs made by government, which are not productive in terms of useful goods and services. Remember that with the aid of made work and huge deficits piled up by the government, we still had about 9 million idle until the war came along. Obviously unproductive jobs and borrowing money to support them do not provide the answer."

An example of government antagonism toward business is the President's nomination of Henry Wallace for secretary of commerce, he said.

"Mr. Wallace is an outspoken opponent of business and the free competitive enterprise system," Jacobs asserted. "He has repeatedly attacked business and knows next to nothing about operating one. He has often expressed admiration for the communist order and advised America to follow suit. We in business are warranted in opposing his nomination. It is a most flagrant departure from the long established and sensible policy of filling cabinet posts with persons properly fitted for the work."

Some Price Rise Desirable.

Jacobs said an inflationary price spiral could be avoided after the war if prices are permitted to rise enough to activate the country's large productive facilities.

"We should expect and not fear some increases in prices," he said. "They are desirable in order to hasten readjustment. Once our industrial plants begin to turn out peace time goods, they can produce at a rate so high as to soon sop up existing excess purchasing power."

WARNS EXPORTS TO BRITAIN MAY BE MUCH LOWER

Many exporters in the United States face the loss of their business with Great Britain unless a more practical import policy is adopted by the United States, Neil C. Hurley Jr., president of Independent Pneumatic Tool company, said yesterday. He recently returned from a London mission for the foreign economic administration.

Explaining that for the last six years British exports to the United States have necessarily been much smaller than normal, Hurley said a Britain with no dollars to spend will have a vastly demoralizing effect on the exporting planned by most American manufacturers after the war.

"American industry has expanded much during the war and manufacturers, especially in the machine tool business, are looking for export markets to keep them close to their new production levels," he said. "Britain always has been our biggest competitor for export markets, but also has always been our biggest customer. But Britain does not at present and, unless something is done about it, will not have for some years hereafter sufficient dollars to buy all she wants from us."

NEW BUILDING THRU ILLINOIS DIPS IN MONTH

Building construction in 190 Illinois cities in January decreased 37 per cent in number of projects and 50 per cent in valuation, compared with December. A loss of 47 per cent in number and 11 per cent in value was shown against January, 1944.

The Illinois department of labor said 906 building permits were issued last month for projects valued at $2,481,023. In December there were 1,436 permits, at $4,985,091, and in January, 1944, 1,722 permits, at $2,786,070.

Residential building showed a larger decrease. Permits were issued for 200 home units to cost $977,800, compared with 530 at $2,685,465 in December, and 342 at $1,617,750 in January, 1944.

NEWLY FOUND OIL POOLS LIFT U. S. RESERVES

Production in 1944 Sets Record.

New York, Feb. 21 (AP).—Oil pools aggregating more than 2 billion barrels were located in the United States last year, increasing known reserves a net of 389 millions to 20,453,231,000 barrels, the American Petroleum institute reported today. It estimated 1944 crude oil production at a new record of 1,678,421,000 barrels.

Of the additional reserves found last year, 511,308,000 were in new pools and 1,556,192,000 barrels resulted from extensions of known fields.

Alabama Joins Producers.

Louisiana and Mississippi led in new discoveries, and Alabama joined the 25 other oil producing states in the year.

Texas continued to lead in aggregate reserves, its 11,375,480,000 equalling 55.6 per cent of the country's total known crude oil reserves.

Mentioning that figures are subject to revision as new and old pools are extended, the report commented:

"Known oil can be recovered only over a period of many years and at gradually declining annual rates. For this reason, those who, thru arbitrary division of the known reserves by any current rate of production or by any anticipated rate of consumption, try to estimate the life of proved reserves of oil, or the rate at which these reserves can be produced, arrive at an incorrect conclusion."

List Reserves by States.

By states, the institute's report estimated production and proved reserves at the end of 1944 [in thousands of barrels] as follows:

Alabama 43 and 317; Arkansas 29,441 and 293,059; California 311,771 and 3,344,552; Colorado 2,960 and 88,823; Illinois 77,296 and 320,714; Indiana 5,090 and 31,493; Kansas 99,030 and 601,751; Kentucky 9,677 and 41,080; Louisiana 129,556 and 1,573,387; Michigan 18,559 and 65,134; Mississippi 16,367 and 209,011; Montana 8,582 and 111,650; Nebraska 419 and 581; New Mexico 39,556 and 562,564; New York 4,694 and 85,831; Ohio 2,944 and 31,624; Oklahoma 124,747 and 970,262; Pennsylvania 14,185 and 123,138; Texas 747,790 and 11,375,480; West Virginia 3,084 and 40,755; Wyoming 32,569 and 581,730, and Florida, Missouri, Tennessee, Utah, and Virginia, combined, 61 and 295.

STEEL WORKERS IGNORE MURRAY PLEA; 8,500 OUT

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 21 (AP)—Defying a back-to-work order by CIO President Philip Murray, 8,500 employés left their jobs tonight in a work stoppage which shut down all war-vital production at the Pittsburgh works of Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation.

Company spokesmen said it was "impossible to estimate how many actually were on strike and how many others were forced to quit due to lack of materials or other reasons."

The walkout began yesterday when 700 maintenance men and boiler firemen left their posts because of an overtime grievance. Failure of coke oven operators and the firemen to work caused a shortage of gas and steam until the entire mill ceased activity.

Murray telegraphed leaders of the locals that the walkout constitutes a flagrant violation" of contract, no-strike commitments, and the constitution of the United Steel Workers of America.

HOG OFFERINGS DWINDLE; MEAT ORDERS PILE UP

Pressure against OPA ceilings increased in the market for hogs again yesterday at the stock yards as buyers "begged" for supplies from farms. The $14.75 a hundred pounds top was paid for nearly all hogs. The average of $14.70 was unchanged and about as high as possible under the two price ceiling. Packer spokesmen said unfilled meat orders were rising steadily.

The cattle selling wave, which has kept beef production high in comparison with pork, showed signs of ebbing. The run of 13,000 was the lightest for a Wednesday in five weeks. Steady to strong prices were paid for most steers, altho some under $16 rose 15 to 25 cents. Other classes were steady.

Sheep and lambs were unchanged.

Armour Head, Textile Union Criticize WLB Wage Rulings

Meat Ceiling Hike?

The war labor board decision granting so-called "fringe" wage increases to packinghouse workers was criticized yesterday by George A. Eastwood, president of Armour & Co., who asserted an increase in meat ceiling prices would be necessary to cover added expense.

The other four packer involved said they were not prepared to comment until they had received a copy of the order, issued Tuesday. They are Swift & Co., Wilson & Co., Cudahy Packing company, and John Morrell & Co.

Would Increase Costs.

Eastwood said that if the directive is permitted to go into effect, the cost of packinghouse operations would be increased materially and should result in the office of price administration authorizing increases in meat price ceilings to cover the added expense.

"We already have on file with the OPA and the emergency court protests growing out of the fact that maximum prices allowed by the OPA on fresh beef and pork do not permit full recovery of costs," he said. "This new WLB directive, if it becomes operative, will throw costs and meat ceiling prices still further out of proper adjustment."

Effectiveness of the order on items involving money was postponed until OPA decides whether the wage adjustments would necessitate price increases.

Union Ready to Bargain.

Officials of the CIO Packinghouse Workers ended a 2½ month Washington vigil awaiting the decision and left for Chicago to begin bargaining with the companies. Ralph Helstein, counsel, said the decision established important principles. Lewis J. Clark, union president, said he would call the negotiating committee together at once.

WLB directed the five packers to set up a commission to establish a standard wage structure for the industry. Clothing, tools, and sharpening of tools were made company expenses, also for the first time. The guaranteed work week at all companies would be increased from 32 to 36 hours. Principal union involved was the CIO unit, representing 125,000 employes of the five packers.

Asks CIO to Secede

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21 (AP).—The CIO Textile Workers union assailed the war labor board decision in its wage case today as "meaningless" and refused to end a strike threat.

WLB's ruling in the CIO packinghouse Workers' case, similar in nature, met favorable labor reception. Union leaders hailed it as establishing important principles but warily reminded employers that relations still hinge on bargaining.

The board, in decisions released last night, granted wage adjustments, subject to approval of Economic Stabilizer Vinson with whom it is disputing over policy. WLB authorized immediate negotiation of features not directly involving money.

Asks CIO to Quit WLB.

In New York the textile union's national executive council asked the CIO to withdraw from WLB unless the board's "original authority to function as a decision making body, acting in the interest of equal justice, be reëstablished."

Emil Rieve, union president, announced his resignation as an alternate labor member of WLB "in protest against the usurpation of its functions and of the plain fact that the board has now been reduced to little more than a rubber stamp." The resolution calling for the CIO withdrawal declared Stabilization Director Vinson responsible for "usurpation of the powers and authority vested by executive order in WLB," resulting in the board's "present impotence."

No-Strike Pledge Canceled.

The union yesterday released 100,000 cotton-rayon workers from their no-strike pledge a few hours before WLB granted an increase in minimum pay and a general boost to retain geographical and job differentials. The wage increase, however, was made contingent on the outcome of the WLB dispute with Vinson, who wants the OPA to have the power to veto such "fringe" adjustments which might raise prices.

Rieve said the no-strike pledge release "still stands." He termed the WLB decision meaningless, "a paper order" which would not raise the wages of a single worker. "The case is still where it was two months ago—in Vinson's vest pocket."

FHA DIVIDENDS ON INSURANCE TOTAL $288,000

Dividends to 13,000 home owners who paid for their federal housing administration insured loans during 1944 will run from $1.81 to $20 per $1,000 of mortgages and will total $288,000, Edward J. Kelly, Illinois FHA administrator, said yesterday. Payments will be received in two or three months.

The dividends will be paid from credit balances accrued from premiums paid by home buyers on federal insurance policies covering the mortgages, Kelly said. Because the distribution will be handled from Washington, the Chicago FHA offices have no information as to the size of individuals' dividends.

American Rolling Mill's Estimated Profit Smaller

Consolidated net income of the American Rolling Mill company for 1944 after a $2,240,000 special contingency reserve were estimated at $5,065,000, or $1.05 a common share, the company said yesterday. Net income was $6,098,074, or $1.42 a share, in 1943, when only $1,000 was set aside for contingencies.

SMALL PLANTS DENIED ORDERS, SAYS MAVERICK

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21 [Special].—Army refusal to accept facilities of many small plants for production of medium shells because of its insistence that production be allocated only by stated areas was reported today by Maury Maverick, WPB vice chairman and chairman of the Smaller War Plants corporation, to WPB Chairman Krug. Most of the work finally went to large plants in "critical labor areas," he said.

The army's need for medium shells was "presented urgently" last Nov. 5, Maverick said. A canvass found 237 plants which could do the work, but the army decided to allocate parts of the shell program to various areas of the country.

"Of the 52 small plants scheduled for awards, 27 are in critical labor areas and 25 noncritical," said Maverick. "Of the 75 large plants, 55 are in critical and 20 in noncritical labor areas. Of the 78 small plants designated by the SWPC which were approved by ordnance district offices but are not getting contracts, 43 are in critical labor areas and 35 are not. Field studies indicate that even in the plants in critical areas no additional man power is required.

SENATORS CLOSE MEXICAN WATER TREATY HEARING

Washington, D. C., Feb. 21 (AP).—The senate foreign relations committee concluded today its lengthy hearing on the proposed United States-Mexico treaty for distribution of waters of the Colorado river and Rio Grande.

Last witness before the committee was Rep. Lea [D., Cal.] who presented a protest against the treaty signed by all 23 California members of the house of representatives.

They argued that Mexico's share of the Colorado river should be limited to 750,000 acre-feet annually, the amount claimed to be used prior to construction of Boulder dam.

Chairman Connally [D., Tex.] said the committee probably will not vote on the treaty until his return from the inter-American conference in Mexico City, probably early in March.

STOCKS BREAK ON SPECULATOR TAX PROPOSAL

Late Recovery Cuts Closing Losses.

Market Holiday

Securities and commodities exchanges and banks will be closed today in observance of Washington's birthday. Live stock markets will remain open.

New York, Feb. 21 (AP).—Stocks fell 1 to more than 2 points early today on Reserve Board Chairman Eccles' recommendation of additional taxes on war time speculative profits, but the market reduced losses toward the close.

Most favorites finished down, but substantially above their lowest levels. Golds, coppers, and a few industrial specialties gained fractions to 2 points on late buying associated with inflationary thoughts.

The market was vulnerable to "bad news" after its long advance to seven year highs and Eccles' tax ideas were so interpreted by Wall Streeters.

Some of Strong Issues.

Stocks closing with a show of strength included American Smelting, up 2 points; International Nickel, up 1½; Dome Mines, up 1¼; Allied Chemical, up 2½; Montgomery Ward, up 1⅛; Howe Sound, up 1; and Homestake Mining, up 2½.

Off fractions to a point were Chrysler, General Motors, Bethlehem Steel, Goodyear, Santa Fe, Great Northern, Johns-Manville, and Douglas Aircraft.

The Associated Press 60 stock composite declined 0.2 to 61.8. Transactions totaled 1,720,000 shares, against 1,770,000 Tuesday.

The short position in listed stocks increased slightly more than 105,000 shares between Jan. 31 and Feb. 15, the exchange said in the first report covering such activities in the middle of a month. Most of the increase was in shares of railroads.

BONDS DRIFT UNEVENLY.

New York, Feb. 21 (AP).—The bond market drifted irregularly lower today altho selling was never large and favorites in all groups drew consistent support. Declines of fractions to a point or more were more numerous in the rails than in others, but some of the best gains also were in that group.

The majority of secondary rails and active utilities and industrials closed within fractions of yesterday's prices. United States government issues were steady.

Declines of more than 8 points in the two Russian Czarist bonds on the Curb followed disclosure by the treasury department that an investigation had been made into the recent rise and denials that any plan that would benefit them was in prospect.

CHICAGO PRICES DIP.

Prices turned lower yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Turnover decreased further to 58,000 shares. Volume leaders included Aviation Corporation and Admiral, each up ⅛; Asbestos Manufacturing and Central and South West Utilities, unchanged; and Chicago Corporation, down ⅛. Four issues set new highs.

20,000 PER WEEK REQUEST JOBLESS PAY IN MICHIGAN

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 21 (AP).—Claims for compensation are reaching the Michigan unemployment compensation commission at a rate of about 20,000 weekly, Eugene T. Dormer, deputy executive director, said today. They have averaged 18,000 to 20,000 a week since Dec. 1.

Nearly all are for the maximum of $20 weekly and more than half of them are filed by workers in the Detroit area, he said. Man power problems in Detroit currently are being studied by a senate committee.

Most of the men filing claims are construction and building trades workers experiencing seasonal unemployment, Dormer said. However, men represent only about one-third of total claimants. Women applicants are mostly inspectors laid off at war plants because of cutbacks or increased efficiency of operations.

PERSONAL INCOME TAX—7.

Special rules, among the most complicated in the income tax law and regulations, must be followed by individual taxpayers in determining the tax status of gains and losses from the sale or exchange of property classed as "capital assets." Under certain limitations, such gains must be included in gross income. Losses, likewise under limitations, may be deducted from gross income. Sales of such assets must be listed on a separate form known as schedule D or otherwise itemized.

The kinds of capital assets with which most individual owners are ordinarily concerned are stocks and bonds, and real estate and other property not used in their trade or business. It should be noted, however, that, altho the gain on a sale of the taxpayer's own residence is a capital gain which must be reported, a loss in this case cannot be deducted. The same rules applies to such other personal items as an automobile not used in business, jewelry, and home furnishings.

A commodity speculator who buys futures contracts, not as a hedge against a business inventory but with a view to a profit, is dealing in capital assets.

In general, capital assets are defined as all property held by the taxpayer, with the following exceptions: Stock in trade or other assets properly included in his business inventory; property held primarily for sale to customers in the ordinary course of his business; depreciable business property and real property used in the taxpayers' business [which are subject to special treatment for tax purposes]; short term federal or state obligations issued on or after March 1, 1941, on a discount basis.

Increment in value of United States savings and war bonds, issued at a discount and payable at par at maturity, is not taxed as a capital gain in the year in which the bonds are cashed. It is taken into account as income in the manner descfibed in last Saturday's article of this series.

Gains or losses from the sale or exchange of capital assets are classed as short term or long term, according to the holding period. If the asset was held not more than six months before sale, any resulting gain or loss is classed as short term. If the property was held longer than six months, the gain or loss from sale is long term. The distinction is important because a net short term gain, not offset by a long term loss, is included in gross income in full. The full amounts of short term gains and losses—but only one-half of the long term gains and losses—are taken into account to determine the net capital gain or loss on all transactions during the year.

Thru an alternative tax plan, the maximum tax on a net long term capital gain over a short term capital loss, if any, is in effect limited to 25 per cent of the actual gain.
